Two Babies.
Presidential Fish.
We Buy Gold.
Nice, New Money? Hardly.

By ARTHUR BRISBANE

IN TROY, N. Y., a girl baby is born weighing 24 ounces, one pound and a half, is in a hospital incubator and may live. What a blessing for mothers if such births could come, regularly. The serpent and the apple prevented it, and put in Genesis the ominous words addressed to Eve:

"In sorrow thou shalt bring forth children."

Nature is kinder to the female grizzly bear. She weighs, sometimes, 1,000 pounds, and in the darkness of her hibernating period her baby is born weighing less than the 24-ounce baby of Troy, and born with a head no bigger than the end of your thumb.

FIVE MONTHS old Robert —, no need to mention his name since he is gone, was not wanted after he arrived in this world. His mother married a young man, and told him Robert was not his son.

The mother left with the baby, and a little later, the child was taken from the river, dead. The mother confessed:

"I threw my baby overboard. I had no way of making a living. It was being raised without a daddy, so I drowned it."

LOCAL COURTS will decide what ought to be done about her. A higher court will decide what to do about the baby. It was baptized eight days before it was drowned, water sprinkled on its face, and, in the opinion of various religions, this will save the baby from perdition, or, at least, from an uncomfortable residence in "limbo" in the world to come. The 18-year-old mother asked to see her dead baby, and officials decided that she might leave the jail, and see it.

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT humorously protesting against his son's statement, "father isn't much of a fisherman," was cruising up the coast of Florida yesterday to meet reporters about 50 miles southeast of Miami, near North Cat Bay. Theoretically, the President wants to prove to newspaper men that he is a good fisherman.

The wise old reporters believe that the actual idea is to let reporters see for themselves that there is nothing in the foolish rumor that serious illness has caused the President to prolong his fishing vacation.

MAY FIRST, according to the President's proclamation, will be "Child Health Day." The best way to promote child health is to encourage abundant distribution of the right kinds of food for children, particularly good, fresh milk, butter, eggs, fresh vegetables, fruits, at reasonable prices.

To pay farmers to cut down production of such things, and force up prices, may be good for prosperity, but it will not be good for the health of children.

SINCE UNCLE SAM went off the gold basis and began buying gold at any price he had to pay he has brought across the water about seven hundred million dollars' worth of new gold, an increase in our gold reserve greater than the total gold ownership of any other nation on earth, except France, England and Spain.

This makes Europe feel dubious about "selling dollars short." To go off the gold, and then own nearly all of it, is confusing. We might get back "on."

A BILL will be introduced in Congress to print two thousand, five hundred million dollars' worth of nice, new money, a mere trifle in these happy spending days, the money to be used clearing off mortgages on farms.

Congressman Lemke, of North Carolina, says:

"The measure would give farmers, now paying ten and a half per cent on their debts, a chance to re-finance them for three per cent."

The British government compelled Irish landlords to sell to peasants at reasonable prices and financed the purchasing for those peasants on a three per cent basis, over nearly half a century. Under the Free State the Irish have stopped paying and keep the land.

YOU WILL HAVE statesmen saying:

"No, we will NOT print two and a half billions of nice new money, but we WILL print two and a half billion dollars worth of interest-bearing bonds, and pay in the end five billions to clear them off, two and a half billions for the farmers, two and a half billions in interest to financiers."

That is the American plan. Guess who invented and is maintaining it?

WHILE THOUSANDS of automobiles were traveling on Sunday on New York's scenic highway along the Hudson near West Point a landslide, bringing down huge rocks, killed three persons in their automobiles, wounded three others.

Thousands of miles of such highways, recently constructed, have newly constructed banks towering above them. There should be some way of testing the safety of such improvised precipices, some way of making landslides impossible.

In California, on the road that leads from the coast over the Cajon Pass, to the Mojave Desert, the more dangerous cuts were patrolled in the dangerous season, and lately they have been made safe by slanting back the walls, and building artificial ledges.

IN THE STROUD, Okla., prison, young Mr. Raymond Boles, if that is his right name, knows that young, shrinking, timid American girls are some-

PINCHOT'S SPEECH ON AIR AGAIN

KDKA Blames Poor Reception for Last Night's Mixup

While controversy raged today over radio station KDKA's action in cutting off a scheduled speech by Gov. Gifford Pinchot last night, the station announced that Pinchot would broadcast the same speech over its facilities at 6 o'clock this evening.

From Washington came announcement from the Federal Radio Commission that no complaints had been received by the commission and that the incident would not receive official notice until such a complaint was filed and considered.

In making the announcement that the Governor would go on the air tonight, officials of KDKA stood firm on their statement that they had canceled the original broadcast owing to poor transmission from Harrisburg.

TRANSMISSION O. K.

C. R. Freehafer, general commercial manager of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company here, said that as far as his company knew the transmission was all right at the time of the scheduled speech last night. He said that there had been some trouble with the testing prior to the time set for the address, but that this had apparently been eliminated in time for the broadcast.

Freehafer said a further check would be made to see if any mechanical trouble could be located.

The speech was relayed over the A. T. & T. wires to station WIP at Philadelphia and the reception there was reported "good."

BLAME MECHANICS

Judge Ralph H. Smith, Allegheny County manager for Gov. Pinchot in his campaign for nomination to the United States Senate, said today:

"Personally I have not the slightest suspicion that KDKA was doing anything other than endeavoring to maintain its usually high standard of mechanical efficiency in transmission."

Judge Smith said that when the speech failed to come on the air

Cries for Help Heard, Police Drag River

River Patrolman Charles Snyder today was dragging the Monongahela River at the South Tenth Street Bridge after an occupant of a houseboat and a Baltimore and Ohio Railroad brakeman informed police they heard cries for help come from the direction of the water last night.

George Murshock, who lives in a houseboat, and J. V. Foley, brakeman, said they heard the cries three times.

Mrs. Edison Rescues Auto Crash Victims

FORT MYERS, Fla., April 10.—(AP.)—Mrs. Thomas A. Edison, widow of the inventor, pulled three persons from their overturned automobile and administered first aid from a kit in her own car, it was revealed today.

The accident occurred Saturday, but Mrs. Edison asked that nothing be said of her part.

Italy to Arraign 'Big Mike' for Volpe Slayings

NAPLES, Italy, April 10.—(AP.)—The procurator general of the court of Naples today issued a warrant for the arrest of "Big Mike" Spinelli, wanted in Pittsburgh for murder.

The warrant likewise charges him with murder, the crime for which the United States government requested his extradition. The extradition was granted previously by the Court of Naples, the Court of Appeal, and the Supreme Court, but was denied by the Minister of Justice, Pietro de Francisci.

On the basis of the new warrant, Spinelli will be tried shortly by the Court of Assize at Salerno.

Spinelli was indicted here for the murder of Arthur, James and John Volpe in a Wylie avenue coffee shop in 1932. He was tracked to his native town of Agropoli, near Naples, where he once served as acting mayor.

The Volpe family came from Agropoli.

Spinelli's picture was identified by a mysterious blonde girl as that of the man she claims to have seen slay John Volpe, according to city detectives.

Mrs. Massie 'Never To Return to U. S.'

GENOA, April 10.—(INS.)—"I will never return to the United States," Mrs. Thalia Fortescue Massie told doctors and nurses today in the clinic where she is recuperating after an attempt at suicide aboard the liner Roma.

The conditions of Mrs. Massie, central figure in the assault and murder case in Honolulu two years ago, was such that Dr. Emilio Borelli asked the American consol to write her cousin at Taormina, Sicily, to come here.

PITTSBURGH COAL 'PLOT' CHARGED

Fairmont Mine Owners Assail Morrow And O'Neil

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, April 10.—(AP.)—Two members of the Western Pennsylvania Coal Code Authority were charged with trying to destroy the Fairmont (W. Va.) fields today, as NRA authorities continued the hearing on the code for the bituminous coal industry.

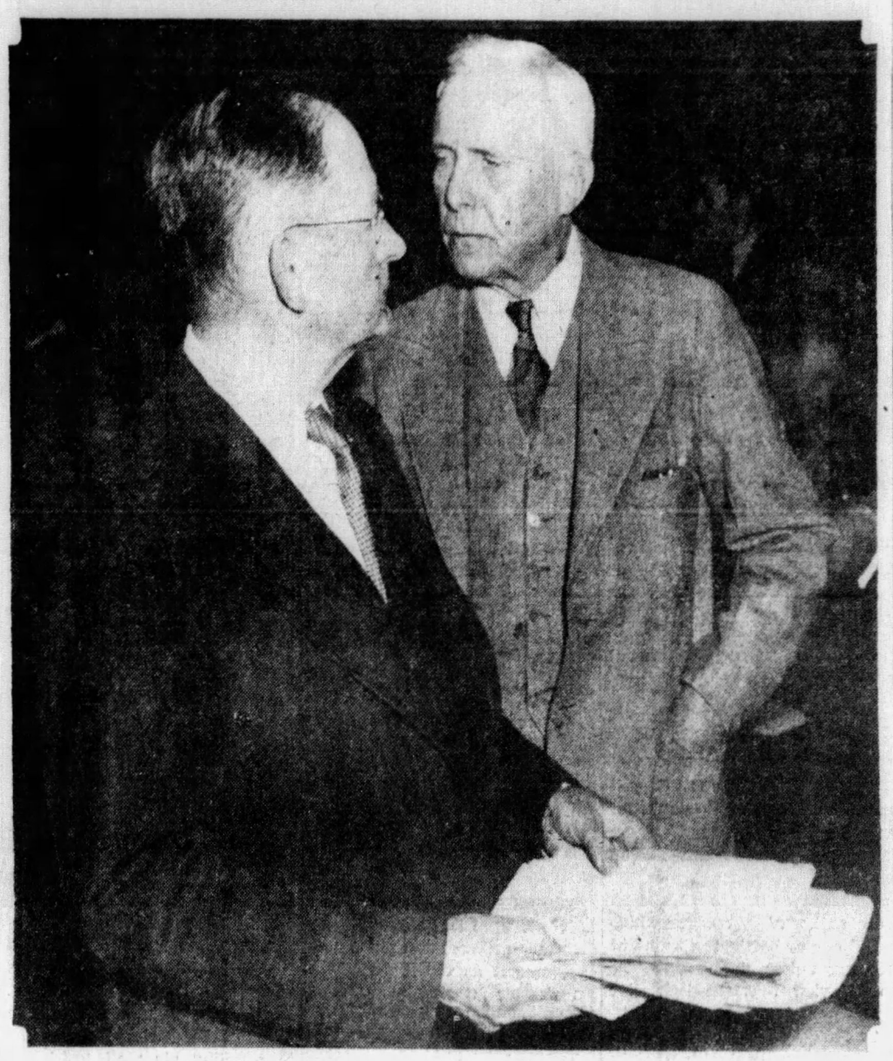
The charges were made by J. E. Snyder, vice president of the Consolidated Coal Company, of Fairmont. He named J. D. A. Morrow, president of the Pittsburgh Coal Company, and Charles O'Neil, of Peale, Peacock and Kerr.

Morrow and O'Neil are members of the Western Pennsylvania Coal Code Authority which drafted the seven-hour-day amendment and fixed a new rate of $5 a day for the Appalachian field.

In increasing the rate for this field, the Fairmont district was increased from $4.36 and the Pittsburgh field was increased from $4.60. Snyder and Fred A. Krafft, also of Fairmont, demanded that the 25-cent differential previously enjoyed by Fairmont be continued.

Krafft pointed out that 18,000 miners are idle at present in the Fairmont fields, as the result of the decree issued on March 31 by Recovery Administrator Hugh S. Johnson.

Dr. Wirt Before House Committee



DR. WILLIAM A. WIRT

Dr. Wirt, the Indiana educator, and his counsel, the former U. S. Senator, pictured today at Washington as they appeared before a House committee sitting expressly to hear Dr. JAMES A. REED Wirt elaborate on his charges that Roosevelt administration aides were plotting a revolution that would bring Communism. This is an International News Photograph Service picture.

GAG CHARGE MADE BY G. O. P.

But Subpenas Loom For Those Identified In 'Revolt' Story

WASHINGTON, April 10.—(AP.)—Naming "brain trusters and their satellites" as his informants, Dr. William A. Wirt indicated today that he traces back to Dr. Rexford Guy Tugwell—assistant secretary of agriculture—his conviction that a plot exists to "overthrow the social order."

For two sensation-studded hours he recounted his fears to the House investigating committee, while a massed crowd followed his words.

Repeated attempts were made to limit Wirt's testimony to pro-revolution assertions he said he had heard from presidential advisers, but just as insistently he teempted to quote from public statements by Tugwell and Secretary Wallace. Each time he was stopped.

GAG CHARGED

This brought declarations by Republican committeemen that he was being "gagged." Representative McGugin (Rep.), of Kansas, called the procedure "un-American."

Dr. Wirt's story started with an account of a dinner, attended by him, two men and three women associated with the administration, and the representative here of the Soviet News Agency, Tass. The last-named, Lawrence Todd, he quoted as saying President Roosevelt was "in mid-stream" and could not turn back from the "revolution."

Wirt's testimony gave rise to indications that those named would be subpenaed in the House investigation.

Wirt did not complete his statement, and will continue tomorrow.

SUBPENAE LIKELY

Meanwhile, it evidently was planned to catt at least Todd and Miss Hildegarde Kneeland, the latter a Department of Agriculture economist, for their versions of the conversations related by Wirt. Todd denied to reporters that he had said, as Wirt asserted, that President Roosevelt was "the Kerensky" of a revolution and would be succeeded by a "Stalin."

The committee arranged to meet late in the day to decide on procedure.

Speaker Rainey expressed the opinion Wirt's allegations "have been shown to be sily, but if we call these additional persons, his statements will get sillier and sillier."

Representative Lehlbach (Rep.) of New Jersey, a mamber of the committee, disagreed with the "sily" judgment, and told reporters:

"I think Dr. Wirt got off to a very good start. His testimony at least shows the necessity of making a thorough investigation."

DOUGLAS MENTIONED

Toward the close of today's session, Wirt suggested that the committee summon Lewis W. Douglas, Budget Director, and W. I. Westervelt, Chicago businessman formerly with the Farm Ad-

6-MONTH TERM FOR TOM DOLAN

Second of the Three Toms, reputed bosses of the Monaca Club, was sentenced to six months in jail today by Judge Thomas M. Marshall.

Tom Dolan today was given the same sentence which yesterday was given Tom (Goose) Goslin.

The third, Tom Coyne, is fighting for a new trial. All three were convicted two weeks ago as proprietors of the gambling casino in the Oakland club.

Dolan's counsel, A. Lincoln Cohen, pleaded that Dolan and his family were destitute. Cohen made a passing reference to the union of politics and the rackets.

Judge Marshall said:

"I don't think that Dolan made any money out of this, but the court cannot be merciful after such defiance of the law."

However, Judge Marshall allowed Dolan to remain at liberty, under bond, until Monday, when his counsel indicated Dolan was trying to raise money to pay his rent.

Fire Delays Making Of Artificial Limbs

Fire broke out today in the plant of the Union Artificial Limb Company, 111 Smithfield street, and stopped the manufacture of wooden legs for a few minutes.

The fire started from an overheated pan of paraffine, used for moulding of limbs. J. J. Mount and J. J. Vollmer, proprietors, put out the blaze before firemen arrived.

ASTOR PARENTS WIN AWARD

International News Service.

LOS ANGELES, April 10.—Beautiful, dark-eyed Mary Astor, film actress, must pay her parents $100 a month to keep them in food and other necessities of life in their $200,000 mansion in the Hollywood hills.

This was the ruling announced today by Superior Judge Dudley S. Valentine, who ordered that the actress shall pay this sum to her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Otto Langhanke, pending trial of their failure to provide suit against Miss Astor.

The parents, seated quietly in the courtroom with their hands folded in their laps, made no comment on the judge's ruling. Miss Astor was not in court today, nor was she present when the hearing began yesterday on an order to show cause why Miss Astor should not be required to support her father and mother pending trial of their suit.

Club Liquor Sales On Sunday in Court

The troublesome question of whether chartered clubs in Pittsburgh and the rest of Pennsylvania may sell liquor on Sunday to members and guests will be settled in the courts.

Today, in Philadelphia, Judge James Gay Gordon, Jr., gave as his opinion that such sales were not illegal. Nevertheless he revoked the license of a Philadelphia club so that the issue can be decided by the Pennsylvania Supreme Court.

Cold Keeps Pershing Confined to Bed

LINCOLN, Neb., April 10.—(INS.)—Gen. John J. Pershing was ill in bed today with a severe cold that has kept him confined for several days. The general had planned to attend a Forty-and-Eight meeting of A. E. F. veterans, but greeted the members instead through a telephone hookup.

Robinson, Former Navy Aide, Dying

HERKIMER, N. Y., April 10.—(AP.)—Suffering from pneumonia, Theodore Douglas Robinson, former assistant Secretary of the Navy, was reported by one of his attending physicians today as "unlikely to live through the day."

Wirt Charges Demand Thorough Investigation

There may be nothing in Dr. Wirt's charges or they may be a matter of very serious moment to the nation.

Nothing will determine this question but a thorough investigation.

The politicians in Washington may want to laugh the matter off for their own benefit.

They may want to smother the investigation.

They may want to make sure that Dr. Wirt does not have an opportunity to establish his charges.

In such case, the investigation will not satisfy the public and will not benefit the politicans.

The only way to dispose of Dr. Wirt's charges is to have them absolutely proved or disproved.

There is no objection to their being disproved.

That is what every good American must hope will happen.

But there is objection to their being smothered and not given proper and impartial investigation.

Ritzy Dog Resents Slurs Of Low Bred Pup

LOS ANGELES, April 10.—(AP.)—"Abusive language" as used by one dog to another became a matter of court record today in an answer filed by Lewis A. Barnard to the $2,000 damage suit of Mrs. Lillian C. Fischer.

In the words of the answer, the breach of canine etiquette took place as follows:

"The plaintiff . . . asked to see our dog; that she wanted our dog to make friends with hers. She walked right up to our dog and held her dog's head to our dog's head, her dog still barking and growling.

"Evidently he used insulting and abusive language as it was very apparent our dog was grieved, irked, humiliated and driven to desperation by the audacity of such a little upstart coming into our front yard and addressing him, an aristocrat, in such a manner.

"Our dog made a spring at plaintiff's dog as any self-respecting dog would have done under similar circumstances. Plaintiff moved suddenly and was bitten in the side when our dog missed his objective."

Mrs. Fischer asks $1,926 general damages and $74 for doctor bills and ruined clothing.

Assassins Attempt To Kill Rivera Son

MADRID, April 10.—(AP.)—Assassins today missed in an attempt to kill Jose Antonio Primo de Rivera, son of the former dictator of Spain, and himself leader of the Fascist movement.

COUZENS TAX BOOST LOSES

WASHINGTON, April 10.—(AP.)—The Senate today rejected the Couzens emergency proposal to add 10 per cent to all individual tax returns next year.

The action followed rejection of the King schedule proposing increases in income and surtax rates over the Finance Committee scales which would have added an estimated 40 million dollars in revenue.

The additional 10 per cent tax, estimated to yield another 55 million dollars for recovery needs in the one year it would operate, would have been applied to the amount of normal income tax and surtaxes due in 1935 on 1934 income. For example, a person owing $100 in taxes would have been required to pay $110.

The vote was 46 to 44 against the Couzens amendment, but Senator Couzens changed from aye to no before the decision was announced in order to move for reconsideration.

New McNair Manor Plans Abandoned

Plans for the new brick McNair Manor, which was to have been erected at the Boulevard of the Allies and Bates street, Oakland, have been abandoned, it was announced today by Attorney Kivie Wolfe.

Wolfe, sponsor of the proposal, said a lot will be purchased later in order to erect a permanent McNair Manor.

Stove Plant Strikers In 20-Minute Clash

DETROIT, April 10.—(AP.)—A 20-minute renewal of disorders attending the strike at the Detroit-Michigan Stove Works plant in East Jefferson avenue this noon resulted in numerous minor injuries and the arrest of two men. The clash came when men who remained at work in the plant and strike pickets came together at the luncheon hour.

Red Menace in U. S. Denied by Strauss

PARIS, April 10.—(AP.)—Talk that America is going communistic is "entirely unjustified," Jesse I. Strauss, United States ambassador to Paris, said today in reassuring British diplomats and businessmen, at a luncheon of the British Advisory Committee Club, on European fears resulting from the "brain trust" investigation.

3 Boys in 'Crime Wave' Fall Asleep in Field

Tiring after embarking on a life of crime, three boys whose ages range between 9 and 11 years, were discovered by police sleeping in a field off Fifty-fourth street early today, their covering a frayed piece of carpet.

Taken to East Liberty Police Station they admitted, police said, they had stolen a .38-caliber revolver from an automobile parked in King avenue and then attempted to hold up Andrew Homer, 28, of 5506 Celedine street. Homer took the gun away and chased them off.

Later they entered the home of Mrs. D. C. Barr, of 5517 Camelia street, obtained $1.15 from a purse and then attempted to break into a chain store in McCandless avenue.

Then it was that sleep overtook them.

Police investigating a barking dog in Fifty-fourth street, stumbled across the boys huddled together under their scanty covering. They were turned over to Juvenile Court authorities.

EARLY CONGRESS ACTION ON BANK BILL HELD ASSURED

ONE-MAN SHOW ENDS AS NRA POLICY

Big Business Methods For Department From Now On

WASHINGTON, April 10.—(AP)—The NRA has gone "department store." From today on, one man signs codes, another hires executives, another sees that everybody's efforts run along the same track.

With NRA responsibility and supervision extending into every Main street and half the side streets of the country, with almost 400 codes and nearly 3,000 Washington employes, the old one-man show has suddenly become a thing of the past.

Hugh S. Johnson, the big boss, clears his desk of small stuff and settles back to deal only with the biggest customers and the toughest situations.

As if celebrating the new freedom, he is in Florida today, en route to join President Roosevelt for a brief vacation.

The department store idea was adopted with reluctance. Johnson often said responsibility for every decision had to be his own and that he picked his men so that—in language typically Johnsonese—"they wouldn't get the pants traded off 'em."

But finally there were too many men, and too many things kept happening — automobile strikes, coal wage deadlocks, crises big and little—so that the plan of a general staff was adopted.

SENATE FAVORS SILVER BILL

WASHINGTON, April 10.—(AP.)—The Senate Agriculture Committee today reported favorably the Dies silver-farm relief bill carrying the Thomas amendment for nationalization of the white metal.

The amendment by Senator Thomas (Dem.), of Oklahoma, provides for unlimited purchase of the metal until it reached a gold price of $1.29 an ounce or until the 1926 commodity price level was attained.

The Dies bill provides for the acceptance of silver from other nations at a premium of 25 per cent over the world price in exchange for American surplus crops.

Thomas said the committee was unanimous.

Nationalizing the metal means the government would take possession—just as it did with the gold supply.

Thomas said:

"If you pass this bill you'll see things begin to move. People abroad who want American products will buy silver in order to make their purchases most advantageously. It is a bill which will get results."

CITY ANSWERS METER SUITS

City Solicitor Cornelius D. Scully today filed an answer in Common Pleas Court to suits filed by a group of utilities in an attempt to have the city's meter tax declared unconstitutional.

Scully's answer to the utilities' claims that the ordinance is confiscatory, discriminatory or an undue burden on the plaintiff companies or the consumers.

He set forth that the ordinance is constitutional under the federal and state laws.

The companies seeking to have the $2 meter tax declared illegal are the Duquesne Light Company, the Manufacturers Light & Heat Company, Allegheny County Steam Heating Company, Equitable Gas Company, Peoples Natural Gas Company, South Pittsburgh Water Company and the Bell Telephone Company of Pennsylvania.

WAGNER BILL CHANCES DIM

WASHINGTON, April 10.—(AP.)—Democratic leaders held privately today that the chances for enacting the controversial Wagner labor board bill at this session were slim.

Senator Wagner (Dem.), of New York, author of the measure which would outlaw employer-dominated company unions, nevertheless held to the view that the legislation had a fine chance of enactment.

The New York Senator was particularly pleased with what he said was an "ok" placed on the bill by Hugh S. Johnson, NRA administrator, before his departure for the South yesterday to confer with President Roosevelt.

In a letter saying "a series of misadventures" had prevented his appearance at hearings on the bill, Johnson said he wished Wagner "every success with your bill."

The Blue Eagle chief made flat declaration that he favored continuance of the National Labor Board, which the bill would make permanent, saying "he would and must have a supreme court of industrial relations."

COURT FREES 11 IN HOTEL STRIKE

Seven men and two women, arrested yesterday in a parade of strikers around the William Penn Hotel, were discharged this morning by Magistrate J. W. McGowan in Central Police Court.

The strikers were arrested by Lieut. Dennis Henessey, who said he warned them they must be orderly and quiet in their demonstrations around the hotel.

Two other striking employes of the hotel, arrested for "sympathy" picketing of the Liberty Restaurant at 925 Federal street, were discharged by Magistrate Brown.

The strikers, Ida Chemola, 21, of 38 Fernando street, and Martha Boycle, 22, of 1315 Fifth avenue, testified the picketing was in protest against discharge of two of the restaurant's employes.

Baker to Head Probe Of Army Mail Flying

Ex-War Secretary Takes Post Which Lindy Refused

WASHINGTON, April 10.—(AP.)—Newton D. Baker, wartime Secretary of War, today accepted appointment as chairman of the Army's air corps investigating committee upon which Col. Charles A. Lindbergh declined to serve.

Secretary Dern, announcing the acceptances of five other civilians to aid Army generals in making the military aviation inquiry, said the first meeting would be held here late this week or early next.

The investigation, planned by the War Department itself, stepped into national focus following a list of tragedies suffered by Army airmail in flying the mail.

CIVILIANS ACCEPT

The Secretary of War said the following civilians in addition to Baker had accepted places on the committee of 11:

Dr. Karl Taylor Compton, president of Massachusetts Institute of Technology; Dr. George W. Lewis, director of aeronautical research for the National Advisory Committee on Aeronautics; Clarence D. Chamberlin, noted trans-Atlantic flyer; Maj. James H. Doolittle, widely-known flier and aeronautical engineer; Edgar S. Gorrell, president, Stutz Motor Car company.

The military members of the committee who already compose the "drum board" for continuous study of the Air Corps needs are headed by Maj. Gen. Hugh A. Drum, assistant chief of staff, who will serve as vice chairman and include Maj. Gen. Benjamin D. Foulois, chief of Air Corps, and others.

When Dern made his first announcement of the committee three weeks ago he invited Lindbergh and Orville Wright, in addition to Chamberlin, to serve as members.

'PLOT' QUIZ ASKED

WASHINGTON, April 10.—(INS.)—A group of Republican Senators planned today to force an investigation by the Black Senate Committee into charges that Postmaster General Farley's order cancelling all domestic air mail contracts resulted from a "plot" in which certain members of the Postoffice Department were involved.

Senator Austin (Rep.), of Vermont, a member of the Black committee, declared he would oppose Senate action upon the Black-McKellar Air Mail Bill until the committee hears a list of witnesses for whom he has requested subpenaes.

Although Austin refused to divulge the list, it was learned from other sources that names of several well known aviation officials, including officers of the E. L. Cord Company, were included.

AIR COMMISSION URGED BY HANN

A commission similar to the Interstate Commerce Commission to supervise and regulate air lines was proposed today by George R. Hann, president of Pittsburgh Aviation Industries Corporation, in assailing air mail legislation pending in Congress.

In a letter to stockholders, Hann said the action of the Postmaster General in advertising for bids to carry air mail on a temporary basis is as unsound and unfair as cancellation of former air mail contracts.

He wrote:

"It is the opinion of every right-thinking person that our industry, to develop sanely and logically, must be placed on a sound basis. And that basis can never be sound unless there is a complete separation from such government departments as are subject to the whims of political expediency."

HOTEL WORKERS END STRIKE

The strike of the workers of the William Penn Hotel ended abruptly this noon, when the strikers voted unanimously to call off the strike.

According to Frank R. Sack, attorney for the strikers, the workers decided to rely entirely on the promise of the hotel management to take back the strikers as rapidly as possible. He said:

"We are relying entirely on the good faith of the hotel. There is no written agreement specifying terms. The hotel has promised to take back the workers without discrimination against anyone because of activities during the strike."

One Party Listing Limit in Districts

Persons seeking party district committee offices were advised today by the Elections Bureau that they can aspire to such an office in only one party. Some filed petitions for more than one party. Bureau officials advised them to appear and decide the party with which they wish to be identified on the ballot.

Labor Check Shows Gains in Business

WASHINGTON, April 10.—(INS.)—"Business advances which began to appear in February, increased in March," according to the monthly survey of business by the American Federation of Labor.

Despite many gains, however, the report declared that heavy industries—which have gained especially so far this spring—"are still 55 per cent below 1929, while consumer industries are now within 15 per cent of that level."

Police Censure Mothers Asking 'Bogeyman'

DENVER, April 10.—(AP.)—Denver policemen won't play the "bogeyman" role for mothers who call for an officer to "give my boy the scare of his life."

Sergt. William Fine said:

"The boy should be taught to be friendly with officers of the law and I can't see that end would be gained by frightening him."

CANNON REFUND ADMITTED AT TRIAL

Bishop Repaid Himself From Contributions, Jury Informed

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, April 10.—The frank admission that Bishop James Cannon, Jr., "refunded" to himself much of the $65,300 sent him by E. C. Jameson, of New York "to elect Herbert Hoover," was placed in the record today at the trial of Bishop Cannon and Ada Burroughs, his secretary, for conspiracy to violate the corrupt practices act.

In his opening address to the jury, the cleric's counsel, Robert H. McNeill, explained that so intense was the bishop's interest in the Hoover campaign that he sold his Washington home for $2,000 and, through extensive borrowing, raised between $35,000 and $40,000 for the anti-Smith "cause."

WITHHOLD DETAILS

Therefore, McNeill contended, it was only natural that when Jameson's contribution arrived the bishop should refund to himself the funds he had raised and spent. The defense counsel did not detail the method of expenditure of the money, other than to say it was spent "in the cause."

M. F. Fulton, attorney for Miss Burroughs, declared she had no knowledge of the Jameson contribution, nor of any alleged unlawful acts.

From McNeill's address, it was apparent that the chief defense bulwark will be that the "Richmond Committee" was not required to file a report of campaign contributions and expenditures with the House of Representatives. Miss Burroughs was treasurer of the Richmond Headquarters Committee of the Virginia campaign.

SPENT $35,000

Concerning the various bank accounts the bishop maintained, defense counsel said "the bishop can account for every cent spent if the court finds this necessary."

He estimated that the bishop spent $35,000 alone in furthering his campaign against the liquor traffic "and paid himself back when others, more able, came along and offered to finance the work and to reimburse him."

McNeill said "certain reasons" why the bishop had to keep some of his bank accounts confidential for the protection of responsible men who were supporting him.

REED AIDE ASKS PINCHOT VIEWS

International News Service.

PHILADELPHIA, April 10.—In the first public challenge to Gov. Gifford Pinchot in the present Republican senatorial primary campaign, United States Senator David A. Reed's state manager, Judge Claude T. Reno, of Allentown, today hurled four questions at the State Executive. The questions:

"Would you support President Roosevelt in his effort to reduce the allowances of disabled veterans and the pay of federal employes or would you vote as Senator Reed did to override his veto?

"Would you support President Roosevelt in his effort to secure ratification of the St. Lawrence Waterway Treaty, in spite of the injury that would be done to all Pennsylvania railroaders, coal miners and to the Port of Philadelphia, or would you vote as Senator Reed did to defeat that treaty?

"Would you support President Roosevelt in his policy of subjecting farm products to processing taxes which have been found to be disastrous to Pennsylvania farmers, or would you vote as Senator Reed did, against such taxes?

"Would you support President Roosevelt in his request for complete power over tariff rates which would put all Pennsylvania manufacturers and their workmen in his sole control, or would you vote as Senator Reed assures us he will against any such plan?"

BAN ON BROKERS LIFTED IN BILL

WASHINGTON, April 10.—(AP.)—The Senate Banking Committee today adopted the controversial section of the revised stock market control bill relating to segregation of broker and dealer activities, permitting the regulatory body to lay down rules governing the subject.

The segregation section as approved would direct the regulatory body to set up regulations governing trading for their own account by brokers and exchange members.

It would not prohibit trading by brokers, as the original bill did.

The committee postponed action on the marginal section of the bill, though Senator Glass (Dem.), of Virginia, carried to the meeting a proposal from Eugene Black, governor of the Federal Reserve Board, to eliminate the fixed margin limitations.

Wire Your Congressman To Back the McLeod Bill

PROGRESSIVE-MINDED members of Congress have taken resolute and commendable action in endeavoring, by means of a mandatory petition, to force a vote in the House of Representatives on April 23 on the pending McLeod bill.

If the bill is not passed at this session, Congress will have failed to perform a most important public duty.

At present, the bill is in danger of being lost by inaction. One hundred and forty-five members of the House must sign the petition before it can become operative, and compel action. Every member of the House ought to sign the petition demanding immediate action on this legislation.

ENACTMENT of the bill, introduced by Representative McLeod, of Michigan, would be both an act of justice to ten million deserving citizens, and a recovery measure of far-reaching consequences.

It proposes simply that the federal government shall take over the assets in closed banks which were members of the Federal Reserve System; issue currency on those assets, and repay the depositors in full of their just claims; and—by slowly liquidating the frozen assets over a period of ten years—reimburse itself and thus retire the currency.

Such a procedure would be an act of justice because the hapless depositors in Federal Reserve member banks relied upon federal supervision for the safety of their savings. It would be a beneficial recovery policy, affecting the entire nation, because it would immediately add a thousand million dollars or more to the effective purchasing power of the country, with equivalent stimulus to credit expansion and to re-employment.

Yet despite these eloquent and obvious merits, the McLeod bill remains tied up in the Banking and Currency Committee of the House, endangered by narrow-sighted opposition.

THIS opposition is taking two forms.

One form is the reactionary opposition which hopes to keep the bill in committee until Congress adjourns.

The other form of opposition seeks, by introducing rival and indefensible substitute bills, to confuse the issue and prevent the enactment of the McLeod bill by controversy and doubt.

And THE ONLY WAY to get the McLeod bill acted upon at this session is to procure enough signatures to the House petition to compel action.

In a few hours after the petition was placed upon the Speaker's desk, scores of signatures were affixed—both Republican and Democratic.

Every citizen who desires that this constructive and righteous bill be passed should telegraph today to his Congressman, urging him to sign the McLeod bill petition.

No time must be lost. Action is imperative.

If YOU want the McLeod bill passed at this session of Congress, telegraph to your representative to sign the petition now being circulated in Congress.

Exchange Officer Urges 'Frozen' Deposit Release

COUNCIL ACTION ON SMITH DUE

Safety Director Ralph E. Smith's appointment to the Traction Conference Board is scheduled to come up in Council again today.

Council will probably refuse to vote him two jobs.

That is, it will, unless Mayor McNair withdraws Smith's name and substitutes another.

Walter R. Demmler, who has been representing the Mayor, under the impression the Mayor planned to withdraw Director Smith's name and substitute that of Andrew G. Smith, ardent champion of the 5-cent fare, asked Council to delay action.

Informed of the report, the Mayor said:

"That's interesting."

McNair then divulged that Andrew G. Smith lives in Mt. Lebanon Township, which prevents him from holding a city job.

Director Smith has declared that if he gets the $5,000 traction board job he will continue as safety director.

'BUCK' CROUSE SUED BY WIFE

A blackmail plot, in which Albert (Buck) Crouse, the pugilist, attempted to get his wife to sign a statement confessing intimacy with as former employer of his, was charged against the prize fighter today by his wife, Mrs. Ruth C. Crouse.

Suing for a conditional divorce, which would require Crouse to support her and their six children, she testified today before Judge John B. Egan to frequent beatings from her prize-fighter husband. Crouse is not contesting the suit.

The alleged plot was described in Mrs. Crouse's bill of particulars as occurring in the latter part of May, 1930. She alleges:

"Buck, in the presence of Grace Vaughn and her mother, stated that his wife was no help to him, in that he could have made a lot of money if she would have signed a statement that she had been intimate with a former employer of Buck's."

Seven Closed Banks Granted RFC Loans

Loans to seven closed Pennsylvania banks, two in Pittsburgh, have been approved by Reconstruction Finance Corporation agencies in Philadelphia and Cleveland, according to an announcement by Dr. William D. Gordon, state banking secretary.

The Perry State Bank was granted $80,486 and the Hamilton State Bank was loaned $63,000, according to an Associated Press dispatch from Philadelphia.

McLeod Bill Passage Would Speed Tax Payments, He Says

Enthusiastic support of the McLeod bill, passage of which would result in the payment of all depositors in closed Federal Reserve member banks in full, was voiced today by A. L. Brinham, secretary of the Pittsburgh Stock Exchange.

Mr. Brinham declared that the bill would have the immediate effect of greatly expanding purchasing power. In addition it would solve the monetary troubles of many city and county governments. He said:

"Many real estate owners have not been able to pay their taxes because their funds are tied up in either restricted or entirely closed banks.

"The liberation of this money would permit the real estate owners to avoid the loss of their properties and also would permit cities and counties to collect their taxes. This would result in the automatic balancing of most budgets.

"I think that the bill should receive enthusiastic support from every one."

Under the provision of the bill, now before Congress, the Reconstruction Finance Corporation would purchase all the assets of closed Federal Reserve member banks. It would pay enough for these to permit payment of all deposits in full. The RFC would liquidate the bank assets over a period of 10 years. It is believed that the increase in the value of these assets as business recovers would permit the operation to be completed without loss.

HOUSE PETITION GAINS MORE SIGNERS

Vote on Measure for 100 Per Cent Payoff Seen on April 23

By JOHN P. COWAN
Sun-Telegraph Correspondent.

WASHINGTON, April 10.—Proponents of the McLeod bill providing for 100 per cent payoff to depositors in closed banks expressed confidence today that the measure would come before the House of Representatives for consideration on April 23.

The petition for the discharge of the Banking and Currency Committee from consideration of the bill required just 65 signers in order to obtain the necessary 145 signatures.

Since the petition will remain on the Speaker's desk until next Monday, it was declared that more than the required number would be obtained.

URGES SPEED

Representative Carl M. Weideman (Dem.), of Michigan, explaining his object in seeking the discharge of the committee, stated to the House that due to the drive to adjourn Congress by May 15, there is not time to secure the passage of the bill through regular procedure.

Therefore in order to obtain a vote on the floor of the House and action in the Senate, it would be necessary to bring the bill before the House with all possible dispatch.

The rules of the House require that a petition to discharge after being fully signed must be on the calendar seven legislative days before action. The next "discharge Monday" falls on April 23.

BALKS DELAYS

Veteran members of the House said they had never seen a petition so eagerly signed. Eighty members of the House today had signed the petition.

By this move, repeated delays on the part of the RFC sub-committee to consider the bill in executive session will be circumvented. Chairman Jesse Jones, of the RFC, is opposed to the measure.

The bill, introduced March 5 by Representative McLeod (Rep.), of Michigan, would authorize the RFC to take over the assets of all banks that were members of the Federal Reserve System at the time of their closing and pay off all depositors 100 cents on the dollar at once. The assets would be liquidated over a 10-year period.

Leaders of the movement feel the petition will not only save time, but will assure the original bill's reaching the floor. In the event the Banking and Currency Committee should report the measure, it has been indicated that the bill will be irreparably weakened by amendments.

Only a modified bill could get past the rules committee, now headed by Representative Bankhead (Dem.), of Alabama, supporters of the bill said.

Meanwhile Representative Brown (Dem.), of Michigan, was preparing a similar bill wider in its scope. Representative McLeod said of it:

"It is apparent that this is an attempt to confuse the issue. Brown can very well offer the provisions of his bill as amendments to my bill when it is debated."

PENNA. SIGNERS

The Brown bill would provide for release of the deposits in all closed banks, national, state and private, which have shut their doors since December 31, 1929. Complete pay off would be ordered for accounts of $2,500 or less, 75 per cent pay off for accounts between $2,500 and $10,000, and 50 per cent on all accounts above $10,000.

The 80 signers of the McLeod bill included:

Pennsylvania — Clyde Kelly (Rep.), Martin A. Dunn (Dem.), Patrick J. Boland (Dem.), George W. Edmonds (Rep.).

West Virginia—Jennings Randolph (Dem.).

Pay Bank Depositors

TO THE MEMBERS OF THE UNITED STATES CONGRESS:

As an important help toward national recovery, the undersigned urges passage of the McLeod Bill, now before Congress, which provides for paying in full depositors of closed banks which belonged to the Federal Reserve System.

Toward this end I urge that the RFC make loan arrangements with the closed banks.

This procedure would give positive stimulus to business by converting frozen, idle and at present useless bank deposits into immediately available purchasing power.

I urge immediate Congressional action on the McLeod Bill.

Judges, Prosecutor Bare Threats in Egan Case

Ignoring threats, judges of the State Superior Court today were prepared to resume hearings on motions for a new trial for James Egan, Communist leader, under conviction for inciting a riot in Pittsburgh on President Roosevelt's inaugural day.

President Judge Frank M. Trexler, as the Egan hearing opened yesterday, revealed that he and other members of the Superior Court had received letters containing threats of reprisal unless Egan is "unconditionally released."

Judge Trexler said:

"I have received a letter making a threat if we do not release this man. The court will pay no attention to it, but will be governed only by the law and evidence."

Assistant District Attorney John F. Haggerty, arguing against the new trial, revealed he too had received a threatening letter.

Egan, one-time candidate for Mayor on the Communist ticket, was arrested while addressing a crowd in front of the Courthouse March 4, 1933. Six others were seized, but only Egan was convicted. Testimony was that he had shouted

"Let's fight."

Egan's attorney, J. C. Sigal, argued the words were not inciting. He was interrupted by Judge Jesse E. B. Cunningham, who inquired:

"What could they mean under the circumstances?"

Argument of appeals for new trials of four persons arrested in the Ambridge riot October 5, 1933, was going on today. The defendants were Emma Brletic, "the woman with the potato masher;" John Kapusta, Dan Benning and Rudolph Verkovich.

The Exilona is a cargo boat of 5,839 tons, with accommodations for a small number of passengers

OPERATION ON THUMB

ISTANBUL, April 10.—(AP.)—Samuel Insull underwent an operation in an Istanbul jail infirmary today for the removal of an abscess from his left thumb.

Attendants said the patient submitted smilingly and seemed in a pleasant mood, despite the probability that he will soon be started for the United States and trial on embezzlement and fraud charges in Chicago.

While American authorities went ahead with plans for the fugitive's return, Insull's lawyers insisted they still had hope.

DEPUTY ASKS DATA

Suleiman Sirri Bey, independent member of the Chamber of Deputies, brought a threat of further delay. He filed an interpellation calling upon the Minister of Justice to supply particulars. This official gave no indication when he would reply.

Ambassador Robert P. Skinner said he still was considering placing Insull aboard the American Export Line ship, Executive, leaving Istanbul tomorrow.

Burton Y. Berry, third secretary of the American embassy, 32 years old and a bachelor, appeared not displeased with his assignment to accompany Insull to America.

Berry said, however, that he had never seen the man who is to be placed in his custody.

BEAUTY 'SORRY' SHE HAS TO SUE PEER

Miss Joyce Sobs, Tells Of Night Auto Trip 'Tied Together'

International News Service.

HOLLYWOOD, April 10.—With tears in her eyes, Angela Joyce, golden-haired English screen and stage beauty, today said she was "sorry" she had to bring a $518,000 heart balm suit in London against Lord Revelstoke, wealthy English peer. Miss Joyce declared:

"I would have done anything in the world to avoid it. But it seems that one always must hurt the person one loves the most.

"Poor Robin. That's my pet name for him. I still adore him. He's the most wonderful boy in the world. He's marvelous. I shall always love him. If he were free I'd be willing to marry him today."

TO TESTIFY IN LONDON

Miss Joyce said that she was "puzzled and hurt when Robin married someone else." Lord Revelstoke, she said, had written her 59 letters.

She said that she would return to London to testify, but expected eventually to come back to Hollywood.

Miss Joyce declared that she had seen Revelstoke almost daily for a year and a half after they met in a London night club in 1931, and claimed that an elopement was planned. She added:

"Some people may think I fell in love with his money and position, but nothing could be farther from the truth.

TOLD 'SWEET THINGS'

"Robin was just a Cambridge undergraduate and not a very wealthy one. He took me about a great deal. We saw night clubs and cafe life, but our real hobby was motoring.

"Most of our rides were to Cambridge. Often during the time we went about together we would drive in the moonlight and he would tell me sweet things.

"But all our trips were not such fair weather moonlight affairs. I recall one stormy, cold night when there was fog and rain and we were driving to Cambridge in his two-seater. He wrapped me in four blankets to keep me warm and stopped and bought a bundle of newspapers and wrapped them about my legs because I was still cold.

PEER SERVED WRIT

"I kept asking him what he would do to keep warm, and he said: 'Oh, I'll use the red and black scarf.' So he took the scarf and wrapped the ends of it about both our necks, and we drove on into the night, tied together this way."

Miss Joyce said she was happy that her London legal firm had been able to obtain the services of Sir Patrick Hastings, one of the most eminent King's counsellors.

LONDON, April 10.—(Universal.)—A writ seeking damages for breach of promise has been served on Lord Revelstoke, member of one of Britain's wealthiest banking families, by attorneys acting for Angela Joyce, who is now in Hollywood, the attorneys had announced today.

MME. STALIN'S DEATH BLAMED ON QUARREL

Shot Self After Row With Dictator, Paris Hears

International News Service.

PARIS, April 10.—The assertion that Mme. Allilouieva Stalin, late wife of the Soviet dictator, committed suicide following a public quarrel with her husband, was printed in the Russian language newspaper Poslednia Novesti today.

"Comrade Allilouieva"—as she was known to the Soviets, died a year ago under mysterious circumstances. While an official silence was maintained concerning all details of her death, rumors immediately spread abroad that she had committed suicide or had taken poison intended for Stalin himself.

Poslednia Novesti, however, tells the story thus in a detailed account:

Climaxing a reception given by War Minister Voroshilov in Moscow, Allilouieva quarreled with Stalin, attacking his treatment of Soviet peasants before the assembled guests.

Stalin bluntly commanded her to be silent. A moment later Allilouieva left the party, and the entertainment went on without her.

Instead of returning to their country villa, where the Stalins has been staying, Allilouieva went to her Kremlin apartment. A shot was heard two hours later.

Guards rushed to the door, but found it locked. Premier Michael Kalinin, Voroshilov and L. M. Kaganovich, secretary of the All-Union Trades Council, were summoned, and they forced the door.

The found Allilouieva shot dead, and a suicide letter lying on the table.

Stalin was notified at the villa, where he had gone, at 6 o'clock in the morning. Arriving at the Kremlin, he went into the room and locked himself in alone with the body of his wife for several hours. Stalin never revealed the contents of the letter, which was addressed to him.

EMMA GOLDMAN

Emma Goldman, the radical of past years, pictured in Pittsburgh today upon her arrival to lecture on the North Side. This is a Sun-Telegraph picture.

EMMA GOLDMAN HERE FOR TALK, 'RED' AS EVER

Discusses Friendship With Anarchist Who Shot Frick

America's troubles of the last four years have awakened its people to the injustices of capitalism, in the opinion of Emma Goldman, who is perhaps the world's foremost anarchist.

Miss Goldman came to Pittsburgh today, her first visit in 17 years, to lecture tomorrow night in Carnegie Hall on the North Side.

The years have grayed her hair, but her faith in anarchism and her mental alertness remain unchanged. Unchanged, too, is her great friendship for Alexander Berkman, the anarchist who shot the late H. C. Frick in Pittsburgh some 40 years ago during the Homestead steel strike.

Miss Goldman is confident that anarchy eventually will prevail. She declared:

"The people in America are more alert to new ideas. They have come to realize the injustices that prevailed . . . The great sweep is still coming. It doesn't matter whether it comes in my time."

For President Roosevelt, as compared with Hoover and Coolidge, Miss Goldman had praise.

She enjoys her pursuit of the arts in France, but she finds herself "feeling at home" in America.

As to Berkman, he is in good health, writing and translating at Nice, France. And:

"Ours is the kind of friendship that never dies."

KIDNAPED GIRL HUNT WIDENS

International News Service.

CHICAGO, April 10.—Mystery surrounding the kidnaping of little Dorette Zietlow, 2½ years old, deepened today as a far-flung police search of basements, alleys and unoccupied buildings on the North West Side failed to yield a single clew.

Authorities had only a meager description of the youth who lured the child from in front of the home of her grandmother, Mrs. Dora Witte, Sunday.

As the search extended into the third day without result relatives and police expressed deep alarm for the child's safety.

The missing girl's father, George Zietlow, appeared voluntarily at police headquarters for questioning.

After questioning Zietlow police said they were convinced that he knew nothing of the child's disappearance.

Strength was given the theory that a woman may have inspired the kidnaping when a motorist reported to police that he had picked up a woman and child, the latter answering the description of Dorette.

MANVILLE'S 4TH RENO-BOUND

International News Service.

NEW YORK, April 10. — Mrs. Tommy Manville, the former Marcelle Edwards, Vanities blonde, was en route to Reno by air today and another romance in the life of the Broadway playboy heir to asbestos millions apparently was at an end.

Mrs. Manville, who married the flashing Tommy in Greenwich, Conn., six months ago, left Newark Airport on a commercial air liner last night, traveling alone.

Manville's marriage to the Vanities show girl is his fourth matrimonial venture.

Manville's first marriage ended in a divorce in Pittsburgh in 1922, while he was working in the office of his father's asbestos company. He had been married to Florence E. Huber, one of the beauties of the "Follies of 1911."

His second wife was Lois Arline McCoin, of Lawrence, Kan., his father's former secretary, whom he married in 1925. They were divorced a year later. The third Mrs. Manville was Avonne Taylor, of the "Follies of 1931."

RENAME DICKEY, SLASH SALARY

C. E. Dickey today was re-elected county superintendent of schools for a four-year term and his salary was reduced from $11,500 to $10,000.

Allegheny County school directors, meeting in the Chamber of Commerce auditorium also reduced the salary of Dickey's first assistant superintendent to $7,000 and the salaries of four other assistants to $6,600.

The reduction vote was 108 for and 105 against. Some of the 105 were in favor of cuts as great as 40 per cent.

Dickey was re-elected without opposition, although the directors were handed cards urging them to vote for W. Lee Gilmore, superintendent of Oakmont schools.

But Gilmore rose and disavowed the effort, pledging loyalty to "my chief."

2 PHILA. PAPERS TO COMBINE

PHILADELPHIA, April 10.—(AP.)—The Public Ledger and the Inquirer, controlled by the same interests but published as rival morning newspapers for four years, will be consolidated next Monday.

An announcement in today's Public Ledger states that the combined newspapers will be published at the Inquirer plant. It says the outstanding features and specialized news of the Ledger "will be as fully covered in the Inquirer."

Thus will end the Public Ledger's ninety-eighth history as an entity, but its offshoot, the Evening Public Ledger, will continue publication at the Ledger plant.

During its career the Public Ledger absorbed three other newspapers. The Philadelphia Morning Times was combined with it long before the late Cyrus H. K. Curtis purchased the Ledger. The Press and the North American were merged with the Ledger by Curtis.

DILLINGER CLUE TRACED HERE

Reports continue that John Dillinger, Indiana's notorious escaped convict, is in the Pittsburgh district.

Latest was a teletype message from Harrisburg asking Pittsburgh police to be on the lookout for an automobile bearing Indiana license plates and issued to an Indianapolis man Saturday. The address given was the former address of a brother of Dillinger, according to Indianapolis police. A woman is reported to be driving the machine.

Dillinger is also reported to have dyed his hair red.

Police also are seeking four occupants of a sedan, two men, one with hair a reddish hue, and two women, who inquired of Howard Washington, of 2984 Bedford avenue, employed at the Cathedral Mansions, the direction to the Lincoln Highway.

Washington said the car had Minnesota license plates. He said he saw a rifle on the floor of the tonneau.

Dillinger Pal Dying With Secrets of Mob

ST. PAUL, April 10.—(AP.)—Eugene Green, wounded member of John Dillinger's new mob, is dying.

Keeping vigil beside Green's hospital bed, Department of Justice men sought today to catch his incoherent mutterings and learn what Dillinger had planned for the future, but the severity of the gunman's wounds kept him unconscious most of the time.

MODEL TO WED ON FRIDAY, 13TH

Who's afraid of Friday the thirteenth?

Not Miss Jean Levis, pretty model, of 627 Hampton avenue, Wilkinsburg, anyway. Blonde and 20 years old, Miss Levis has deliberately chosen the date for her marriage to Harry Wainwright, Jr., 34, of 200 Penn avenue, Wilkinsburg. And with no misgivings.

As a matter of fact, Miss Levis said, Friday the thirteenth has always been her lucky day, and when she noticed the date popping up in April, well—the license was issued yesterday.

Barry Ulrich, counsel for Lee, said his client had never seen Miss Olcott before he was slapped.

FRENCH BEHEAD ACID SLAYER

International News Service.

AIX - EN - PROVENCE, France, April 10.—Georges Sarret, Marseilles attorney and student of chemistry who combined his knowledge of two sciences to commit baffling murders, was put to death on the guillotine today. All he had to say was:

"Let's get it over with quickly."

Employing his legal knowledge, Sarret victimized many unsuspecting persons by arranging wills and insurance policies making him beneficiary. Then he murdered them.

Next he brought chemical science into play, destroying the bodies by powerful acids; in most cases leaving not a trace. Then he collected on the wills and insurance policies.

A telltale spot, left on the floor of a cellar where he had committed one of his most daring murders proved to be his undoing.

Sarret had two women companions in crime, Philomene and Catherine Schmidt, sisters. They are serving 10-year sentences in prison, saved from death by revealing what they knew of Sarret's murders.

ROPE ENDS LIFE OF SCIENCE AIDE

IMLAY CITY, Mich., April 10.—(AP.)—Thomas Holt, 38, has ended in a noose the life he once offered to science.

Holt hanged himself, the coroner's verdict said, after killing his wife, Ruth, 39, with a claw hammer. The bodies were found last night, Holt's swinging from a rope in a barn on his farm near here and his wife's in the farmhouse.

Several years ago Holt offered his life to the University of Michigan Medical School. The university declined the offer but gave him a job as a janitor in the medical building. Holt was skillful with his hands and Dr. Louis H. Newburgh, professor of clinical investigations and internal medicine, made him a laboratory assistant.

Dr. Newburgh recalled today he had used Holt in some experiments, in which Holt sat in a glassed-in room and ate clinically prepared food.

GIVES UP TITLE FOR U. S. RIGHTS

WASHINGTON, April 10.—(AP.)—Because he valued American citizenship more, the son of Representative Isabella Greenway, of Arizona, by her first marriage, is not a titled Briton with an immense fortune today.

If he had agreed to forfeit American citizenship, Robert Munro Ferguson, 26, would have inherited 10 days ago the title and 22,000 Scottish acres of his uncle, the first Viscount Novar.

Lord Novar died March 31 at the age of 74.

Ferguson, the only male heir of Lord Novar, decided finally three years ago against giving up his citizenship—a condition of the inheritance. His father was Robert Ferguson, a younger brother of Lord Novar.

Young Ferguson's mother, the former Isabella Selmes, was a bridesmaid at the wedding of Eleanor and Franklin D. Roosevelt.

Tragedy, Police, Firemen Came to Him

POLICEMEN, FIREMEN PREPARING TO CUT DONALD, 2, FREE AS THOUSANDS CROWDED ABOUT

Tearful Donald Leo Boyd, just 2, in his embarrassing predicament near his Washington (D. C.) home. He saw a pipe, pushed his foot into it. Firemen cut him out with heavy tools as hundreds crowded the street to the wail of police sirens, the clang of fire engine bells. Here Don's daddy, Leo Boyd, holds him. Kidnaping of Lindy Baby Inside Job, Sleuth Says

NEW CASTLE, Pa., April 10.—(AP.)—A man needs more than "a stick, a gun and a uniform" to be a good policeman, says Capt. Michael Fiaschetti, former chief of New York City's detectives.

Stopping in New Castle yesterday, Fiaschetti, now deputy commissioner of public markets in New York, said in an interview:

"Cities will never have efficient police departments until politics is uprooted."

Discussing crime he said kidnaping is the most fruitful of all present-day rackets. He termed the Lindbergh case "an inside job" and "a glaring example of police inefficiency," continuing:

"Properly handled the case might have been solved and the life of the baby saved. It was not the work of professionals. It was an inside job. Of this I am convinced."

Father Ends Life, Note Gives Son Advice

Leaving a note that he was "tired of struggling," and had "felt all 'choked' up inside for weeks," J. Howard Houston, of J. H. Houston & Sons service station, 5820 Ellsworth avenue, ended his life with a bullet through his head last night, the Coroner reported.

He was a former executive of the Green Cab Company.

He was found slumped in a chair in the service station by H. R. Adams, of West Penn Forwarding Company, Inc., 5801 Ellsworth avenue, who was seeking water for his automobile. Under Houston's desk was a revolver with one shell and in a waste basket nearby was a glass containing an unknown white substance, according to the Coroner's report.

In the note, left for his wife, Houston wrote of $20,000 insurance policies and of others of unknown sums. A second envelope found on his desk contained a will directing that his wife, Winifred S., be the sole beneficiary and that she be made executrix without bond.

The note also said:

"Tell John to save his money and be a credit to your dad."

The reference was to his son, police said. Both will and note were dated April 9, 1934. His note instructed:

"Don't spend any more than $350 on my funeral."

COURT BARED AS 'BACK WAY' INTO LEAGUE

By JAMES T. WILLIAMS, JR.

A new drive is on to drag the United States into the League of Nations through the back door of the League Court.

To this end, tremendous pressure is being brought to bear upon the Committee on Foreign Relations to report out the League Court protocols with a recommendation to the Senate for their immediate ratification.

This pressure is coming from various and sundry groups of internationalists. These groups have been organized by ardent advocates of unconditional American membership in all departments of the League of Nations.

ARGUMENTS CONFLICT

Propagandists for the entrance of the United States into the League Court show in the conflicting arguments which they present for such an entanglement that they are "a house divided against itself."

One group of these internationalists urges American entrance into the League Court on the ground that it would be the first step toward American entrance into all other departments of the League.

In support of this contention they bring as a witness the secretary general of the League, who has declared the court to be "the most essential part of the organization of the League of Nations."

This group cites also the testimony of the French representative on the committee of experts, which drafted the original scheme for the organization of the court. This official spokesman of the committee declared that the League and the Court are complementary to each other, and added:

"The new court, being the judicial organ of the League of Nations, can only be created within this League."

COURT DEFENDED

Another group, pressing for American entrance into the League Court, argues that the United States could enter the Court without becoming involved in the executive and legislative departments of the League.

This group would disarm American suspicion of the League by conjuring up the theory that the League Court is an institution apart from the League.

In support of this theory, this second group has bestowed upon the League Court the high-sounding title of "The World Court" — a nickname employed largely for American consumption.

A third group admits that, in order to safeguard the United States from the dangers that lurk around the front-door entrance to the League of Nations, American membership in the League Court should be conditioned upon a series of so-called "protective" reservations.

STATUS GIVEN

Until these conflicting advocates of American entrance into the League Court can agree among themselves upon the answers to two questions, the committee on foreign relations certainly should not stultify itself by hurling such a controversial issue upon the floor of the Senate in the closing weeks of a Congress still wrestling with the President's program for national recovery.

These two questions are:

First—What is the real connection between the League of Nations and the League Court?

Second—What protection, if any, against involvement in the League of Nations could be provided by reservations adopted by one House of the American Congress?

The answers to these two questions can be found by comparing the League of Nations covenant, under which the league was established, with the League Court protocols and the reservations proposed as conditions to their ratification.

This comparison will show why the League Court is a part of the league and why no American reservations can separate these "Siamese twins."

PETITION AGAINST PARTICIPATION In the LEAGUE of NATIONS and World Court

If you want to save America from European entanglements and keep your country out of foreign wars, and foreign wars out of your country, sign this petition:

TO THE MEMBERS OF THE UNITED STATES SENATE AND HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES:

We protest AGAINST the United States participating in the League of Nations or in the World Court of the League of Nations, with or without "reservations."

We petition our Federal Government to keep our United States "free from foreign entanglements," as the Father of Our Country wisely enjoined.

We urge our Congress at Washington to keep our government from meddling in foreign affairs, and to keep foreign nations from meddling in our American affairs.

As loyal American citizens, we ask our loyal representatives to keep our country out of foreign conflicts and complications and to keep foreign conflicts and complications out of our country.

WANAMAKER'S APPEAL HEARD

PHILADELPHIA, April 10.—(AP.)—The Supreme Court yesterday heard arguments in the appeal of Capt. John Wanamaker, Jr., to dissolve an injunction obtained by Mrs. Pauline Disston Wanamaker, his first wife, to restrain him from procuring a Reno divorce in 1932.

Nothwithstanding this injunction order, Wanamaker obtained the divorce on August 9 of that year, and the same day married Mrs. Elizabeth M. Peltz Warburton, in Nevada.

Judge J. Ambler Williams, of Montgomery County, refused to dissolve the injunction against Wanamaker, and a rule was issued to show cause why he should not be adjudged in contempt of court.

Counsel for Wanamaker asked the Supreme Court to set aside the injunction on the grounds that he was not served with papers in the action in Pennsylvania, and that at the time of the filing of the bill for injunction he was a resident of Nevada.

Ambridge Bank Merger Planned

AMBRIDGE, Pa., April 10.—(AP.)—The Economy National Bank will be merged with the Economy Bank of Ambridge, successor to the dissolved Ambridge Savings and Trust Company.

A stockholders' meeting will be held April 14 to take action on the proposed resolution of placing Economy National in voluntary liquidation, thereby winding up its business. Depositors will be paid 100 per cent and stockholders in part, with the option of cash or shares in the Economy Bank of Ambridge.

S. A. R. BOARD BACKS FIGHT ON LEAGUE

The Board of Management of the Pennsylvania Society, Sons of the American Revolution, have gone on record commending the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph for its stand against entrance of the United States into the League of Nations and the World Court. The resolution was adopted at the last meeting of the board, after it had been introduced by D. C. G. Hughes, a member of the National Society Committee.

The resolution follows:

"Whereas, the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph has conducted a campaign outlining certain reasons against the entry of the United States into the League of Nations, and the Sun-Telegraph has consistently advocated adequate national defense as one means of preventing an offensive war against the United States, and whereas it is the sense of this meeting that it would be detrimental to the best interests of the United States of America to become a member of the League of Nations or of a World Court, involving any surrender of American sovereignty; and also that the best interests of our nation can best be protected by adequate national defense; be it, therefore, resolved:

"That the Board of Managers of the Pennsylvania Society, Sons of the American Revolution, commends the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph for its patriotic efforts in these instances."

PETITIONS IN STORES

Petitions protesting against entrance to the League and World Court are now available in all the United Cigar Stores, both in Wilkinsburg and in Pittsburgh. The petitions were placed in the stores yesterday after local officials of the organization agreed that the Sun-Telegraph's campaign was one worthy of every possible help.

Hundreds of petitions are being signed daily in the lobby of the Fulton Theater. Scores of war veterans who visited the theater to see actual battle scenes from the World War, stopped long enough to add their signatures to the many others which are to be sent to Washington, protesting against any attempt to force this nation into foreign conflict. Veterans and others who saw the picture, "Forgotten Men," did not hesitate to sign the petitions which will be available throughout the showing of the picture.

Peter Manns, a veteran of Bellwood, Pa., sends his petition to the Sun-Telegraph along with the following letter:

"I have here 148 signatures of persons who believe in keeping this country out of European entanglements and foreign wars. I think that we Americans should have learned a lesson from the last war. I am a World War veteran, just trying to do my bit."

COMBAT PROPAGANDISTS

How about you? Have you gone on record as opposing the League and the World Court? Are you content to stand by idly while propagandists rope this country into European affairs?

You can take an active part against these propagandists by simply sending to the League Court editor for a petition, signing it and returning it immediately. You can do even more by having your family, associates and friends sign the petition. Or, if you prefer, use the petition printed elsewhere in this newspaper.

Runciman Opposes Tariff Negotiation

LONDON, April 10.—(AP.)—Walter Runciman, president of the British Board of Trade, told the House of Commons today that tariff negotiations between the United States and Great Britain were impractical at present.

LEAGUE LEADER SOUNDS PERIL OF NEW WAR

GENEVA, April 10.—(AP.)—The steering committee of the disarmament conference met today, decided to call an international conference May 23, and adjourned itself until April 30.

The committee members reached the understanding that Arthur Henderson, president of the conference, will have the authority to postpone either meeting a few days should he see fit.

In the course of the session, Henderson conjured up for delegates the spectre of another World War and he warned them that they must do their utmost to prevent an international catastrophe.

Disarmament, the Briton said, is a world problem "only to be solved by universal agreement" and he insisted any program must include the United States, Japan and Russia.

Delegate Stein, of Russia, attacked the idea of transforming the convention into one for rearmament of any nation and urged the summoning of the conference as soon as possible to discuss President Roosevelt's proposal for a universal pact of non-aggression, made last year.

Stein characterized the situation as disquieting.

He flayed verbally that section of public opinion which declare the military situation hopeless an the conference useless. He de clared:

"That section contemplates with equanimity the return of conditions that led to the World War; they urge us to go back to international anarchy where every nation is a law unto itself and all arm."

WIRT RELATES 'RED PLOT' SCARE STORY BEFORE HOUSE COMMITTEE

ministration. They, Wirt asserted, could throw more light on the alleged plotting to bring Communism.

Speaker Rainey's name figured too, Wirt quoting Westervelt as having said "he had asked Rainey what Congress was going to do, and Rainey replied that Congress would assemble, pass certain laws, stay in session until May or June, and within a month or six weeks the government would take over some industries 'and then I don't know what will happen.'"

NAMES DINNER GUESTS

Those cited as present at the September dinner were:

Robert Bruere, chairman of the Textile Code Advisory Committee.

David C. Coyle, of the Public Works Administration.

Hildegarde Kneeland and Mary Taylor, Department of Agriculture economists.

Alice Barrows, of the Education Bureau at the Interior Department.

Lawrence Todd, representative of the Soviet News Agency.

The dinner was in the Barrows home in nearby Virginia.

Wirt said Miss Kneeland had quoted Tugwell as having said he "would have closed the Grain and Stock Exchange if he had the power" and that he termed last summer's business improvement "a speculative spree." Wirt continued:

"Miss Kneeland said that Tugwell said: 'If we begin to plan nationally we must change once and for all our statutes and Constitution.'"

'BIG BUSINESS'

He also testified Miss Kneeland had quoted the Assistant Secretary of Agriculture to the effect that "it was impossible to have a planned economy and have big business operating industry."

Representative Bulwinkle (Dem.), of North Carolina, wanted to know who had talked of President Roosevelt as a "Kerensky," later to be replaced by a "Stalin." Wirt replied:

"Lawrence Todd."

As to Westervelt, the schoolmaster testified the Chicagoan had said "Dr. Frederic C. Howe (head of the Agricultural Adjustment Administration Consumers Council) had told him that if there was a way to stop feeding people on federal relief that quicker progress could be made toward what we are after."

Westervelt also was quoted as having said Tugwell asserted he could get $1,000,000 for a special school for "recent college graduates," and that it would be "easy to innoculate them with ideas about the new planned economy."

HOMESTEAD PLAN

Wirt also assailed the "subsistence homestead" plan of the administration. He was asked:

"Do you consider it part of a plan to overthrow the established order?"

Wirt replied he "certainly did."

Asked by Representative O'Connor (Dem.), of New York, if he discriminated between overthrowing the social order and changing the government, Wirt said that he spoke of revolution such as the "Roosevelt revolution" referred to in a book by Ernest K. Lindley.

He said some people thought of revolution as throwing out the President and "blowing off the top of the Capitol." He declared:

"The President is not to blame, but the real friends of the Constitution have not come forward."

NAMES 'INSIDERS'

Asked by Representative Arnold (Dem.), of Illinois, who made the statement in his remarks that "we are on the inside and had controlling influence which made the President think he was making decisions," Wirt replied:

"Todd, Kneeland and Taylor."

Convening of the House terminated the hearing soon after noon. It will be resumed tomorrow with Wirt on the stand. What other witnesses will be called, if any, remained to be decided.

Wirt 'Red Plot' Charges Bring Flat Denials

WASHINGTON, April 10.—(AP.)—Lawrence Todd, representative here of the Soviet News Agency, Tass, denied to newspapermen today the quotation attributed to him by Dr. William A. Wirt that President Roosevelt is the "Kerensky" of impending revolution that will replace him with a "Stalin."

The alleged remark was said by Wirt in the House investigation to have been made at a September dinner also attended by David C. Coyle, of the Public Works Administration. Coyle also told reporters he heard no such statement.

As to assertions attributed indirectly to him by Wirt, Dr. Rexford Guy Tugwell, in an interview said they were garnered from a 1931 public speech by him.

Speaker Rainey also denied a remark attributed indirectly to him in Wirt's testimony to the effect that "the government would take over some industries."

The Speaker characterized the Wirt situation as "reductio ad absurdum."

STORY OF DINNER

Todd acknowledged that he attended a dinner at the Virginia home of Miss Alice Barrows last September at which Wirt was a guest. He said:

"At no time during the dinner conversation did anyone present make any mention whatever of anyone who had, or was presumed to have, any influence over Mr. Roosevelt.

"There was no mention whatever of any 'Kerensky' of the revolution' of Stalin, and there was nothing said concerning any movement to retard the nation's recovery program.

"All through the dinner, Dr. Wirt, himself, did most of the talking and the other guests, including myself, really had very little opportunity of expressing any views we might have had.

"Dr. Wirt has a weird idea of the conversation at a dinner party, which was greatly similar to hundreds of others held in Washington every night at which general politics and economic questions are discussed."

Todd has been a newspaper correspondent in Washington for different press associations and newspapers for nearly 20 years.

Meanwhile Secretary Ickes joked at his press conference over the mention of Coyle and Miss Barrows, both of whom work for him, in the Wirt inquiry.

NEVER TALKED TO WIRT

CHAPEL HILL, N. C., April 10.—(AP.)—Miss Hildegarde Kneeland, mentioned by Dr. William A. Wirt in Washington today as one of his informants regarding "brain trust" recovery attitudes, said here today:

"I've never talked to the gentleman on anything connected with all this."

CHICAGO, April 10.—(AP.)—Gen. William I. Westervelt, a high official of Sears, Roebuck & Co., said today he had "nothing at all to say" about Dr. William A. Wirt's testimony concerning him before a Congressional committee.

Westervelt listened without interruption or comment while Dr. Wirt's testimony was read to him by telephone. He did not comment when informed Representative McGugin, of Kansas, Republican member of the committee, has asked the committee that he be subpenaed to testify.

When his name first entered the inquiry yesterday, Westervelt said he believed it "perfectly silly" to call him and that he would appear only if subpenaed.

NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J., April 10.—(AP.)—Dr. Federic C. Howe, head of the Consumer's Council of the Agricultural Adjustment Administration, today said a quotation imputed to him by Dr. William A. Wirt in the congressional investigation at Washington was "all bunk."

Crowd at Wirt Hearing Eagerly Waits 'Thrills'

WASHINGTON, April 10.—(AP.)—Into a huge room filled with sensation-expecting persons, a serious, spectacled man purposefully stepped today—Dr. William A. Wirt, of Gary, Ind., the man who wants to bust the "brain trust."

He followed white-haired, tan-suited James A. Reed, former Missouri Senator, his counsel.

In the few minutes before Representative Bulwinkle (Dem.), of North Carolina, chairman of the special investigating committee, rapped for order, reporters scrambled for places at press tables seating 75. They were stretched entirely across the front of the crammed caucus room of the new House Office Building.

Twelve reams of paper—10,000 sheets—were taken to the reporters by William Donaldson, who directs the House press gallery.

Joe Hanson, his helper, said:

"Bill and I have been in this press gallery 22 years, and there hasn't been anythink like this for at least 15 years."

The committee was seated in a dignified semi-circle.

Quiet, strained forward to get every word, was an audience far more academic in appearance than comes to most congressional hearings.

Hotel Strikers to Meet Employers

Representatives of the William Penn Hotel and striking employes were to meet today in an effort to bring peace in the strike which was called several weeks ago.

Following a recommendation of Judge Robert M. Gibson yesterday that the hotel rehire employes not guilty of violence during the strike, strikers met last night to determine their next move.

C. C. Julian Widow Delays Burial Plan

LOS ANGELES, April 10.—(AP.)—C. A. Julian, brother of C. C. Julian, who killed himself in Shanghai, said today that final arrangements for burial of the former oil promoter had been delayed by the widow's refusal to permit return of the body here.

War Scares Now Blowing Over for 'Insiders'

By PAUL MALLON

WASHINGTON, April 10.—The war scares are blowing over, on the inside at least.

Our official clockers of international affairs whisper that the situation has been materially changed within the last few weeks.

The main change is in Japan. Apparently she has decided to seek, by diplomatic and economic aggression, the same objectives she was seeking in the prospective spring war with Russia. She has sheathed the sword she has been brandishing around, is calling for peace and extending hands across the sea. Our authorities believe the change is real and will prove lasting.

If Japan does not want a fight, Russia certainly will not provoke it.

There is still dynamite underlying the situation, but it is being well handled.

DOVE

This was the only war really expected. The European war talk has been recognized as nine-tenths diplomatic hooey from the start.

Too many Europeans feel like Huey Long. Their governments may be mad at each other, but the people are not, and it takes the people to fight.

On this basis, the best international expert on the inside here believes that there will not be another war in Europe for at least 10 or 15 years.

That is too long to hold your breath.

EUROPE

What the master insiders confidentially expect is overthrow of the French government. They would not bet a nickel that it will last out the summer.

The truth is that they think France is well on the way to becoming a second rate power. It will take a strong man to save her. Great Britain is laying low and trying to restore her connections with her colonies.

In that respect Britain is doing right well. The consolidated position of her empire was never better than now. Strong economic bonds have been forged across the seas to the provinces.

The two coming nations of Europe are Italy and Russia. Their influence will grow.

What will happen in Germany is anyone's guess. Hitler has proved himself to be far more than the demagogue that Europe suspected. He is strongly entrenched. What will happen to him no one knows.

VETERANS

The underlying reason why President Roosevelt feels so strongly on the veterans' issue lies in his personal experience.

He has two or three friends who are presumptive veterans' cases. They are flagrant cases. They collected disability allowances for injuries presumed to be of war origin but which really had less connection with the war than injuries sustained by agitators for American peace soceties. Their cases were jokes, even to themselves.

Mr. Roosevelt made up his mind long before he become President that if he ever got in, he would stop that sort of thing.

He still feels that way, despite the over-riding of his veto. You have not heard the last from the White House on that subject.

PAY CUT

The President does not feel that way about the government pay cut angle.

He opposed that feature in his veto message. But he secretly intended to waive his objections, had the veterans' angle of the legislation been satisfactory. He would actually have signed the bill if it had not included the veterans' provisions.

That means the White House will do no further tinkering with the pay issue.

You can accept that as gospel.

TRICK

Despite all the encouragement from the Treasury, the proposed constitutional amendments for taxation of tax exempt securities will not pass this session.

The administration men on Capitol Hill have been permitted to understand that the Treasury is in no hurry about it.

The truth seems to be that Treasury Secretary Morgenthau used that amendment in sleight-of-hand style to help his spring financing program. He appeared almost too willing to testify on the subject and then suggested that the House committee doors be opened so all the world could hear.

The idea unquestionably was that the threat of future taxation would help to create a ready demand for the non-taxable bonds now being offered.

At any rate, that was the effect.

DOWNTOWN

This current House brain trust investigation was curtailed on orders from Downtown (the executive district).

This is what held it up for a week. The big boys did not want a congressional committee exploring every fool idea held by everyone who happens to be connected with the government. It would pin those ideas directly on the administration.

NOTES

Two or three Democratic congressmen (first termers) have informed the White House privately that they believe they made a mistake in opposing the President on the veterans' pay cut proposals. Louis Howe's influence with Congress appears to be no better than Mr. Roosevelt's was when he left. Although Howe has demanded that the crime bills be passed, they are being held up secretly by Southern Democrats who are state's rights men. These skeptics believe the expansion of federal policing authority will encroach on the rights of states. They whisper that they would not have sanctioned the federal kidnaping bill if it had not been for the Lindbergh case. The Department of Justice is said to be ready to disclose that the sea serpent seen by that Harvard student was really Huey Long, out for a swim.

County Relief Probe Hearing Thursday

Representative Joseph A. Rectenwald said today that testimony on the methods of the Allegheny County Relief Administration will be heard at a meeting in City Council chambers at 2 p. m. Thursday. He said persons who have testimony or are interested in charges of relief mismanagement are invited to attend.

COUNTERFEITERS BEWARE!

Old Uncle Samuel is on your trail, and we don't mean maybe. How do we know? Well, somebody passed us a lightweight quarter the other day, and we, guileless things that we are, paid it out to one of our employees as legal tender. The next morning we had a call from Secret Service. It seems that one of the government operatives, on a street car the night before, heard a strange tinkle in the fare box. He investigated and took charge of the quarter. The next day he had us on the carpet. Happily, we were able to prove our complete innocence.

THE MORAL IS, KEEP BOTH EYES OPEN

Especially when you are buying merchandise. The grade of merchandise carried at Harris Stores Company is winning the highest compliments from those who know the real from the counterfeit. We do not deal in shoddy, "seconds," or trash of any kind. As members of the NRA we're bound to the strict letter of the law, but long before the NRA was ever heard of, we subscribed voluntarily and gladly to the high ideals of the Retail Merchants Association of Pittsburgh, of which we were and are members. Let no one fool you, there's plenty of counterfeit goods on the market to-day, but you won't find it at 624 Liberty. In addition to the safeguard of reliable merchandise, fairly priced, we offer to all our customers our famous

LEHMAN FORCES N. Y. VICTORY IN POWER FIGHT

ALBANY, N. Y., April 10.—(AP.)—Gov. Herbert H. Lehman, swinging a big stick, has turned a defeat into a victory in his efforts to put across his public utilities program.

The Senate, reversing itself early today, passed his two key measures—a bill permitting municipalities to own and operate power plants and another requiring utilities to pay a share of the costs of rate investigation.

Both bills won by a hair, the first by 26 to 18 and the second 26 to 17. Twenty-six votes were required. Five Democrats, who voted against the bills last week, switched to the Lehman side.

Pressure brought to bear by the Governor on members of his party was considered responsible for his successs. He turned his attention today to the Republican-controlled Assembly, where these and eight other utility bills await action.

W. Kingsland Macy, Republican state chairman who has charged that utilities exert influence on the G. O. P. "Old Guard," has come to Albany to aid the Governor.

Utilities Magnate Denies 'Lobbying Fee'

WASHINGTON, April 10.—(AP.)—Harley L. Clarke, president and director of the Utilities Power and Light Corporation of Chicago, denied at the Trade Commission's public utility hearing today that fees given St. Louis lawyers were used to oppose the Senate resolution calling for the investigation of the power industry in 1928.

Thomas J. Tingley, commission counsel, after bringing out that fees of $189,500 and $50,000 were paid to Fordyce, Holiday and White, St. Louis lawyers, in connection with the acquisition of the St. Louis Coke and Iron Company and the LaClede Gas and Light Company, asked:

"Weren't part or all of those fees used for lobbying against the Walsh resolution?"

Clarke replied:

"No."

SEEKS CONTROL OF WIRE, RADIO

WASHINGTON, April 10.—(AP.)—Federal regulation of wire and radio communications was urged before the House Interstate Commerce Committee today by Secretary Roper.

The Comerce Department chief, head of a special committee which recently made a study of this subject, testified on a regulatory bill by Chairman Rayburn (Dem.), of Texas.

The inter-departmental committee favored continuation of private ownership and operation of communications under effective government regulation by one agency and some further extension of permission to merge existing companies.

Roper told the committee his group was unanimous in believing there was need of federal regulation, although there was some difference among its members as to the specific division.

U. S. MINISTER TO IRELAND FALLS DEAD

DUBLIN, April 10 — (AP.) — William Wallace McDowell, 67-year-old American minister to the Irish Free State, is dead at the very climax of his political career.

Rising last night at a banquet given in his honor by Irish executives, he started to make acknowledgement of the enthusiastic greeting that had been given him. The words, "Butte, Montana," came to his lips, then trailed off as the minister slumped forward, dead of a heart attack.

Montana was the minister's adopted state. He was born in Tennessee.

Mr. McDowell's cheerfulness, his love of Ireland and a break with tradition he made in presenting his credentials on March 27 to President Eamon De Valera—rather than to King George's representative as customary—brought him unusual popularity.

FALLS TO FLOOR

President De Valera, sitting at Mr. McDowell's left, was one of the first to reach him when he faltered while paying tribute to the Irish and Americans and fell between his chair and the table. It was then about 11 p. m.

Others sprang forward. Medical aid was summoned speedily, but the Minister was dead.

The dinner—a pleasant, lighthearted affair in Dublin Castle—broke up in confusion. President De Valera, a close friend of the Minister, was deeply distressed.

AUTOPSY SCHEDULED

Richard Washburn Child, representative of President Roosevelt, who had accompanied Mr. McDowell to the dinner, accompanied the body as it was borne to the American legation. There is was indicated an autopsy would be performed.

As the news of the death spread, there were expressions of grief on all sides. Today, the Irish Press, President De Valera's newspaper, said in an editorial headed "Sorrow:"

"The death robs our nation of a great friend and his of a great citizen. He had said that if he had all the countries in the world to choose from, he would choose Ireland."

Mr. McDowell was born 67 years ago in Trenton, Tenn. In Montana he had a a 3,500-acre ranch. He also maintained a winter home in Los Angeles.

Firemen Fight Fire In Mine Four Hours

Firemen from Engine Companies 10 and 39 stretched 2,000 feet of hose to reach a blaze in an abandoned coal mine in "Chicken Hill," West End, last night. After boring holes in the ground and playing water into the mine four hours, the firemen left. A section in the mine, which was still sending smoke through the cracks in the ground, could not be reached, they said.

times dangerous. He walked into the Rudell home, pistol in hand, told Mildred, sixteen, and her sister, Lillian, seventeen, that he was none other than the famous bandit "Pretty Boy" Floyd demanded the key to their absent father's automobile. Lillian took away his pistol, Mildred held him by the hair.

THE NATIONAL Veterans' Administration in Washington laid down yesterday the interesting rule that blind veterans of the World War should receive almost twice as much as a soldier who lost a leg in battle.

The legless veteran gets $119 a month as a maximum. If he has lost the use of both feet, or both hands, or one foot and one hand and one eye, he can get a maximum of $175 a month. A veteran totally blind is entitled to $150 a month, plus $50 for a nurse or attendant, "even though the blindness resulted from wilfull misconduct."

Except sanity, no misfortune could be greater than loss of eyesight, for it means at the same time inability to see the earth and inability to read about it.

A 1,000-MILE automobile road race run in Italy every year is the most exciting in the world since the old Vanderbilt races on Long Island. Won this year in fourteen hours, eight minutes, five seconds, it was run in Northern Italy, at breakneck speed, over all kinds of roads, by Pikot Varzi in an Alfo Romeo car. The route runs in Northern and Central Italy, across mountain passes, through narrow village streets, no roads cleared, shouting crowds everywhere.

Many "low-price" cars in the United States could do the 1,000 miles in two hours better time, but perhaps not under such conditions.

DR. WILLIAM A. WIRT, educator from Gary, Indiana, is on his way to Washington to tell about the plot to start a revolution in this country and install a Stalin in the White House.

The facts in Dr. Wirt's possession should be interesting. If your country is to suddenly "go Russian" you want all the details. A man writing in the Princetonian declares that Dr. Wirt was the victim of a hoax.

AN ANNOUNCEMENT like this you have perhaps not heard since 1929. Mayor George Tedder, of Belleglade, in the Everglades, says 2,000 additional men and women are needed to pick the bean crop.

THE GOVERNMENT will continue spending hundreds of millions to clear away slums in big cities, disturbing the owners of inferior apartments, giving them competition, which is sad. It will mean better health, more light and sunshine, for hundreds of thousands of children, still unborn, which is cheerful.

SINCLAIR LEWIS 'FIGHTS' AUTOS

HAMILTON, Bermuda, April 10.—(AP.)—Sinclair Lewis, who knows enough about main streets to make a book—and did—is afraid motorization would make one of Bermuda.

Members of the House of Assembly are considering the admittance of automobiles to the colony. It irks the novelist. He envisages the now peaceful coral island as one long main street, strewn with "hot dogs," empty cigaret cartons, beer bottles.

Besides, he argues in the current issue of the Bermudian Magazine:

"If by the introduction of motors you are going to make Bermuda more like Detroit and Pittsburgh, then why should the citizens of Detroit and Pittsburg take the trouble to come here at all?"

One in 20 in Town Of 600 Under Knife

KENESAW, Neb., April 10.—(AP.)—When the talk switched to operations, this town of 600 can hold its own easily.

Thirty-one residents of the town have gone under the knife for appendicitis in the last 45 days, or one in every 20. Only one operation resulted in death.

Get the Habit of Drinking Hot Water Before Breakfast

Says we can't look or feel right with the system full of poisons.

Millions of folks bathe internally now instead of loading their system with drugs. "What's an inside bath?" you say. Well, it is guaranteed to perform miracles if you could believe these hot water enthusiasts.

There are vast numbers of men and women who, immediately upon arising in the morning, drink a glass of real hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it. This is a very excellent health measure. It is intended to flush the stomach, liver, kidneys and the thirty feet of intestines of the previous day's waste, sour bile and indigestible material left over in the body which if not eliminated every day, become food for the millions of bacteria which infest the bowels, the quick result is poisons and toxins which are then absorbed into the blood causing headache, bilious attacks, foul breath, bad taste, colds, stomach trouble, kidney misery, sleeplessness, impure blood and all sorts of ailments.

People who feel good one day and badly the next, but who simply can not get feeling right are urged to obtain a quarter pound of limestone phosphate at the drug store. This will cost very little but is sufficient to make anyone a real crank on the subject of internal sanitation.

Just as soap and hot water act on the skin, cleansing, sweetening and freshening, so limestone phosphate and hot water act on the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels. It is vastly more important to bathe on the inside than on the outside, because the skin pores do not absorb impurities into the blood, while the bowel pores do.

Contract Bridge

How to Play
How to Win

By Josephine Culbertson

The Worst Mistake

In Bridge as in life when it comes to a question of competition it is usually the person who makes the worst mistake that has to pay the greatest penalty.

In a recent Duplicate game in New York City I saw the play of a hand in which there were a succession of mistakes, and one of the members of the defending side made the most serious. The Declarer on the first lead, which, to say the least, was unusual and remarkable, made his mistake by failing to unblock in the suit in which the Opening lead was made, but he at least had some justification because of the remarkable choice of lead made by the defending player.

The hand was South, Dealer.
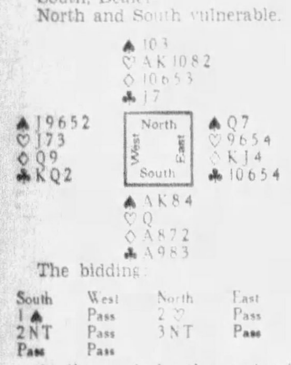
North and South vulnerable.



The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 ♠	Pass	2 ♡	Pass
2 NT	Pass	3 NT	Pass
Pass	Pass

As the cards lie the contract of three notrump should be severely penalized, but the combined hands have more than six honor-tricks and South, after his partner's two-heart Takeout, cannot find a satisfactory bid in any other suit and thus it seems to me is fully justified in bidding two notrump. North's Raise to three is certainly sound enough, considering the fact that a five-card suit headed by three honors, including the two tops, is hel

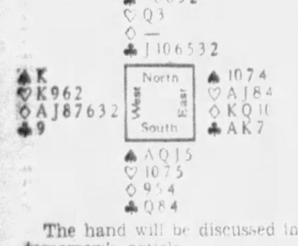
West, it must be admitted, has a difficult choice of an Opening lead. Spades have been bid by South, hearts by North. The three-card club suit does not seem to be particularly desirable as the suit to open either. So West finally chose unquestionably his worst lead—namely, the diamond Queen.

When the Dummy was spread on the table the Declarer studied the lead and decided that it was probably from a four-card suit headed by Q J 9 and that East had a singleton. This seemed to effectually limit any chances of defeating the diamond suit, so when East followed with the four South carelessly played the deuce. Actually he should have played the seven or eight, so if his first impression as to the distribution of the suit was not later confirmed, he would still retain entries from one hand to the other.

West, still in the lead, now led the diamond nine and South, still somewhat confused as to the distribution of the suit, and thinking that the Ten might take a trick, but in any event nothing could be lost by the play of it, played the Ten from Dummy. East played the Knave and now South realized that the Opening lead had been the remarkable one of short from the Queen-nine alone. South won with the Ace and returned a diamond, establishing his seven. When East won this trick he returned the club 4, and West won with the Queen and returned the King. Again South won with the Ace and immediately returned the suit. East won, and for lack of anything better to do, returned a club. South now cashed both his club and his remaining diamond, realizing that if by any chance West held the heart Knave and a stopper in spades, as seemed to be indicated by his unusual plays, a squeeze situation had developed. True enough, this was found to be the case. South now led the heart Queen and overtook with the Ace, and when the King was led, West's Knave dropped, establishing the Ten in the Dummy and permitting South to discard his remaining losing spade. Obviously against a spade Opening, or a heart for that matter, South is far short of his goal of nine tricks. Though it must be conceded that West had a difficult choice of an Opening lead, he certainly did not make the best one.

Tomorrow's Hand

East, Dealer.
East and West vulnerable



The hand will be discussed in tomorrow's article.

EDGEWORTH TAX CUT 3 MILLS

With a reduction of three mills each in the borough and school taxes, Edgeworth Borough today claimed to be operating on one of the lowest millages in the state.

Council has set the new borough rate at eight mills and the school board the new school rate at five mills.

Accodring to Borough Manager H. F. Burkholder, the low rate was brought about through a program of operating the community on a model system. The borough has a bonded indebtedness of only $32,000, or 35 one-hundredths of one per cent of the assessed valuation.

Twice since then I had to take several bottles to regulate and strengthen me. I have also used the Sanative Wash and it relieved my trouble."—Mrs. Chas. S. Pittinger, 55 Conklin Ave., Brooklyn, N. Y.

QUICK RELIEF FROM CONSTIPATION

That is the joyful cry of thousands since Dr. Edwards produced Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel.

Dr. Edwards, a practicing physician for 20 years, and calomel's old-time enemy, discovered the formula for Olive Tablets while treating patients for chronic constipation and torpid livers.

Olive Tablets do not contain calomel, just a healing, soothing vegetable laxative, safe and pleasant.

No griping is the "keynote" of these little sugar-coated olive-colored tablets. They help cause the bowels and liver to act normally. They never force them to unnatural action.

If you have a "dark brown mouth"—bad breath—a dull, tired feeling—sick headache—torpid liver—constipation, you should find quick, sure and pleasant results from one or two of Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets.

Thousands take them every night to keep right. Try them. 15c, 30c, 60c.

PINCHOT TALK CUT OFF, TO GO ON AIR AGAIN

here, he got in touch with the American Telephone and Telegraph Company and was told that the transmission was "satisfactory."

He also got in touch with officials of KDKA. He said they told him that there was trouble in the transmission and the Governor's voice was not coming through in a natural tone.

SPEECH CUT OFF

After announcing that the speech was about to start here, KDKA cut in to say that transmission of the address was impossible.

William S. Hedges, general manager of KDKA, expressed regret to the Governor. He also issued this statement:

"We regret that mechanical difficulties beyond our control made it impossible for KDKA to broadcast the speech by Gov. Pinchot. The connections between here and Harrisburg were so poor that it would have been impossible to hear the speech clearly enough to be understood.

"In fairness to Gov. Pinchot, it seemed better to cancel the speech than to put on a poor broadcast. The position of KDKA in this and other political campaigns is one of strict neutrality with absolute fairness to all candidates."

LACKED NOTIFICATION

Lynden Morrow, publicity director of KDKA, was questioned today on failure of the station to notify radio editors that the Governor was booked to speak last night. He said:

"The Pinchot speech was booked late Saturday, some days after the Monday schedules of KDKA were mailed to the newspapers radio editors. When the contracts for the speech were signed, it was too late to make the corrections in the schedules in the afternoon radio pages.

"These corrections in radio schedules are handled as a regular routine by the traffic department of the station as they occur, and every effort is made to keep the newspapers informed of last-minute changes."

It was pointed out however that on other changes, radio stations telephone to radio editors for last-minute corrections in program listing. This notification was not given to newspapers in connection with the Pinchot broadcast.

Judge Smith revealed today that arrangements for the Pinchot broadcast had been made in Harrisburg. KDKA officials had said that the "cheapest" line service available had been engaged by Pinchot aides to bring the speech to Pittsburgh.

Pinchot last night assailed "the whole evil brood of policies and practices," which he said are represented by Mellon, according to an Associated Press summary of his remarks.

The Governor declared:

"I have always stood and I shall always stand for driving Mellon and the other monopolists of the necessities of daily life—these masters of concentrated wealth—out of their control of the government of Pennsylvania—which I have already done twice—and out of control of the government of the United States.

"Senator David A. Reed, as their obedient servant, supports and defends that control.

Pinchot, in the event of his election to the Senate, pledged continued support of the policies for which he has stood during his two terms as Governor.

FLAYS SENATOR REED

Pinchot said Reed is the Mellons' "listening post in the Senate, where he had defended them from attack." He continued:

"Senator Reed has stood for the big fellows throughout his working life. He stands for the Morgans, the international bankers, for the steel companies, for the public utilities, for all the oppressors of the people."

Aligning himself "beside President Roosevelt in his fight for the forgotten man," the state's Chief Executive side:

"Long before he was in public life I was fighting for the principles of the new deal. It is because he stands so often for the things for which I have fought all my life that I propose to support him along the same lines while he devotes his magnificent courage and ability to the service of the men and women of this nation."

Tarentum Council Elects E. I. Hepler

Councilman E. I. Hepler was elected president pro tem of Tarentum Borough Council at a meeting last night. He will serve during the absence of A. B. Davidson. Council was notified that the relief organizations now operating in the borough will be under the supervision of Mrs. F. H. Wilson.

'ARMY' FUNDS TO AID WOMEN

County-wide service to women and girls was cited by the Salvation Army today in announcing its impending campaign to raise $108,500.

Among Army institutions to be financed through the campaign are a temporary home for transient girls, a home and hospital for expectant mothers in need, the Evangeline Home, at 425 Boulevard of the Allies, for working girls, and a free employment bureau which placed nearly 4,000 in paying positions during 1933.

Minister Defies Critics, Orders Murals Finished

SEATTLE, April 10.—(AP.)—Defying critics, the Rev. Fred W. Shorter, pastor of Pilgrim Congregational Church, has authorized completion of controversial mural drawings in a church Sunday school room.

Unidentified persons defaced two of them. The drawings showed a farmer plowing under his crops and a southern planter rewarding a Negro woman on the birth of a child.

Dr. Clarence Smith, one of the leaders of those opposing the murals, has said "they have no place in any church." Conservative members have protested on grounds they contain "anti-capitalistic" propaganda. They were made by members of an art class, directed by Ross Gill, northwestern painter.

Gray Hair

Best Remedy is Made At Home

You can now make at home a better gray hair remedy by following this simple recipe: To half pint of water add one ounce bay rum, a small box of Barbo Compound and one-fourth ounce of glycerine. Any druggist can put this up or you can mix it yourself at very little cost. Apply to the hair twice a week until the desired shade is obtained.

Barbo imparts color to streaked, faded or gray hair, making it soft and glossy. It will not color the scalp, is not sticky or greasy and does not rub off.

PASSIONIST NUN HEAD BURIED IN CONVENT

Within the high brick walls which has been built up around her more than as core of years ago, Mother Hyacinth was buried today. She was Mother Superior of the order of Passionist Nuns at 2715 Churchview avenue, Carrick.

For 24 years she had lived on the hilltop in Carrick, while the city slowly built itself around the convent. But in all that time the world that grew and lived outsidee the walls never penetrated within the cloistered retreats of Moth Hyacinth and her nuns. For they had dedicated their lives to God and were not of world.

300 ATTEND SERVICES

The funeral services, with a high requim mass celebrated by the Very Rev. Father Benjamin, C. P., were held in the little chapel adjoining the convent, with 300 friends and benefactors of the nuns attending the services.

Most of those present had never seen the face of Mother Hyacinth, although they knew her well.

They had conversed with her through the "screen" which separates the nuns from the outside world, and may had come to know her as a kindred soul.

The nuns, who loved her best were in a separate chapel, unseen. They were close to the black broadcloth-covered casket in which their mother superior was to be buried.

SEEN THROUG SCREEN

The casket was visible to the public only through the iron screen on the top of a door at the right of the altar.

Among the nuns were Mother Theresa, who now takes Mother Hyacinth's place and becomes mother superior of the convent, and Mother Catherine, both came with Mother Hyacinth from Italy 24 years ago when she founded the order of sisters in the United States.

The burial took place in a small cemetery within the inclosure, surrounded by a separate wall. Mother Hycainth is the first of the nuns to die and be buried in this plot which she laid out herself.

Pitcairn Boy Dies In Fall Off Chair

LUCKIES are All-Ways kind to your throat

—so round, so firm, so fully packed no loose ends

We like to tell about the finer tobaccos in Luckies—the choicest Turkish and domestic, and only the mild, clean center leaves—they taste better—then "It's toasted"—for throat protection. But we're just as proud of the way Luckies are made. They're so round and firm, so free from loose ends. That's why Luckies always "keep in condition"—do not dry out. Luckies are always—in all-ways!—kind to your throat.

"It's toasted"

✓ Luckies are all-ways kind to your throat

NOT the top leaves—they're under-developed—they are harsh!

Only the Center Leaves—these are the Mildest Leaves — The Cream of the Crop — They taste better

NOT the bottom leaves—they're inferior in quality—coarse and sandy!

M'GOVERN MUM ON BANK DEAL DECISION

County Commissioner C. C. McGovern today had no comment to make on the Pennsylvania Supreme Court's ruling that William McK. Reed, member of the Allegheny County Authority, had no right as president of the Third National Bank to persuade a customer to mortgage his home to invest in a decrepit coffee concern.

It was McGovern who nominated Reed for the Authority.

All Reed would say was:

"You've made statement enough."

The Supreme Court's ruling upheld the lower court.

Robert Emery, of Dormont, sued the bank to recover $10,000. He complained that he had invested in the Highland Coffee Company on Reed's advice.

A jury gave Emery a verdict of $11,587.

The bank appealed.

Reed was president of the bank until it was taken over in 1931 by the Mellon National Bank.

Emery contended that he and his wife had mortgaged their home to buy the stock, that the officials of the bank knew the coffee company was worthless.

Judgment Upheld

ROBERT EMERY

Mr. Emery, Dormont, whose judgment recovering $10,000 invested through former President William McK. Reed and the former Third National Bank was upheld by the State Supreme Court. This is a Sun-Telegraph picture.

JUNIOR PATROL

Don't be afraid of the doctor, fellows.

A doctor is you friend. He will not tell you there is something the matter with you unless there is, and he will try to keep you well. That's why it's such a good idea to be examined by a doctor at least once a year.

There are some things that can be cured easily if the doctor finds them right away. If you visit him occasionally, he has a better chance to find those things in time to help you.

Take your eyes for instance. Maybe you can see fairly well, but not so well as you should. If you get properly fitted glasses right away, your eyes may soon be entirely well again.

It's the same way with your teeth. A decayed tooth doesn't get better itself. You should go to a dentist and let him fix it. It may hurt a little, but it's better, by far, to be hurt a little and have your tooth fixed than it is to lose the whole tooth by having it pulled later on.

Now here is a letter from Sarah Plotkin of 501 Washington avenue, Carnegie, Pa. She writes:

"I don't belong to a club around here but that doesn't mean I can't help others. I try to help others in these ways: I help mother with her work, take care of brother, get my teacher milk every day and when I'm in a street car and someone doesn't have a seat I give them mine. I don't know whether you would call the last one helping. I am in the sixth grade in school and I am 12 years old. My brother, Norman, is five years old. I read the books "Buddy at Rainbow Lake" and all the Bobbsey Twins books. They are interesting."

That's a wonderful report, Sarah, and you are quite right that you can help others without joining a club. And you are helping others a great deal, it seems to us. The reason we like to have members join a club, and organize clubs, is because most boys and girls have more fun playing together, and working together.

ACQUIT 'SQUIRE OF ASSAULT

Justice of the Peace Ira H. Edmundson, of Mt. Lebanon, was found not guilty of assault and battery but directed to pay the costs by a jury in Criminal Court late yesterday. His son, Constable John Edmundson was found guilty of asault and battery on E. M. Britner, 658 Shady drive, Mt. Lebanon, over whom the trouble arose.

Britner was acquitted of resisting an officer and the costs were placed on the prosecutor.

Britner charged that Squire Edmundson beat and shook him December 2, after he had been knocked down by Constable Edmundson. The Edmundsons said Britner resisted when being arrested by the Constable for assault and battery. Judge Thomas M. Marshall deferred sentence on Constable Edmundson when the latter asked time in which to move for a new trial.

MT. LEBANON BOND VOTE SET

Mt. Lebanon Township Commissioners have set April 19 for a special election on the proposal to issue $90,000 in bonds for improvements.

The plan calls for the Public Works Administration to buy the bonds and the township to repay the amount in yearly installments. In addition the government is to grant the township $29,000 to aid in carrying out the program which involves among other things construction of roadways in the parks and erection of a shelter house.

Pay Boost Spurs Glassport Police

Glassport's 10-man police force went about its usual business of hunting law violators today with an added zest. The reason—a five-cents-an-hour wage increase granted by borough council last night.

The patrolmen now get 55 cents an hour and the lieutenant 57 cents.

Radio Stock Company Formed

By AIRCASTER

It is the belief of the National Broadcasting Company that there is a lot of drama, as well as talent, drifting about the movie lots of Hollywood, which, logically, should find its way to the air.

If Broadway actors are having a microphone vogue, why not those of the cinema?

The executives have suddenly awakened to their own possession of cinema facilities for building up the dramatic phases of the radio scene.

With its business ally, the RKO, the broadcasting company has formed the first West Coast stock company, made up of cinema celebs.

Very soon, one hears, the "Hollywood on the Air" presentations will go dramatic and will utilize the new organization of players who already comprise a camera unit. They will be directed by Buster Collier, and the cast will be built around a nucleus including Thelma White, Tom Brown and Carol Tevis. The "Hollywood on the Air" broadcasts are heard Monday nights at midnight over WCAE.

ADVICE

"The Rise of the Goldbergs" recently pictured Jake, the father in the skits, as about to embark upon a new business venture. Some idea of the audience interest in serial episodes is reflected by an avalanche of fan mail, as reported by Gertrude Berg, the author and principal.

Jake has received hundreds of letters and wires from business executives advising him not to undertake any real estate promotion at present.

P. S.—Most o fthe mail came from Florida.

Hello, ladies and gentlemen:

Here is the story of the first battling robin of the season. He has made his appearance at the home of C. A. G. Mortland, Oakley avenue, West View.

This feathered demon poises himself on the rose trellis near the dining room windows and then makes a comet-like dive towards the window. After smashing up against it he returns to the rose trellis and repeats the routine over and over again. This has been going on for three weeks.

This of course becomes annoying to the dwellers of the house who do all they can to discourage such hostile actions on the part of the bird. Mr. Mortland screened the window and pulled the shade so that in the event of an extra vicious burst of power the robin would not hurtle itself through the glass and into the soup.

The robin didn't care for that and transferred his activities to another window in the dining room within good hurling distance from the rose trellis.

Then the Mortlands decided to use a rubber snake to frighten the bird. They placed the contrivance in the second window. The bird promptly returned to the first window, battering itself without seeming hurt into the screen. When it is chased, it flies off the trellis to a nearby limb, where it chirps cockily until the stones and sticks stop flying and the throwers have departed. Then wham! once more the banging begins.

Now Mr. Mortland wants to know whether he will have to eat in the kitchen or will some one give him an idea to convince the robin that it isn't adhering to the proper code for birds?

James J. Kerley, McKeesport, has an interesting hobby. He builds boats. Right now he has just completed a model of the "Constitution." It is 30 inches long and built to scale, rigging complete. It may be seen at his home on Orchard avenue, Number 3103.

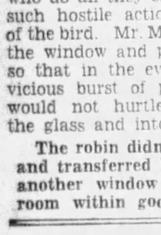
BATTLE CREEK GIRL-TOO THIN GAINS 8 POUNDS...QUICK NEW WAY!

Read How Amazing Mineral Concentrate Richest in Newer Form of "FOOD IODINE" Is Building Up Thousands of Nervous, Skinny, Rundown Folks



Miss Arlyne Rubin 50 Manchester St. Battle Creek, Mich.

Miss Arlyne Rubin at 50 Manchester St., Battle Creek, Mich., says: "I have long been underweight and believe my trouble has been due to malnutrition. I have tried almost everything without any good results. Since taking two packages of Kelp-a-Malt, I have gained 8 pounds."

Just one of the thousands of actual reports that are flooding in from all over the country telling us how this newer form of food iodine is building firm flesh, strengthening the nerves, enriching the blood—nourishing vital glands and making weak, pale, careworn underweight men and women look and feel years younger.

Scientists have recently discovered that the blood, liver and vital glands of the body contain definite quantities of iodine which heretofore have been difficult to obtain.

Doctors know how vitally necessary to health and well-being are natural food minerals—and particularly food iodine—often so woefully lacking in even the most carefully devised fresh vegetable diets.

Supplies Newer Form of Food Iodine

Kelp-a-Malt, only recently discovered, contains practically every mineral essential to normal well being. But most important of all, it is the richest known source of the newer form of food iodine—natural iodine not made from iodides or other chemicals which oftentimes prove toxic, but the same iodine that is present in spinach and lettuce. It is the lack of this iodine which experts in nutrition say is our foremost national health problem.

Kelp-a-Malt is a sea vegetable concentrate taken from the Pacific Ocean and made available in palatable, pleasant-to-take tablet form. Six Kelp-a-Malt tablets provide more food iodine than 486 pounds of spinach, 1566 pounds of beef, 1387 pounds of lettuce. Three Kelp-a-Malt tablets contain more iron and copper for rich blood, vitality and strength than a pound of spinach, 7½ pounds of fresh tomatoes—more calcium than 6 eggs, more phosphorus than a pound and a half of carrots—sulphur, sodium, potassium and other essential minerals.

Only when you get an adequate amount of these minerals can your food do you any good—can you nourish glands, add weight, strengthen your nerves, increase your vigor, vitality and endurance. Contains no yeast—doesn't cause bloating.

Try Kelp-a-Malt for a single week. Watch your appetite improve, firm flesh appear instead of scrawny hollows. Feel the tireless vigor and vitality it brings you. It not only improves your looks, but your health as well. It corrects sour, acid stomach. Gas, indigestion and all the usual distress commonly experienced by the undernourished and the underweight disappear.

Prove the worth of this amazing weight builder today. Two weeks are required to effect a change in the mineralization of the body. At the end of that time, if you have not gained at least 8 pounds, do not look better, feel better, and have more endurance than ever before, the trial is free. 100 Jumbo tablets, 4 to 5 times the size of ordinary tablets, cost but little. Get Kelp-a-Malt today.

Posed by professional model.

That's the sort of praise radio critics everywhere gave last Tuesday night's performance of "The Vagabond King" . . . presented by Palmolive's all-star cast, with Gladys Swarthout, famous Metropolitan Opera Star and Nat Shilkret's 40-piece orchestra.

Today we feel theater-minded, what with Stage and Play Society having a production tonight of Douglas Jerrold's "Black-Ey'd Susan" and the first-night audience at poignant "Richard of Bordeaux" at the Nixon to talk about.

Stage and Player Madeleine McClintock not only designed the nineteenth century women's costumes for the play tonight, to be given in the Twentieth Century Club, but she made them, too! The girls' dresses are the picturesque brief, tight-waisted, full skirted gowns of the period.

And versatile actor, playwright and business man James W. Macfarlane made the shiny black sailor hats for the jolly sailors in the cast.

Will Be Presented Like Old Melodrama

Howard Wilbert, who designs plate glass windows, painted in a row of captains for Stage and Play tonight.

"Black-Ey'd Susan," first produced at the Royal Surrey Theater in London in 1828, will be presented like the old melodramas. The villian is hissed for his misdeeds and the hero and heroine cheered for their virtues.

Clark Miller, one of the sailors, will sing a solo. And there'll be a chorus of four girls and four boys who'll do some English folk dancing. They are Gwendolen Holmes, Anne Hamilton, Katherine MacConnell, Alice Rust, Jack Evans, Bailey Gordon, William G. Costin, Jr., and John Gibson III.

Theodore Viehman is directing the play with James W. Macfarlane assisting.

Only Two Feminine Roles in the Play

There'll be only two feminine roles in the play—to be taken by Mary Knox and Frani Blough. C. Morrison Fitch, Harold Geoghegan, Murray Grimes, Richard Kimball, James W. Macfarlane, Clark Miller, Bennett Rodgers, John S. Schroeder, Paul M. Snyder, Reginald Stanborough, Howard G. Wilbert and Charles S. Wunder will be the "supporting" cast.

As usual, there'll probably be informal entertainments after the play for the actors and their friends.

By the way, non-members of Stage and Play may attend the productions.

Returned Travelers Seen at Theater

A group of our returned travelers was at the Nixon last night. Mrs. William Christopher Robinson, back from Florida, and Mrs. William B. Trainer, home from Palm Springs, Cal., were in the audience. Mrs. Robinson wore over her black evening gown a wrap of ice-green velvet. Mrs. Trainer's gown of net was in so deep a shade of purple that it looked almost black.

Leaving the theater with them was Mrs. William S. Moorhead.

The William A. Gordons, the III, were there, too. Mrs. Gordon, the former Madelaine Alexander, wore a red gown decorated with broken white dots arranged in diagonal lines. It was ever so interesting.

Others I had a glimpse of were Lydia Irish, Louise Baton and Mrs. George S. Baton. Helen Ruth Deike was with her mother, Mrs. George H. Deike. Helen was in bright green.

Hospital Group to Give Bridge-Luncheon

Still another bridge-luncheon in the offing is that the Presbyterian Hospital social service committee will give Wednesday, June 13, at Longue Vue Country Club.

Mrs. Kirkland W. Todd and Mrs. Ernest N. Calhoun will be co-chairmen with Mrs. Walter S. Church and Mrs. Russell P. Mitchell chairmen of prizes; Mrs. Robert E. Grove and Mrs. Ralph W. Leavenworth tables, chairs and cards; Mrs. Richard D. Baker and Mrs. Irwing W. Danforth, candy; Mrs. Alan C. Stevenson and Mrs. James Beal, ushers; Mrs. Joseph K. Bole Hare, publicity.

The Maurice Falks of the Hotel Schenley, are home from Hollywood, Fla., where they spent the winter at their villa there.

Of much interest to both business and social circles here will be the marriage tomorrow in New York of Mrs. T. Edward Hambleton, of the Hotel Drake, and Jerome Hill of Pembroke place. The ceremony is to take place tomorrow at noon in Mrs. Hambleton's apartment in the Hotel Drake with the Rev. Dr. James Palmer officiating.

Mrs. Hambleton is the former Adelaide McAlpin, a daughter of Mrs. William W. McAlpin and of the late Mr. McAlpin.

Mr. Hill has one daughter, Mary Hill, now Mrs. William M. Doolittle, of Sewickley, and a son, Edward J. Hill, who is at home.

Gossipy Chat

When Virginia Frew Wright arrived at the Architectural Club Saturday night for the second Junior League sponsored soiree charette she still had on her apron—over her evening dress.

So the architects made her cigaret girl. Virginia explained she was afraid she couldn't make change, but the architects assured her that was no drawback—she just didn't need to make any.

Virginia had been to an informal dinner party before the soiree charette, had helped her hostess serve dinner and forgot to take off her apron.

Miss Glover attended Ashley Hall in South Carolina and her fiance attended the Citadel School, Charleston, S. C., and Columbia University.

The ceremony will take place at 11:45 o'clock in the morning in the Church of the Nativity, Crafton, with the Rev. John Taylor, pastor, officiating, assisted by the Rev. Mortimer Glover, brother of the bride-to-be. And a reception will be given later in the home of Miss Glover's sister, Mrs. K. T. White-Spunner, of Steuben street, by the family.

Miss Nettie Gensheimer, of Elizabeth, N. J., is to be the maid of honor and Harry Glover, brother of the bride-elect, is to be best man. Mr. Glover will give his daughter in marriage.

20th Century Women Hear Author

MRS. CHARLES M. BREGG

One of the most delightful lectures of the season, one full of the charm of something new and unusual as well as the charm of the speaker's personality, was given yesterday at the Twentieth Century Club by Elsie Singmaster Lewars on "Pennsylvania Germans." Mrs. Lewars (who uses Elsie Singmaster as her pen name) spoke easily and rapidly and concluded her talk by reading "The World Upside Down," which her audience chose in preference to a shorter story, showing its appreciation and enjoyment of her talk by its choice.

She sketched fully the background of the Pennsylvania Germans, telling many interesting facts that are not generally known concerning their part in this country's early history. Pennsylvania Germans and Pennsylvania Dutch are all the same people and since all came from Germany, Mrs. Lewars insists that they be called Germans. The first regiment that reported for duty in Washington in the Civil War was made up of these people and in the early days of Fort Pitt Pennsylvania Germans served under Gen. Bouquet.

Mrs. Lewars told, too, of the persecution, torture and death suffered by these peasant folk in several European countries and how they determined to live peaceful, simple lives.

William Penn had looked with pity on them on his visits to Germany and had caused his book, "The Holy Experiment," to be translated. That began the migrations which brought different groups — Mennonites, Dunkards, Moravians—to settle in different parts of this country. The curious old buildings of the Mennonites still survive near Lancaster, Mrs. Lewars said, as she went on to describe their dress and customs and to comment on their gift for music. Wherever they went they carried music with them and they made the first musical instruments in Pennsylvania.

Of especial interest was the religious service described by the author-speaker, a service in which the sermon was an hour and a half long, the preacher beginning with the creation of the world and going through the Bible to Revelation. Being with the quiet, peaceful people, who know neither envy nor strife and the children playing quietly with simple little toys was like "stepping into heaven," she said.

Nice to get out of your street shoes and into a comfortable pair at home, isn't it? Or don't you walk places? But really what all this has sprung from is the fact that . . .

One of the stores is ballyhooing some brand new sandals around just now . . . the kind that are suitable for home, porch, lawn and beach wear later. The sort that you always want the latter part of this month and onward (and never can find them, usually!). They're all white (tintable fabric or crushable pig grain) . . . with low or medium Cuban heels. Some in tie styles . . . some in T-strap models . . . some pumps. There are perforations . . . bits of embroidery . . . A to C widths . . . and the grand and glorious price of $1.95.

* * *

Socks. Socks! Not "the Billy and Ernie pair," however . . . but the cutest, the smartest, the newest children's socks we've seen since we were sock-conscious! Made in Italy . . . and therefore sporting those beautiful patterns and colorings which . . . no matter what one says about it . . . cannot be duplicated. The cuffs at the top are closely woven, insuring their stay-uppishness . . . so necessary on lanky little legs. Of finest lisle . . . at 50c the pair. Get the youngsters ONE pair apiece at least for special occasions!

* * *

This is the long and the short of it . . . IT being evening wraps.

Maybe you've heard . . . and and then again, maybe not . . . that the newest thing for Spring is the LONG taffeta wrap that billows in and out of doorways with a gesture! Picture doing all this for the gesture of $17.50 on your part! For that's what these black and navy stunners are. One in a monk-like style that DOES things for you (a quaint loop that throws across your throat and hangs down the back a la jolly friar). Another with short cape sleeves set into the body of the coat with little pleatings. Another with a simple scarf-end collar and biggish sleeves! And all made from beautiful quality taffeta!

Then the short end of the story applies to the quilted taffeta jackets of lipstick red or white. Sort of hand-me-downs from Schaparelli if you know what we mean. And very swanky in their above-the-knee finale. At the same price.

* * *

Earfuls and eyefuls . . . of new lingerie at one of the town's high-hatted shops! Popeyed with glee we rushed in and rooted 'round through these exciting new items.

Like an all-in-one little garment for the young girl. Stepins and a brassiere complete . . . joined together in some ingenious fashion and appearing in tearose or white . . . plain or lace trimmed styles. Of fine crepe (the tailored ones with a weensy satin cross bar effect). Sizes 32 and 34 only. $1.95.

And then regular dancettes that someone went and whistled away from a manufacturer when he was napping! Grand values for $1.95 those too . . . in plan or lacy styles, white or tearose . . . and sizes 32, 34 and 35. Any feminine fancier in need of underpinnings had better hasten here.

* * *

We women have a strange way with us, 'tis said (let's admit it and get it over with!) . . . and one of the latest is the way some of our number have taken to wearing nothing less than plain-Jane garden gloves for sports and driving.

The reason being that these said gloves are 75c the pair . . . and are noted far and near for keeping hands soft and fine. They're specially made of all leather . . . processed in such a way that they keep your paws in party condition even whilst clawing about in the flower beds (this IS something!) AND little dears . . . you can wash them like an old hankie. In three sizes for women . . . and for men as well. And quite sporty looking they are!

—DOROTHY RANDALL.

Western Pennsylvania's Students Sharing in Mount Rushmore Immortality

Contestants Cautioned On Rules

Among the millions of Americans who are striving to set the nation's history in 600 words of immortal type in the granite of Mount Rushmore are thousands upon thousands of students in Western Pennsylvania, Eastern Ohio and West Virginia.

When the national memorial is completed in the South Dakota Black Hills, these students will know that they will have had a part in the fulfilling of a monument that will tell America's epic to students through thousands of years to come.

The opportunity afforded every man, woman and child by the Mount Rushmore National Memorial Commission to have a part in writing a permanent history of the nation through a competition being conducted by the Sun-Telegraph and associated Hearst newspapers has enthused educators throughout the nation.

PROJECT LAUDED

School leaders throughout this district have lauded not alone the project as a national monument but the competition as a stirring movement to awaken the patriotic conscience of the American people.

Pittsburgh's three leading educational institutions—the University of Pittsburgh, Carnegie Institute of Technology and the Duquesne University—are co-operating with the Pittsburgh Memorial Committee by conducting competitions within their individual institutions.

The Pittsburgh and Allegheny County Public Schools, the Pittsburgh Diocese Parish Schools and many other school districts are likewise co-operating. Every student should read the special rules appearing in an adjoining column and submit their text entries according to the arrangements made for his or her school.

600 WORDS LIMIT

Students attending schools without active participating units, in submitting their entries direct to the Pittsburgh Memorial Committee, in care of the Sun-Telegraph, must use the special information form also appearing on this page.

Remember that the text must not exceed 600 words. It must be based upon nine specified episodes of history, as follows: 1—Writing of the Declaration of Independence. 2—Drafting of the American Constitution. 3—Purchase of Louisiana. 4—Ceding of the Floridas to the United States. 5—Entry of Texas into the Union. 6—Acquisition of California. 7—Settlement of the Oregon Boundary dispute. 8—The Alaska Purchase. 9—Building of the Panama Canal.

Helpful information and rules and details are repeatedly appearing in the Sun-Telegraph. Watch for this news every day. Don't try to express your words in flowery phrase. The humble words that flow naturally from the thoughts will have the best chance of winning. There are separate awards for the college entrants, the high school students, and the grade school pupils.

AMERICAN-MADE FASHIONS TAKE A BOW IN THE SPOTLIGHT

Note the trick decolletage on the passion flower red crepe dinner gown, sketched right. It has the long matching glove sleeves.

Delicate, frothy pink lace makes this gown and hat, with its general discreet peek-a-boo effect. The monk's collar is new and the new glove sleeves are detachable. Alice blue crepe is used for the long sash and the hat ribbon ruched into a Watteau tilt.

Lovely, spiral lines grace the royal blue crepe dinner dress sketched standing, center. The belt is twisted of gold, blue and red.

Here we have a delightful spring version of dramatic black and white. It is an evening costume provided with its own wrap, and made of white crepe accented with deep cuffs and a tunic with fringe of long monkey fur. The gown is vastly decollette.

This gown is an ideal one for the second wedding which departs from City Hall simplicity.

By PRUNELLA WOOD

THE UNITY between fashions on the stage and in the audience grows ever closer, and the choice of American fashions is no longer a daring innovation on either side of the footlights. All the frocks on this page are from the wardrobe of beauteous Mme. Jeritza, the soprano, chosen from an American designer's models to wear in her new operetta. It's the first time Jeritza has deserted Europe for her finery, and she is loud in her praises—pleased as a child with her "discovery!"

We are pleased, too; Lady Lou was not the only smart thing we had to offer well dressed cosmopolitans, and the list of American designers behind the lovely clothes one sees is a roster to be proud of.

Whose Fault?

When a Child Won't Study

"Kept after school!" And it isn't the child's fault, or the teacher's. His mother is to blame. How can a boy get his lessons when his senses are dulled day after day by dosing with sickening purgatives? When a child's bowels are stagnant they need help, of course. But not some drastic drug to upset the stomach, perhaps weaken the entire system; or form the laxative habit. On the right, parents will find a happy solution of this problem: Here's a boy who gets good marks, has time and energy for play. He is never ill, hardly ever has so much as a cold. When he does show any symptoms of being sluggish, his mother knows just what to do. She gives him a little California Syrup of Figs—and that is all. It's a natural, fruity laxative that is agreeable to take, and its gentle laxative action comes from senna. Parents are urged to use just pure California Syrup of Figs. Be sure bottle says 'California'.

Many People Staying in Florida

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., April 10.—Into the central yacht basin this week will sail the 15 boats which competed in the fifth International Sailing Race from St. Petersburg to Havana, returning after a leisurely cruise up the Gulf Coast from one of the most interesting contests in the history of the Southern classic.

Delighted with the opportunities for boating and the balmy, even temperature of the spring months, the sailors are planning to make this city their headquarters for a series of cruises in the Gulf, on the bay and to the interesting islands and tropical shores adjacent to the Sunshine City.

Sportsmen noted for their skill in Northern streams and Canadian lakes are gathering in St. Petersburg for the annual assault on the silvery tarpon, greatest game fish of the seven seas, which already has begun running off the Gulf Coast and in the bay east of the city.

Swissvale Women Give Operetta

Members of the Regent Square Club and friends of its own members were guests of the Swissvale Woman's Club yesterday afternoon and enjoyed a charming program in the Carnegie Library clubrooms. Under Mrs. William Huber's chairmanship, Miss Lura Stover sang several soprano solos, and the club choral, directed by Mrs. John A. Esler, gave the operetta, "The Last Tea of Suki," in Japanese costume.

Mrs. H. S. Fuller and Mrs. John Quinn sang the principal roles, Mrs. Esler's daughter, Miss Louise Esler, completed the program with piano solos. Then there was tea.

Things I Never Knew About the Circus

(Thanks to the Ringling-Barnum-Bailey bunch)

Animals born in the big show menagerie are named after the city, town or village in which they first see light.

Everything is on wheels with the circus—except the people, the elephants, the horses and other "led" stock, such as camels and zebras. All other animals are in cages.

In a small wreck of the first section of the circus trains at Dyersburg, Tenn., a decade or so ago, the only thing which was not demolished in a workingman's sleeper was Berth 13.

Charles Hutchinson, treasurer with the show for 43 years, has yet to see a complete performance. He's out front in the red wagon.

The only horses not owned by the show are those ridden by bareback riding acts. The circus owns Clyde Beatty's lions and tigers.

Tom Lynch sup't of the 465 draft horses with the show, has been "with it" (Barnum, and since 1918 the combined show) for 58 years. He is 77 and can still swing a 12-horse team when called.

There are 41 miles of rope when the show is under canvas. The tents cover 17 acres. The big top seats 15,750 people—although the big tent once held over 17,000 people, the record.

Con Colleano, the wire somersaulting star, is really Con Colleano Sullivan. His father is Irish, his mother Spanish. The Colleanos live in Brooklyn. Con's wife is a grandniece of the Earl of Derby.

The big show carries 1,600 people counting 90 agents and billers ahead of the show—1,000 of this total are workingmen, canvasmen, drivers, grooms, train crew, cooks, waiters, sleeping car potahs.

No elephant born in captivity in America has ever lived over a few months. Old Mom, famous as a matroness of the herds, was the last mother. Old Mom kicked off last Winter. The baby was born in 1917 in Sheboygan, Wisconsin. It died in a few minutes.

"Little Miracle," born in 1916 to "Alice," lived nearly 6 months. It was raised on the bottle, "Alice" refusing to nurse it. "Snyder" was the father of both babies. Very ritz guy, too.

Pat Valdo, the present director of personnel and performances, was a star clown with the show less than 8 years ago.

The first section of the train always leaves town before the performance is over. (No, not so's you can't git your money back!)

John Brice, chief of the Big Show police (it carries its own police dep't), knows every chief of police in the land.

After service as a press man in Europe with Buffalo Bill, with the Ringling Bros. Show and the Pawnee Bill show in America, Dexter Fellows joined the B-B show in 1906. He continued when the Ringling Bros. and the Barnum-Bailey shows combined. It's his 28th year.

The Big Show personnel has long since abandoned old-time circus slang. Performers are no longer "kinkers" . . . . The "razorbacks" are not canvasmen or roustabouts. They are of the train crews. Elephants are not "bulls," clowns are not "joeys," lions and tigers are not "cats." The side shows are not "kid shows," the show's doctor is not a "croaker," and there never has been a "hey, Rube!" within memory of the personnel. So state 40-year troupers.

The "main guy" around the circus is a wire cable holding the center pieces in place.

An average meal in the show's dining tents—1,300 pounds of beef, 20 bushels of potatoes, 350 pounds of salad, 3,800 ears of corn, 400 pies, coffee, tea and milk. All eat alike, from general manager to garbage man.

There is a berth in a show sleeper for every workingman—no matter how unimportant his job may be.

The daily order includes 600 loaves of white bread and 200 loaves of rye. Also, 30 gallons of milk. Five loaves of raisin bread and five quarts of grade A milk. Not for the boss's table as you probably suspect—but for the menagerie monkey cages!

Sundays the menagerie men administer a tonic of 10 pounds of resin, 10 pounds of bicarbonate of soda and 10 pounds of charcoal, mixed with bran, to the elephants. One day a week the cage animals fast. Otherwise—indigestion, and you know how that is.

The Merle Evans band plays continuously for three hours at each show, catching 200 cues and playing that many numbers.

Jennie Rooney, who with Ed Rooney, does a star double trapeze act under the Garden ceiling girders, gets dizzy when she looks out of high windows! (And is frightened stiff riding in elevators!)

The midgets in the show have never known a midget couple to have a child, but several of the midgets have married normal sized people—and have had normal children.

Helen Wallenda, of the breath-taking high-wire Wallenda act, fainted when she first saw a newsreel of the act.

Dennis King As a Tragedian Wins Fresh Laurels As Richard II

By GEORGE SEIBEL

This is a hard world for poets—that seems to be the message of the historic drama in which Dennis King is trying to escape from the world of Tiller girls and 10-cent comedians. "Richard of Bordeaux," which opened at the Nixon Theater last night, tells the story of the English monarch who preferred peace to war, the arts to oppression, things beautiful to blood and slaughter. Because his counselors and ministers found this policy not to their taste, and because the people of England found it easier to hate the French than to make friends of them, Richard the Second fails in the end and is led from the Tower to Pomfret Castle, where he is later killed.

Gordon Daviot, which is the pen name of a Scotswoman who wrote this historic pageant play, has a sense of the theater, which is a great deal in a historic play.

Mr. Seibel

There are always opposing forces and factions in every scene, with Richard as the pivot of the conflict. And the dialogue is cast in prose that goes like a bullet straight to its mark. It is modern English—no 'sdeaths and gadzooks — sometimes very modern English. Besides all that, there is a central character, Richard, whose fortunes the drama follows from first to last—until his castle of dreams crashes about him and he is alone in a hostile world.

Yet there is something remote and unreal about the drama, which may be due to the unfamiliarity of the historic epoch. There must have been a Richard I and there was a Richard III. But all his woes and worries look as faint as faded tapestry despite all those robustious beef-eating Britons who surround him.

ROMANCE TO RUIN

Dennis King gives a most admirably shaded portrait of the king, as he slips gradually from romance to ruin. In the early scenes he is brilliant and handsome, meeting his rough-shod opponents with fine irony, in love with his lovely queen. Stung to revenge by treachery and stunned by his queen's death, he deals ruthlessly with his opponents, but at last falls before their smouldering rage.

Never flamboyant, Dennis King plays some of his scenes with fiery grace. At other times he acts with true pathos. His diction is at first so quick-fire that the words come like the crack of a whip. Again it is smooth as velvet. His makeup is masterly, showing the swift descent from the prime of youth into early age. Yet the poetry is never obscured by any pathology—it is Hamlet the king resembles in a world that is out of joint and which a cursed spite let him be born to set aright.

Dennis King's rich voice, used once in song, and his romantic figure, arrayed in royal finery, make "Richard of Bordeaux" a brilliant pageant against settings that are redolent of atmosphere. Historically the drama seems to be written and staged with scrupulous care. Pictorially it could hardly be more impressive. It is something for the eye and the ear, but also for the student of history and politics.

GROUP OF FINE ACTORS

The cast of about 20 includes a group of fine actors, among whom the Gloucester of Hugh Buckler, the Arundel of Montagu Love and the Michael de la Pole of Lionel Hogarth were conspicuous. But A. G. Andrews as Burley, Charles Bryant as John of Gaunt and Wilfrid Seagram as Archbishop of Canterbury deserve no less honor. Beatrice de Neergard gave alien archness to Anne of Bohemia, deep pathos to her death scene, while Henry Mollison was a Bolingbroke of convincing smoothness. Richard Stevenson, Andrew Cruickshank, Alexander Frank and Elizabeth Cerf had some effective episodes.

Well acted, well staged, making history live, and making a shadowy royal figure seem flesh and blood, "Richard of Bordeaux" falls short in some indefinable way of stirring the audience deeply. Perhaps the fault is the same that lost Richard his crown—a failure to understand the common clay of the average man and meet him on his own ground. Beef and brawn have a stronger pull than musk and music. A stirring drama from the literary point of view, it becomes more and more a chronicle as it stretches across the year. But it is well worth seeing, if only for its valiant reincarnation of Dennis King as a tragic hero.

Echoes From Cabarets

By THE ROUNDER

Jerry Blanchard, the songstress who opens in the Plaza Friday, has appeared here frequently and is quite popular locally. Among the clubs that Miss Blanchard has played are New York's Ha Ha Club, Club Madrid and Club Richman, as well as the Ritz Carlton Hotel.

The resemblance of Pete Kirmes, local business man, to Russ Columbo, caused autograph seekers to besiege him Saturday night at Eddie Peyton's, despite his fervent protests that he was not the popular crooner. The Dazaar sisters will open at Peyton's Saturday.

Tommy Riggs and Sammy Fuller, local radio stars, will team for the first time Saturday night when they open their week's engagement at the Gay Paree. Harry Smythe's portrayal of Ezra in the Hill Billy skit went over big there last Saturday night.

Betty Nylander, the Overbrook dancer who has appeared with Lou Holtz in "You Said It" and with Joe Cook in "Rain or Shine," will begin her Show Boat engagement Saturday.

Bonnie and Lee's burlesque of the Apache dance was featured at the Hi Hat Club last Saturday night. The same evening Curt Guckert pleased with his first M. C. work. Another "Night in China" will be offered by the management Saturday.

The new show Fred Sanders has lined up for his 1,000-person capacity club on Steubenville pike includes Dorothy Nesbit, Faun Jordan and the Royal Hotel Orchestra.

Jim Courtney, manager of the Monoco Gardens, Oakland, says a customer ordered a plate of hot dogs and sauerkraut. After it was served, deep in thought, he placed a weinie in his mouth, cigar fashion, and applied a lighted match to it. After the second match failed to light the "smoke" he came out of his reverie, casting the hot dog on the floor and strode from the club, slamming the door.

Odds and Ends

"MY BETTER half, as they are called in the comic strips," writes Mrs. Lucy Irvine, of Cape Vincent, "tells me that this story is older than I am. But it can't be, because I remember having seen it in your column. (Editor's note: Mrs. Irvin is not kidding.)

"At any rate, Helen and Jimmy were on the train at last. Alone, together! They slumped in their seats, completely exhausted.

"'Believe me,' exclaimed the groom, 'if I had dreamed that getting married would cause so much trouble and confusion, I don't think I would have started it.'

"'You can say it again,' snapped his bride. 'I'm plenty sick of bum wise-cracks and old shoes and rice. If a man stepped up to me right now and offered some best wishes, I think I'd slap his face.'

"'Well, never mind, baby. I'll see that nobody bothers us on this trip to Niagara Falls.'

"With that promise to his bride, the young man marched down the aisle. He found the porter.

"'Listen, George,' he advised, 'my wife and I do not wish to be bothered. I'm going to ask you not to tell a soul that we have just been married. Here's a five spot. Understand?'

"'Yassuh, boss,' grinned the porter, 'ah gets you. Thank you, suh! Naw, suh! Ah won't tell nobody.'

"The afternoon passed. If the young couple had been shipwrecked on a desert island, they couldn't have been more alone. And so the night passed.

"But—when the bride and groom entered the dining car the next morning, they were greeted by one of those silences. All eyes were upon them. Over there, a man whispered to his companion and they both smiled. And over in that corner, a sweet young thing giggled hysterically.

"Jimmy and Helen were seated. The waiter served them. It seemed to them that th. eyes of their fellow travelers were glued upon them. The whisperings continued. Laughter was smothered.

"'Jimmy,' cried Helen in a panic-stricken whisper. 'That porter told!'

"There was blood in the young man's eye. With clenched fists he strode through the train. 'I'll kill that porter!' he mumbled, almost audibly.

"George was shining shoes. He grinned broadly when he saw the donor of the $5 bill.

"'Mornin', boss. Nice mornin' this mornin'.'

Jimmy grabbed him by the collar. His hands tightened around the frightened porter's throat.

"'You double-crossed me,' he shouted. 'Didn't I give you $5 to keep your mouth shut? Why did you tell these people we were just married?'

"The porter looked up with pleading eyes.

"'Ah never told 'em, boss,' he trembled. 'Honest Ah didn't. You sho is got me wrong. A couple of 'em asks me is you-all just been married—an' Ah sez, naw suh, you-all is jest good friends!'" . . .

"DEAR Mark:" writes Lennie Hayton. "In a recent column you suggested that Jimmie Durante would be much happier among the Eskimos, where they kiss with their noses.

"Please don't start a movement to send Jimmy away. It would be a shame. Especially now, when he is at the beak of his career!" . . .

* * *

"IT actually happened," writes Leonard Lyons, 'during the recent investigation of New York's firetrap tenements. One of the inspectors visited a Harlem tenement against which complaints had been made, and in one apartment discovered that three families were occupying one room. The room had been sectioned off by flimsy curtains.

"'How much rent do you pay here?' the inspector asked one of the men.

"'Each family pays $2 a month,' was the reply.

"'That's terrible,' cried the shocked inspector, 'and you'll have to do something about it. Quickly, too. Conditions here are unbearable. I'll give you just two days' time to do something about it. And I mean what I say.'

"Two days later, the inspector returned. He discovered a lot of activity in one closet of the apartment. Dishes, clothing and bedding were being removed.

"'So you're really moving,' observed the inspector. 'Well, I'm certainly glad you've done something about conditions here.'

"'We certainly done somethin' about it,' was the reply of one of the tenants, 'but we ain't movin'.'

"'No?" asked the inspector. 'Then what have you done?'

"'Oh,' was the amazing response. 'We subleased the closet!'".

Western Star Assigned to Do Serial

By JIMMIE STARR

HOLLYWOOD, April 10.—Hello! Things are a-poppin' in Hollywood . . . James R. Grainger, general sales manager for Universal, comes to town and the action buzz-saw starts to grind. Buck Jones, now toprater of the so-called Western stars, signed for a series of six adventure productions and one 15-chapter serial.

Perhaps you didn't know that these continued-next-week thrillers still clicked at the box office, but they do. Last year, Jones starred in "Gordon of Ghost City" and it was a wow with the fans so Junior Laemmle, young boss of the outfit, has replaced Ken Maynard on Universal's new program with Mr. Jones.

Wanderings around Hollywood . . . The Rita Kaufman (she has my personal bid as the best-dressed woman in the movie village) and Pat Decicco steady-dinning and dancing companionship is getting mighty serious. Bert Wheeler tried to cut in for an evening at the Cocoanut Grove, but Pat edged in and out went Wheeler . . . The Chief carried the Archie Mayos, Broadway-bound, 10 minutes after the robust Archie had finished directing the last scene of "The Dark Tower" . . . Sue Carol and ex-hubby, Nick Stuart, were a-cooing at the Grove . . . Mrs. Chico Marx hopped a plane to surprise hubby in New York . . . Rob Montgomery is set to star in that Oxford University yarn, "Manners Maketh the Man," by John Monk Saunders, for M-G-M . . . Mr. and Mrs. Frank Lloyd tossed an elaborate surprise party at the Fox Studio Tuesday for daughter Alma (nearly everybody calls her Jimmy).

Olsen and Johnson, the goofy comics, practically drove a flock of newspaper boys and girls daffy by sending presents of rabbits in massive boxes. What can you do with bunnies but build pens and go into business? I'm going to raise fur coats for all the chorus girls who squawk about Hollywood's Don Juans being tightwads . . . Oh, another thing about Olsen and Johnson—it must be a rib. They received a telegram asking for two seats for their opening and it was signed Greta Garbo . . . Harvey Priester, the insurance man, has been taking Judith Allen, the Wampas starlet, around . . . Hollywood extends sympathy to Minna, Juel and Hal Wallis for the loss of their mother.

Peeping around the cinema corners—not to be outdone by other polo fiends, Frank Borzage went right out and purchased his own polo grounds . . . Joan Bennett's first public appearance since the birth of her daughter, Melinda, will be April 16 for NBC . . . Mary Brian had the gossips all afluster when she flashed a square-cut diamond on that important finger, but it's only a gag—she bought it herself! . . . Powder Cleans and Whitens Teeth—as nothing else can

THERE is nothing known that will clean and polish teeth so quickly and leave them so gleaming white—as POWDER.

That is why your dentist, when cleaning your teeth, as you know—always uses powder.

As it is only the powder part of any dentifrice that cleans, a dentifrice that is ALL POWDER just naturally cleans best.

Dr. Lyon's Tooth Powder is ALL POWDER—100% cleansing properties. This is more than twice the cleansing properties of tooth pastes.

Dr. Lyon's Tooth Powder cleans off all stains and tartar, and polishes the teeth in a harmless and practical way that leaves them sparkling—many shades whiter. Free from all grit or pumice, it cannot possibly scratch, or injure the softest enamel.

Dr. Lyon's Tooth Powder keeps your teeth REALLY CLEAN and clean teeth mean—firm, healthy gums, freedom from pyorrhea and the least possible tooth decay.

Once you use powder you will never go back to a less scientific way of tooth cleansing. It leaves your teeth feeling so much cleaner, your mouth so refreshed, and your breath so sweet and pure.

Dr. Lyon's Tooth Powder is not only doubly efficient, but it costs only half as much to use. Even a small package lasts twice as long as a tube of tooth paste.

Llewylln Is Advanced For County Chairman

By MARK SHIELDS

Democratic opponents of the regular organization, which is headed by David L. Lawrence, are circulating petitions to make C. G. Llewllyn, 1232 Highland avenue, a candidate for county chairman against Lawrence in the May primary.

Mr. Shields

Llewllyn is being supported by Maj. E. Lowry Humes, one of the chief backers of Judge Charles D. Copeland, of Westmoreland county and Roland S. Morris, of Philadelphia, candidates for Governor and U. S. Senator respectively, against George H. Earle, Philadelphia, and Joseph F. Guffey, Pittsburgh, supported by Lawrence.

In the last mayoralty primary Llewllyn backed John M. Henry, present director of the County Bureau of Elections, against Mayor William N. McNair. The latter was supported by Lawrence, but differences have arisen between them since the election, and an effort is being bade to swing McNair into line for Llewllyn.

Petitions previously had been circulated on behalf of G. Malcolm McDonald, who was a candidate against Lawrence two years ago, but McDonald declined to run again and the movement for Llewllyn followed.

In a statement issued by Philadelphia headquarters of the Copeland-Morris ticket today National Committeeman Sedgwick Kistler indorsed both, as well as Senator Henry L. Snyder for lieutenant governor and Representative Norbert Fitzgerald for secretary of internal affairs. Obviously sniping at Guffey, Kistler said:

"What is the use of expecting better government under one political boss than under another? What difference is there after all between a Republican boss and a Democratic boss?"

Earle to Visit Party Members Here for Day

Earle will visit Pittsburgh tomorrow, and with Guffey will confer with Democrats of Allegheny and adjoining counties during afternoon and evening sessions. It will be his first visit west since he was indorsed by the Democratic State Committee as a candidate for Governor.

An organization known as the Political Pioneers—all feminine—put on a meeting last night at Peabody High School, and it was expected that a candidate or two would be indorsed for some office or other. But there were so many candidates, and they all talked so much, that the ladies never had a chance to get around to indorsements.

The scintillating news was that Mayor McNair will not open his campaign for Governor until May 1, the day usually set aside for labor demonstrations, and in recent years a riot or two. Because he is holding his fire until May Day, the Mayor declined to talk at the high school meeting, though Mayor Eddie McCloskey, of Johnstown; Father James R. Cox and Theodore L. Moritz, the Mayor's secretary, magistrate and candidate for Congress, each had something to say. Mayor McCloskey is a candidate for Secretary of Internal Affairs.

Papale Gets Biggest Hand From the Crowd

Magistrate Charles F. Papale, of the Twelfth Ward, was the most applauded speaker when he introduced Guffey, the only regularly invited guest—Mr. Guffey being the only speaker present with any current patronage. Mr. Guffey shot at candidates who run on more than one ticket, when he said:

"I am running for the Senate on one ticket—the Democratic. And on one plank—support of President Roosevelt and his polices. Senator David A. Reed objects to a small coterie of men running the country now, but he didn't object to one man, Andrew Mellon, running it for 11 years."

Gov. Pinchot, Mr. Guffey said, was trying to get into the Senate on the coattails of the President.

Representatives of Judge E. C. Bonniwell, running against Earle, Copeland, McNair and John McSparran, extolled the Philadelphia jurist, and it was all very confusing to the ladies, whose chairman is Mrs. Lillian Morgart, at one time vice chairman of the Republican City committee. This year, she says, the ladies will decide which party will get their support after they have heard the candidates.

Gen. Martin Remains Truly Optimistic

Republican State Chairman Edward Martin is one of the few leaders of his party who is at the moment pressing an effort to attain some manner of unity among state chiefs in the primary. The majority hold the sentiment that it is futile now to attempt to get cohesion for any candidate, and continue to predict that it may be two or three weeks before the seething situation settles—if it ever does.

Gen. Martin has been conferring with William S. Vare. There are some Republican leaders—and among them are regulars — who consider this a waste of time and assert Mr. Vare no longer has the power to enforce his desires in the big Eastern city.

It is significant that Judge Robert E. Lamberton, of Philadelphia, one of the Republican candidates, is planning an active campaign to begin April 20. Judge Lamberton would do no active campaigning unless he had a reasonable hope of support from at least a section of the regular leaders.

Secret Bride of Months

MRS. ROBERT W. TIMMONS . . SHE WAS DOROTHY STROSNIDER

The former Miss Strosnider, 309 McKee place, one-time Pitt co-ed, revealed today as the secret bride since November 2 of Robert W. Timmons, Pitt football player. This is a Sun-Telegraph picture.

PITT ATHLETE SECRETLY WED

Kept secret since November 2, the marriage of Robert W. Timmons, Pitt football player, and Dorothy Strosnider, of 309 McKee place, Oakland, was revealed today.

The marriage is the second such surprise sprung by members of the Pitt squad within a month. Several weeks ago it was revealed that Leo Malarkey and Marion Alice McBeth, of McDonald, had been married at Newell, W. Va., September 1 following a double elopement.

Mrs. Timmons was formerly a Pitt co-ed. She said:

"We met on a blind date during my freshman year. Oh, yes—my mother knew we were married."

The couple will reside on the North Side. The bridegroom will graduate in June.

VOTE CONTEST COSTS FIXED

A state Supreme Court ruling today furnished the basis for assessing the costs of election contests.

The opinion, written by Justice George W. Maxey, overruled the Superior Court in fixing the costs forcontests in the Twelfth Ward aldermanic election where former Alderman William A. Means was defeated by Michael DeRosa.

The court ruled that when an election contest is successful, the county, borough, township or school district must pay the cost.

When the contest is not successful, the court ruled, the person or persons contesting the election must bear the costs.

As interpreted by attorneys, the decisions means the city mus pay three-fifths in the Twelfth Ward contests, Means one-fifth and De Rosa one-fifth. DeRosa successfully contested the results in three election districts, lost one district. Means lost a contest in one district.

BUDGET CHIEF 'SEEKS' DUTIES

Edward A. Schofield, new City Budget Controller, has asked Council to name the specific duties of his position.

In a letter to Council, he states that since taking office April 2 he has been trying to determin the fixed duties and possibilities of his office. Schofield succeeded Robert J. Alderdice, former Councilman, who resigned.

Schofield has suggested to Council that the Budget Controller should be a contact man between Council and all departments, furnish reports on all transfers of funds before they are made, and carry on a research bureau to obtain facts for Council, upon demand.

Relief Board O. K.'s 10,000 for Jobs

Investigators of the Allegheny County Relief Board today were busy certifying those eligible for jobs on projects of the Relief Works Division, the quota of which is 23,000 in the county. Up to last night only 10,000 had been placed, due to the slow process of selecting workers who are to be chosen only from those receiving relief.

Philip H. Lantz, assistant RWD administrator, said that the quota would be nearly completed by the end of the week.

COUNCIL CHECK FOR PAYROLL CUTS VOTED

Magee Scores Point To Scan List of 'Deadwood'

Councilman William A. Magee has acted to give Council a closer check on the hiring and firing activities of the city department heads.

Magee shoved through a resolution yesterday requiring directors and other city officials with power of appointment to report to Council the names of all major employes dismissed since January 1, their titles and reasons for dismissal

A similar report is to be required each month. Magee argues that Council should know about dismissals since it may have to pay the salaries later if the employes are dismissed illegally.

OPPOSED BY KANE

The vote in Council was five to four, the Democrats being solidly against it. Councilman John J. Kane, explaining his stand later, said he felt Council is trespassing on the executive side of the government. He said:

"If Magee was Mayor he would think so, too."

Magee was also the author of a motion to ask the Civil Service Commission for a list of all exempted positions, from which employes can be dismissed without charges being preferred. Council approved this motion without objection.

O. K. GARLAND MEASURE

Council also passed President Robert Garland's resolution placing responsibility for pruning "deadwood" from the city payroll on the directors.

The parrot ordinance, providing for the killing of birds of the psittacine family which have been brought to Pittsburgh since 1932, or have been in contact with birds in pet shops and so are possible spreaders of parrot fever passed finally and goes to the Mayor today.

The ordinance licensing Sunday sports has also been laid on the Mayor's desk.

M'NAIR'S LIQUOR CHARGE SPIKED

Mayor McNair is wrong in his idea that cheap liquor caused accidents to double during the first two months of the year, accodding to a report by the National Safety Council today.

The report, read at the regular monthly meeting of the Western Pennsylvania Safety Council, attributed thme increase to two causes, extremely bad weather and better business.

The hard winter caused more skidding, and more automobiles are on the street because business is better, the report stated. Facts for the survey were gathered from detailed reports of accidents, George E. Clarkson, manager of the branch, pointed out. He said:

"We also feel the March decline in accidents supports these facts."

'Brain Trusters' Like Salome, Veiled Threat to Finish

By ARTHUR (BUGS) BAER

Well, one of those intellectual economists finally turned over the cracker barrel.

He said, "I'm in the brain trust right up to my neck."

We now know that the powerful cránial corporation was not quite so dangerous as Salome. And to the finish Salome was a veiled threat.

The cerebral syndicate hasn't slowed up the corrugated individualist who dates back to 1880. The good old days when men were menaces and barroom sawdust contained vitamin A.

The revolt started when the professors tried to turn the House of Reps into a prep school for higher institutions of learning.

Sharpsburg Police Get Cleanup Order

Sharpsburg police were criticized and given orders to eliminate speakeasies in the borough by a resolution adopted by Council last night. Councilman Lawrence Bragg said:

"It is a disgrace that the county detectives had to raid the speakeasies in this borough when the citizens pay from $25,000 to $30,000 a year for police protection."

Bragg introduced a resolution to prohibit citizens from working for the borough to pay their taxes.

Funeral Directors To See Method Demonstrated

A new kind of life and death mask—reproducing, it is claimed, every detail of face and form, even to the pores of the skin—will be demonstrated at a meeting of funeral directors of Allegheny County at the Fort Pitt Hotel tonight.

In producing the mask, the subject experiences no pain, according to its inventor, Howard S. Eckels, of Philadelphia, and an uncanny likeness to the model is the result. The mixture used, known as "soluble silk," is a secret formula produced after long experimentation.

The method, introduced recently, already has been adopted by morgue officials in various cities as a means of identification. Among notables whose masks have been made by the process is Anton Cermak, late Mayor of Chicago. The replica of his features was made for use on his tombstone.

The demonstration tonight will be conducted by Prof. Charles H. Watkins, of the Eckels College of Embalming, Philadelphia, assisted by William Kamps, also of Philadelphia.

Church Women Will Hold Show

A merchants' exposition will be held by the Ladies' Aid Society of Holy Rosary Church, 7120 Kelly street, tonight, tomorrow and Thursday. Mrs. R. Steinback is chairman.

'DAYLIGHT' FOES LEAD POLL

Postcards are flooding the Mayor's office as the anti-daylight forces have pushed into the lead.

The vote now stands at 2,064 against daylight saving to 1,141 in favor of it. The sudden switch in sentiment is ascribed by the pro-daylight saving group to activities of motion picture theaters, who have been calling upon their patrons to rally against the daylight proclamation.

A new deluge of cards at the Mayor's office today disclosed the poll has moved many to more or less poetic and artistic effort. Several cards bore drawings and bits of poetry. One, for instance, read:

Your Honor, we humbly petition
Concern o'er our awful condition.
Cease single tax raving,
Bestow daylight saving
For which we have all been a-wishin'.

GOLF MANIAC.

Budget clerks have not counted the new ballots and it was not learned whether the result would be changed by the new tabulation.

3 FOUND GUILTY SECOND TIME

Three North Braddock men today were convicted for the second time of manslaughter for a death which occurred more than six years ago.

John Sliwka, Michael Chismar and Michael Rechtowick were found guilty in the death of James O. McDonough, 28, of Braddock. In June 1927, McDonough was fatally beaten during an argument in a Braddock club, according to witnesses.

The defendants were first convicted in 1928. Numerous delays were caused by deaths and sickness.

Judge J. Frank Graff, who presided at the first trial, also presided today. The defense asked that the verdict be set aside.

Keaton's Ex-Wife Robbed of Jewelry

LOS ANGELES, April 10.—(AP.)—Natalie Talmadge, former wife of Buster Keaton, screen comedian, had reported to police today that her Pacific Palisades home was entered by burglars Saturday night and furs, jewels and clothing valued at $5,000 stolen.

PLAN ADVANCED AT CABINET SESSION

Code Problem Given To City Solicitor For Study

Mayor McNair is in favor of awarding contracts to bidders on city work regardless of whether they are under NRA codes.

In one of the most informal cabinet meetings of the new administration, McNair yesterday covered a wide range of subjects in discussions with his department heads.

During the meeting, George M. Thompson, Mayor of Butler, entered the room and was immediately seated with the cabinet.

FRIENDS 'SIT IN'

A little later William A. McGuire, of Johnstown, Pa., an old friend of Mayor McNair arrived, and also got a place at the table.

On the code discussion, McNair was told by Chief City Engineer Charles M. Reppert that some contractors have been paying as low as 25 cents an hour for labor. The Mayor agreed to refer the code problem to the City Solicitor.

The proposed widening and extension of Sennot street, Oakland, was discussed. The Mayor attempted to get an opinion from Safety Director Ralph E. Smith opposing the Sunday sports licenses approved by Council, but Director Smith persisted in the opinion that at least a nominal license fee should be charged.

WOMAN ASKS JOB

Chief City Assessor Percy R. Williams suggested that the license on baseball and football games is in a sense a land tax, but the Mayor laughed at the idea.

About that time, a woman was said she was the mother of 11 children asked that something be done to give work to her boys.

The Mayor told her to send them in.

He declared there are some vacancies in the staff at Mayview and one in the Division of Recreation.

GOT SEVEN VOTES

The applicant said:

"I worked hard to get you elected. I furnished seven votes."

Another woman asked for work for her husband.

A reference by the chairman of the Board of Water Assessors to increased consumption of water by breweries was discussed briefly.

The cabinet meeting was brought to a close with the plea of a Negro rubbish collector to be allowed to continue to haul rubbish from the downtown stores to the Hill District. His request was granted.

Salvation Army to Celebrate Birthday

Pittsburgh Salvation Army workers today joined workers throughout the world in observing the hundredth and fifth anniversary of General William Booth, founder of the organization.

Local observance will be marked by a pageant and supper in the Army Building, 425 Boulevard of the Allies. The celebration is under the direction of Maj. Thomas Malpass.

WILL ROGERS SAYS

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., April 10.

To the Editor, Sun-Telegraph:

The whole American fleet left the Pacific today, it had to, in order to be away around on the Atlantic side by the time war broke out in Japan and Russia.

Eastern seacoast Congressmen demand the sailors spend some wages in their towns, western ones want the same. The government ought to let each town (East and West), figure out how much the Navy spends there, then let the government pay it, but let it be done with the understanding, that politicians, and chambers of commerce have no hold on the fleet, and that it can be placed wherever its needed. Yours,

WILL.

Moyer May Put Ban On Garbage Plant

Dr. Ray P. Moyer, city health director, today was to decide if a quarantine will be ordered for the Allegheny Garbage Company plant on Herrs Island for alleged violation of health regulations. The company has the city contract for garbage and rubbish removal in the North Side district. Dr. Moyer said that for months it has been violating sanitation regulations.

Pinchot Picks 13th For Arbor, Bird Day

HARRISBURG, April 10.—(INS.)—Gov. Pinchot today had designated April 13 as Spring Arbor and Bird Day in Southern Pennsylvania and April 27 in northern parts of the state.

Council to Decide Stand On Housing Program

City Council is today to consider its attitude toward the type of housing program represented in McNair Manor.

A resolution, presented by P. J. McArdle, which would place Council on record as declining to enter into a housing program such as that represented by the Mayor's cottage at Sixth avenue and Forbes street is to be discussed in finance committee today.

McArdle states that the building is alleged to be a sample of the type of house proposed in a letter by Attorney Kivie Wolfe. He asks that Wolfe be notified that Council refuses to enter into the program.

Wolfe, informed of the resolution by a reporter, said:

"I don't see why I should do anything to straighten Council out on the housing program. Some of them will be up for election soon."

The McArdle resolution also asks that the Biltwell Construction Company, contractors, be told to discontinue distributing printed matter to lead to the belief that the city is committed to heir program.

HOSPITAL HEADS ADVOCATE NEW GROUP PLAN

Group hospitalization is coming to Pennsylvania because it is the one way of assuring all people proper hospital care, it was declared today by a past president and the president-elect of the Hospital Association of Pennsylvania.

Charles A. Gill, superintendent of the Episcopal Hospital, Philadelphia, who tomorrow will become head of the association now holding its thirtieth annual conference in William Penn Hotel, took a positive stand on group hospitalization with this statement:

"I don't think the time has yet arrived, but it is coming."

PLAN EXPLAINED

John M. Smith, superintendent of Hahnemann Hospital, Philadelphia, a former president of the association, said:

"It is spreading conservatively all over the United States. In brief, the plan is this: You would pay into a general hospital fund, for which you would have the right to hospital care for, say, 30 days, on recommendation of your family physician.

"I also think the final setup will assure the patient the right to select the hospital and the physician to attend him."

Smith pointed out that such an arrangement would enable persons now destined to be free ward patients to become paying private patients.

MAYOR IS SPEAKER

Speakers at the afternoon session include Mayor McNair, Dr. George W. Grier, president of the Allegheny County Medical Society, and Robert W. Smith, chairman of the executive committee of the Westmoreland Hospital Association.

Miss Jennie J. Turnbull, superintendent of the Magee Hospital and president of the state association, is presiding at today's and Wednesday's conference sessions. The conference will conclude Thursday afternoon.

Speakers tomorrow will include Mrs. Alice F. Liveright, secretary of the Department of Welfare of Pennsylvania; Southard Hay, director of the Department of Welfare of Pittsburgh; Maj. Roger A. Greene, superintendent of Pottsville Hospital; M. H. Eichenlaub, superintendent of West Penn Hospital; Lewis N. Clark, superintendent of Germantown Hospital, and Dr. Irwin D. Metzgar, chairman of the State Board of Medical Education and Nursing.

Albert Kennedy Rowswell will be the speaker at the association dinner tomorrow night.

MEDICOS 'RATED' AS MECHANICS

The present-day doctor is "more of a mechanic than a physician," Dr. George W. Grier, president of the Allegheny County Medical Society, told the opening session of the Hospital Association of Pennsylvania this afternoon in William Penn Hotel.

Questioning the advisability of highly mechanized medical care, Dr. Grier pointed out that the modern physician has machines "to do practically everything for him." He asserted:

"The net result of all this is elaborate and costly laboratories, apparatus, electric-cardiographs, metabolism departments and so forth.

"I sometimes wonder whether all these mechanical devices are really necessary, but we have built up a system which demands them. These also add to the high cost of medical care, but at the present time they are certainly indispensable."

U.S. PROBE LISTS 2 FIRMS HERE

Two Pittsburgh concerns are listed among 48 candy manufacturers against which the Federal Trade Commission has taken action to stop lotteries, gaming devices and gift enterprises allegedly used in the sale and distribution of their products.

According to a dispatch from Washington, the commission explained that lotteries are carried on in the candy business by mixing with chocolates a few pieces with different colored centers which entitle the purchaser drawing the latter to a prize.

Companies against which "cease and desist" orders have been issued include Hardie Brothers Company and D. L. Clark Company, both of Pittsburgh.

MARIETTA FIRE RAGES 2 HOURS

MARIETTA, O., April 10.—(AP)—Fire raged unchecked for more than two hours through the downtown section of Marietta early today before firemen succeeded in hemming it in and saving the business district from complete destruction.

Damage was estimated by officials to exceed a quarter of a million dollars.

Fire departments of Marietta and Parkersburg, W. Va., poured more than a dozen streams of water into the mill burning buildings for hours. The scene of the blaze was the area facing the Washington County Courthouse.

Some of the members, it is reported, are ready to vote the commission an appropriation of $30,000. It is understood other funds are to be raised in private sources and that efforts will be concentrated in seeking specialized industries, particularly plants using steel as raw material.

Three cups bean sprouts, preferably fresh.
One cup green onions, chopped into one-fourth inch widths.
Four tablespoons corn starch with enough water to make a very thick paste.
Five eggs, beaten.
One teaspoon salt.

Chop ham and pork together till very fine. Add bean sprouts and green onions. In a separate bowl stir corn starch paste into the beaten eggs. Add salt and combine all ingredients and mix well.

In a hot and very much greased skillet turn in a heaping tablespoonful of the mixture patted down to about the size of a meat cake. Brown one side and turn over to brown the other. Remove it from the skillet and grease skillet again before making another egg foo young. Serve with the Chinese soy sauce gravy or the ordinary meat gravy. This serves four or five.

One-half teaspoon salt.
Two to three pinches of Chinese vegetable powder.
Two teaspoons corn starch dissolved in about four tablespoons of water.

SPEAK UP, SISTERS! :-: Glances Into the Realms of Domesticity and Romance :-: By MARION BRUNOT

Women Always Hope to Be Admired for Beauty

A beauty-less face, but plenty of character.

That is how a certain actress has been described.

"That's the story of my life," she sighs. "Always am I being chosen for caricaturing. Whenever virtue and not beauty is the quality . . . there I shine."

No wonder the young woman is sad. To be the chosen of one's profession to have the world of art at one's feet. That, you say, should be enough for any sister.

But is it?

Isn't there always that still, small voice within each one of us that keeps on hoping against hope, "someone will admire us for our beauty? And nothing else?

No matter how many events are crowded into a girl's life, the fact that she has never sailed through a hotel lobby and had all the men staring, or that she has never marched into a big room and been accorded immediate attention, all on account of her LOOKS makes her believe she has missed something big.

BEAUTY OWN EXCUSE

"Beauty is its own excuse for being." Wisely said . . . Beauty often belongs to the dumb-bell. Beauty is given generously to the gutter snipe. Beauty passes us in.

But again, sometimes, it passes us out.

But we have had our day!

Take the pretty girl's dancing card. If she can sprint at all to the sound of the orchestra, she'll never be a wall flower. Again take the pretty girl's office record. Very often favoritism is showered upon her . . . and not on account of her punctuating proclivities. Not because she makes such perfect sentences out of the boss' wreckage of the English language. Not because she stays after office hours to set her desk in order.

No indeed. Like a handsome vase, the men are likely to look upon her as office ornamentation.

It is so pleasant to look at her, they think.

Some writer by the name of Dekker in a moment of over-conscienciousness, or perhaps to please a virtuous wife, has written: "Honest labor bears a lovely face."

Honest labor is a fine thing. It gets the dinner pail full, and gives us a big funeral. But it has nothing whatsoever to do with facial beauty. It never has engaged a Romney to paint any of us.

TRINITY FOR WORKERS

"It won't last," gloats the ugly duckling when the beautiful typist floats in all dressed up and somewhere to go. And often it doesn't. Miss Beauty-less has the long and unbroken office record. It is she that gathers up the errors of the pretty maids, and places them on file in corrected order.

Personality, character and brains. The blessed trinity which is making the working force of womankind count these days. It is the force bringing in the big pay envelope, and for keeps. But isn't it also the trinity that is playing hobs with sex appeal. The soft fingers, the curling lashes, the tears lying like dew on the pink cheek. These don't go in with feminine efficiency.

We are becoming the equals of men. And as such, they'll keep the seats on the street cars, and wage war against us.

Maybe we think we're happier than were our mothers and grandmothers. They were so hungry for expansion. Inside, looking out, they were. And eagerly. And yet, now that we are outside, are we so BLOOMIN' HAPPY? Ask yourself, sister.

Things have changed about. In many homes women are the bread winners. I heard an old mill hand say: "I'm glad all my kids were girls. I've three. And they've kept the roof over me during the hard times."

It is the same everywhere. The girls are becoming the truck horses instead of the race track trotters.

The mothers of all living creatures are becoming queen bees.

The beauty-less woman of character, of brains and of personality . . . yes, she is creating plenty of honey.

But is that all she wants?

GEORGE IN QUANDRY

Little George writes me. He says:

Dear Miss Brunot:

I am younger than the girl I go with. She is 22, and I am 18. And at times it is very hard for me to understand her. Yet I guess all women are that way. One evening she and I were coming home from a church meeting together, and we passed a drug store. She said for us to go in and get some ice cream. But I said I wasn't hungry.

Since then she has been very cool with me. What shall I do to get in her favor again?

LITTLE GEORGE.

Buy her some ice cream, George. Girls have to be entertained, even after church. The thing is, my young man, you mustn't consider your own appetite when out with the fair sex. They are the ones to think about. Manage to see this girl, and treat her big. It will go over, and you will be re-established. Yet don't you think, Little George, a girl of 22 too old for you? Women are always hard for men to follow. That is why you all give us such a chase.

Miss Brunot will be glad to answer letters submitted to her by readers.

Who's Who in Genealogy of Rooseveltania, Asks Fay King

SO, YOU'RE STUDYING THE THREE R'S AT SCHOOL — READIN', 'RITIN' AN' 'RITHMETIC?
NAW! OUR THREE R's ARE THE ROOSEVELTS THE RULIN', 'RITIN' AN' RADIO ROOSEVELTS!
I'VE GOT TO GET THAT STRAIGHT NOW. "T.R." WAS THE "DEE-LIGHTED" ROOSEVELT, AND "F.D." WAS THE "NEW DEE-AL" ROOSEVELT!
HISTORY OF THE U.S.A. DURING THE ROOSEVELT ERAS
I HOPE THE HISTORY BOOKS WILL TELL THE YOUNGSTERS THAT WHEN "F.D." WAS ELECTED PRESIDENT SOME FOLKS THOUGHT HE WAS "T.R.'S" BROTHER, OR "T.R.'S" SON!
FAY-KING

By FAY KING

I begin to worry a little for the school children of the future who will study the history of our times.

Will they ever get all the Roosevelts straight in their minds.

It would comfort them to know that we who lived in the Roosevelt eras often became confused.

We've had the "T. R." Republican Roosevelts, the "F. D." Democratic Roosevelts, a Roosevelt who was a Roosevelt before she married a Roosevelt, Roosevelts who are friendly, and Roosevelts who are not so fond of other Roosevelts.

It would not surprise me if in far future times the Roosevelts will be thought to have been a mighty nation, instead of only several branches of a brilliant family tree.

Glad I won't have to study history then!

Madge Senses Matrimonial Designs on Major

In my teaching days I had to determine the mental attitude of others from their facial expressions, and since my marriage I have tried to keep the little skill I possess in that line from rusting.

Rarely, however, have I seen a feminine face so easy to read as was that of Fanny Arlen, when she finally savored the full flavor of what Philip Veritzen was telling her concerning the eligibility of Hugh Grantland.

Despite her voluble protests against Mr. Veritzen's remark that Hugh was the "answer to a maiden's prayer, socially and financially," her assertion that she would never wish her "precious little girl" to marry a man 20 years older than herself, and her avowal that her "darling Avis must wed only for love," it was easy to see in her face and manner that the idea of such a brilliant matrimonial alliance for her child had taken a strong hold upon her imagination.

COULDN'T DECEIVE SELF

I was furious at myself that I could discover in my soul no amusement at my discovery. Annoyance, resentment at what seemed to me the presumption of the woman, disgust at her willingness to have her child marry a man so much older just because he was wealthy and socially prominent—these were the emotions I discovered were mine, emotions of which I was distinctly ashamed.

For I could not deceive myself. It was not the discovery of Mrs. Arlen's mercenary traits which had upset me. If the man under discussion had been a stranger to me, I should not have felt any emotion save a faintly scornful amusement. But the knowledge that Hugh Grantland was to be the object of a matrimonial campaign upon the part of Avis Arlen and her mother had suddenly roused a feeling within me that I told myself it behooved me to analyze.

All my little world knew of Hugh's long and unrequited devotion to me. Every eye in that world would be watching me to see my reaction to the campaign of Avis Arlen and her mother.

I did not deceive myself. Such a campaign would be staged as soon as Mrs. Arlen had the opportunity to tell Avis of the wealth possessed by Hugh Grantland, and it would be a determined one.

Of course, I had no idea that Hugh, in the parlance of our youngsters, would "fall for" Avis Arlen. I knew that if he did not actively dislike the girl, she at least filled him with a contemptuous weariness.

HUGH UNWORLDLY

But Hugh is singularly unworldly. I know no man less fitted to cope with a woman bent upon marrying him, and with no scruples as to her methods. Chivalrous, high-minded, generous, unsuspecting, he was a made-to-order victim for an ambitious woman.

But my hands were tied, as far as aiding him was concerned, no matter what meshing entanglement surrounded him. Once, long ago, with the aid of Lillian and Lee Chow, I had saved Hugh from both actual death and the living death of being declared insane. But I could not help him now.

I had aided Noel to escape the clutching hands of Avis Arlen; but I could not lift my finger to aid Hugh, without giving tongue to scandal.

How to Keep Well

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

Teaching the Child Good Habits

Not so long ago I told you how to plan a feeding schedule for the baby.

Dr. Copeland.

It was pointed out that a well arranged routine schedule would materially lessen the work of the young mother and benefit the baby. Since then many many inquiries have come to me concerning a program for the older children.

No one will deny that children who are brought up on an orderly program thrive better than children who do not receive such supervision. They are happier and healthier children.

I am often asked, when should a child be able to feed himself? When should he show an interest in helping to keep his room tidy and in order?

Every child between the ages of 2 and 3 should be able to assist in putting on his clothes. He should be instructed to help put on his bloomers and leggings, and place his arms in the sleeves of his suit, coat and sweater.

Of course, I do not mean to say that a child of this age should be expected to dress himself entirely or perform the difficult task of tying or untying his shoe laces. But he certainly should be able to take off his own rubbers, slippers and other wearing apparel.

At this age it is a good plan to encourage a child to wash and dry his hands alone. Though he will not remove all the dirt and do as good a job as mother would, this early training will soon enable him to assume full responsibility. Children quickly acquire habits and if the program is to be a well regulated one, they should be good habits.

A child of three to four years should be able to undo his buttons, and button them up as well. This is simplified by making sure that the clothes are equipped with large buttons and large buttonholes. At this age he should be expected to put on and take off his shoes, lace his shoes, remove his rubbers, wash and dry his hands, as well as comb his hair and brush his teeth.

When a child reaches the age of five he should be well established in the personal habit program and indeed be an aid to his mother. Dressing and undressing should be a simple matter for this child. Of course, it is well if the clothing is equipped with simple and uncomplicated fasteners. I am glad to say that most modern clothing is equipped with patent fasteners. This invention is a blessing to the busy mother.

Perhaps no habit of childhood is more important than that of eating. Every child should have his meals at a regular time every day. No food should be given between meals. Contrary to a common belief, a child should be allowed to feed himself as soon as possible. Between the ages of 12 to 18 months he should be permitted to handle the cup and spoon.

Golden Wedding Gifts?

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I have a question to put before you which has caused much talk here recently. The one side says that if there is a celebration on the golden wedding anniversary, where the relatives and friends are invited through newspaper notices and verbally, no gifts are expected or supposed to be sent, even if a person calls. The other side says that if you call you naturally send a gift appropriate to the occasion.

Please tell us the proper procedure, as a celebration of this kind has been held and no gifts were sent, and about seventy-five called on the very prominent and well-to-do couple.

READERS.

There aren't and there never can be any definite rules about the sending of gifts, when they should be sent and when they needn't be sent. It's too personal a matter never to be standardized, for in the first and last analysis it depends entirely on our wish in the matter. It was quite all right for these friends to go without taking gifts, if they didn't wish to take them, and it would have been equally correct if some close friends had felt that they wished to take gifts to the hosts to make a bow of congratulation for the occasion.

Keep the Containers

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I have just recovered from a long illness. I was very ill during the Christmas season. A friend sent me a lovely old English jar filled with marmalade and wrapped in Christmas decorations and so forth. Should I return the jar or consider it as a gift?

I also received several growing plants in the little ornamental jars. Should I return these jars and bowls or keep them after the flowers are dead?

W.

In both of these cases the container is part of the gift, and so you would keep this old English jar and the bowls in which the plants came.

JAMES J. LONG'S SPORTS COMMENT

Buc Pitching Still Weak
Quick Brace Necessary
Strong Faith in Rabbit

Lively Ball Spurs Hack
Donnelli at Soccer Peak
Equipoise Perils Mark

There isn't much for Pittsburgh fans to cheer about in current reports from the exhibition route, which show no break in the monotonous regularity with which the White Sox batters have been lambasting the Pirate pitchers, Cy Blanton and Ralph Birkofer being the latest additions to the list of slab victims. It's all well enough to offer the lively ball and bandbox parks as the explanation, but the fact is not to be overlooked that the Bucccaneers are batting against the same ball and in the same small parks. Their failure to get as good results as the Chicago hitters can mean only that the Corsair pitching continues to be below par.

Ralph Birkofer

A week or two ago this would not have been disturbing. At the present stage, however, with the pennant start only seven days off, the hurlers ought to be showing something like their real stuff. There still is ground for the confidence that George Gibson's chuckers will pick up in the week that remains and will look like a different staff when the season opens, but a little real evidence in that direction right now would be very welcome. The present games don't count, of course, but pitchers who will have to face pennant fire only a week from now should at this time be able at least to get somebody out.

MARANVILLE'S RETURN IN MAY PREDICTED

Rabbit Maranville is not alone in scoffing at the suggestion that his broken leg has put an end to his playing days. The little fellow's confidence that he will come right back in due time to resume his remarkable career is shared by Manager Bill McKechnie. The Wilkinsburg man knows Maranville's spirit too well to fear that he will give up easily, and Bill not only believes the Rabbit will play again but predicts that he will be back in harness as early as May. "Yes, I said May," McKechnie repeated by way of emphasis.

Meanwhile, the skipper of the Braves is keeping up his efforts to get an experienced major league second baseman to fill the gap caused in his lineup by the injury to Maranville. Bill says he has a deal cooking for a real second sacker, and hopes to close it at an early date. It is known that overtures were made to Brooklyn for Marty McManus, when offers for Tony Cuccinello and Linus Frey were turned down, but Casey Stengel refused to let McManus go, figuring that by holding on to Marty he can force Boston to meet the terms laid down by him originally, when he demanded Ed Brandt in exchange for Cuccinello and Owen Carroll.

NEW BALL BRINGS WILSON BACK TO LIFE

If there is one player in the National League who appears to have been benefited more than the average by the coming of the new ball, Hack Wilson is the individual. Just as the dead ball took away much of Wilson's value to the Dodgers last year, the livelier pill of 1934 has brought him back to life, and the all-around work of the West Virginian has been one of the bright spots in the practice games of the Brooklyn club.

Hack Wilson

Feeling that the rabbity pellet is right down his alley and gives him a big break by restoring the old premium on slugging power, Wilson is showing a great uplift in spirit. Not only is he socking the ball with the force and regularity that made him a standout a few years ago, but he has amazed everybody in the Dodger camp by his nimble work in the field. He has roamed past the foul lines and gone back to the fences with an ease that was not his while he was playing so poorly at times last year. The dead ball put Hack down, but the new one has brought him right up again, and spring signs point to a big season for the pudgy mauler.

HIGH HONORS FOR DONNELLI IN SOCCER

An even greater honor relatively than being picked on the all-America team in American football falls to Aldo (Buff) Donnelli in the announcement that he has been selected as one of the players to represent the United States in the big international soccer games to be played next month in Rome. It is no mythical eleven on which the star center forward of the Curry team has been given a place, but one chosen for actual competition in Europe against the best in the game. With the soccer powers aiming to get the strongest combination possible to carry Uncle Sam's colors, it follows that Donnelli was selected solely on merit after his brilliant showing in the recent Eastern tryout.

This ranks Buff by official choice as one of the greatest soccer players in the entire country, and the award is a new peak in a dazzling athletic career that has had few parallels in Western Pennsylvania. There is no doubt in the minds of soccer experts that the former Duquesne University gridiron captain will prove worthy of the national trust placed in him. Veteran players with experience against the best in Europe have pronounced him the hardest and most accurate kicker they ever saw, and there is no department of the game in which he is not an acknowledged star, besides being at all times an inspiration to his team mates. Donnelli not only plays a winning game himself, but carries his mates with him and makes them outdo themselves in following his pace.

EQUIPOISE HAS GOOD CHANCE FOR RECORD

No little interest has been added to the American horse-racing campaign of 1934 by the decision of Cornelius Vanderbilt Whitney to bring his famous champion Equipoise back into competition for one more whirl at the stakes in the handicap division. The goal of Equipoise, now a 6-year-old, is to boost his total earnings to a sum that will beat the all-time record established by Sun Beau, and in the opinion of the majority of turfmen the Whitney horse, barring accidents, stands a good chance of doing it.

C. V. Whitney

Sun Beau hung up the present high mark by winning during his career a total of $376,744. Equipoise, during his four years of competition, won for his owner the sum of $322,970. His first season was his best, being that of 1930, when he brought home $156,835, with eight wins, five seconds and one third in 16 starts. But for an ailment in 1931, the Whitney champion probably would have passed Sun Beau's mark long ago, as he started only three times that year and drew down $3,000 for one victory. In 1932, Equipoise piled up 10 victories, two seconds and one third in 14 starts for gross winnings of $107,375, and in nine starts last year he won seven times, was second once and third once to earn $55,760. He is now separated from Sun Beau's record by only $53,984, and the opinion is strong in turf circles that he will succeed in setting a new mark if he meets with no mishaps.

Reds Full of Pep With Such Veterans as These

BOB O'FARRELL, CATCHER AND ALSO THE MANAGER

SUNNY JIM BOTTOMLEY IN ACTION AT FIRST BASE POST.

The Cincinnati Reds hopes to go places this year under new ownership and management and with a host of new players, not the least of whom are Tony Piet and Adam Comorosky, obtained from the Pirates in the deal whereby the locals got Pitcher Red Lucas and Outfielder Wally Roettger. O'Farrell and Bottomley are a couple of aces in the rebuilding scheme. The Reds made a brilliant showing during the "Grapefruit League" season in Florida, recently closed.

GIANTS PICKED TO REPEAT IN NATIONAL

NEW YORK, April 10.—(AP.)—Only three sports writers, out of a total of 97 contributing their predictions to the annual Associated Press pennant poll, picked the order of finish for the 1934 major league baseball races in complete agreement with the consensus selections.

Herbert Simons, of the Chicago Times, achieved the distinction of being the one expert to list the American League teams as they emerged in the poll. Two of the Philadelphia Bulletin's staff, Joe Dey and Harry Robert, agreed with the National League consensus.

GIANTS FAVORED

Of the 97 writers and editors contributing to the poll's consensus, 40 pick the Giants to repeat, while 34 name the Cubs to finish on top. The St. Louis Cardinals have 13 backers for their hopes of taking first money and the Pittsburgh Pirates only nine, but in the consensus the Bucs land third place. The solitary remaining vote for first place goes to Boston's battling Braves, who face an uphill job unless they can replace Rabbit Maranville at second base successfully.

The vote for the Cubs proved surprisingly heavy and was not entirely confined to the Western wing of the Baseball Writers' Association of America. The preference for the Bruins over the Pirates was based on the majority belief of the experts that Chuck Klein, National League batting king, will add much more strength to Chicago's lineup than the acquisition of Pitcher Red Lucas will mean to Pittsburgh.

LIKE CARDS FOURTH

The Braves finished fourth, a notch ahead of the Cardinals last year, but the consensus favors a reversal of this order for 1934.

Otherwise the experts see no change in prospect. The Brooklyn Dodgers, Philadelphia Phillies and Cincinnati Reds are consigned to finish the way they did last year—sixth, seventh and eighth. The vote among these three is unusually close, however, indicating a new deal in the second division would not be a shock to the watchers in the press box.

The "box score" on the National League poll, showing the number of votes for each club in each position, follows:

EXPLANATION OF RIPLEY'S CARTOON OF YESTERDAY: THE ICE PATRIARCH—Wilson Chambers, of River Bend, has made his annual birthday trip to Welland, Ontario, a distance of 10 miles, on ice skates for the seventy-fifth time this year. He still uses the same pair of skates which were presented to him on his ninth birthday, 75 years ago. The trip requires about 90 minutes, but most of that time is spent greeting old friends and admirers, who come down to cheer the sturdy old "father of the ice" on his annual river trip.

TOMORROW: A SHOT IN THE DARK.

SCRIBES IN FORUM

Two local sports editors will speak in a public forum under the auspices of the Senior Club Council of the Irene Kaufmann Settlement in the Mirror ballroom of the Settlement House at 8 o'clock tomorrow evening. They are Harry Keck, of the Sun-Telegraph, and Havey J. Boyle, of the Post Gazette. They will speak on sports and recreation and the reporter's angle.

TUCUMCARI, N. M., April 10.—The Wild West phase of the Pirate-White Sox baseball excursion winds up today in this desert spot. The two big league clubs have three more towns to visit, but these are far removed from the wide open spaces which have marked the journey of the athletes for more than a week.

The wildest game of the long series was staged yesterday in a highly picturesque setting at Albuquerque, but there was nothing poetic or picturesque about the trimming the Pittsburghers had to taste in the band box park of the high altitude city. The score was 17 to 7.

4,000 SEE GAME

Baseball hungry New Mexicans to the number of 4,000 overtaxed the seating and standing capacity of the country ball orchard. The local chief of police had his full strength on the job to preserve order. The Buccos were showered with a lot of razzberries for their poor showing in the early frames. It was all in fun, so far as the Freebooters were concerned. They had a perfect workout in another perfect sun and they discount the barrage of runs in view of the short fences.

Larry French will attempt to get the Pirates out in front of the enemy in the eleventh clash of the series this afternoon. The American Leaguers reached an even footing yesterday as they swamped the Buccos. Phil Gallivan will twirl for the Sox. The diamond warfare will be carried to Oklahoma City tomorrow.

Something like seven ground-rule doubles went over the close-up ramparts. Al Simmons continued his heavy cannonading with three doubles in his first three trips to the plate. Al would be quite a player if he could scatter his punches. One of his doubles cleared the right wall, the second smacked against the center field fence and the third sailed over the left barrier.

BLANTON CHASED

Cy Blanton was the victim of the early attack of the White Sox in yesterday's contest. The sorrel top was handicapped by the short fences, not to mention the fact that the foe is in a hitting mood. Cy was found for eight runs in two frames. Birkoffer went to the slab in the third and finished. His work was much better than the scoring indicates.

Sam Jones toiled five rounds in the face of the Pirate offensive which found him for six runs. Recruit Tietje finished for Fonseca.

CHILLYSAUCE

The scores of major league players who watched Arky Vaughan in action this spring predict a great future for the fleet Pirate shortstop. Arky's perfect batting stance and poise coupled with his power at the plate astonish athletes who were in the game before the kid shortstop was born. Vaughan does not press and his even flat swing gets its force from a manly chest, strong arms and flexible wrists.

Arky was able to bat better than .300 last season when .300 hitters were as scarce as jobs. Now with the official ball stepped up in resilience, Vaughan's mates and rivals of the diamond are unanimous in the conviction that he will be right up with the leaders.

Larry French's exuberance brought him a broadcasting chore at the Albuquerque spectacle. The old-time minstrel who had to double in brass would have a hard time staying in French's pace on the present road tour. When he was not on the slab, Larry insisted on keeping the score for the Pittsburgh correspondents. Later he jumped to the American League and kept the tally sheets for the White Sox writers.

Boss Gibson is tickled over Wallie Roettger's early performances. Perhaps the greatest play of the barnstorming tour by a White Sox or Pirate was turned in by the big fellow in El Paso when he raced toward the right line for a one-hand catch of a low liner. The drive was almost in the grasstops and Roettger was almost carried on his face, but he held the ball. At bat, Wallie is hitting the ball savagely.

In Tommy Thevenow and Pep Young, the Pirates have two of the most versatile of infielders. Thevenow is playing third and short in the practice games. He is a star at either post and he looks like Hughey Critz at second. Young also is hoofing forth at short and third. Pep can play several other positions well. He has a great arm for infield or outfield duty.

Give Lou Fonseca a couple of pitchers to stay in the pace with Ted Lyons and George Earnshaw and the White Sox probably would be sure of a first division berth. Several of Fonseca's young pitchers are impressive, including Gallivan, Tietje and Stine. Gallivan, owner of a fine curve ball, was given scant chance to show his worth when a member of the Dodgers.

BUFF DONNELLI NAMED ON U. S. ALL-STAR SOCCER TEAM

LOCAL ATHLETE TO PLAY IN ROME FRAYS

By TOM BIRKS

Aldo (Buff) Donnelli, star local soccer player, center forward on the Curry eleven and freshmen football coach at Duquesne University, where he starred as a backfield man and punter during his undergraduate days, has been selected as a member of the United States team that will participate in the international games at Rome, Italy, in May.

Buff Donnelli

Donnelli received a letter from Col. Randolph Manning, chairman of the foreign relations committee of the United States Soccer Football Association yesterday, informing him of his selection, and to report in Philadelphia April 26 for a period of training. The team will leave New York May 5 for Italy.

FOLLOWS JONES, BOOKIE

Donnelli is the third player from Western Pennsylvania to be honored by being named to represent his country in international soccer. Berky Jones, center halfback of the Heidelberg team, went to Paris for the Olympic games in 1924, and Mike Bookie, crack Curry star, went to South America in 1931.

Donnelli, running for the Legislature in the Twelfth District, is the greatest athlete ever developed in the Miller's Run district. In high school he played both soccer and football. After graduating from Bridgeville High School, he entered Duquesne University. Twice captain of the Red and Blue grid varsity, Buff stood out as the Dukes' greatest kicker.

After graduation he was appointed freshman football and basketball coach under Elmer Layden, a position he still holds.

The glory won on the college football field did not wean Donnelli away from soccer. He led Heidelberg to a pair of national amateur titles. His exhibition at Newark in the final of the amateur tourney in 1930, when he scored five goals in 12 minutes, stands out as one of the greatest achievements in soccer.

After the game at Newark a number of eastern professional teams sought to sign Buff, and Preston North End, one of England's greatest professional teams touring America, sought his signature and services.

Buff, however, wanted to continue in football as a coach. He is considered a professional in soccer because of his football coaching.

HAS HIGH RATING

Local and district soccer critics, accustomed to Old Country soccer, rate Buff as the finest goal getter they ever watched. That he will be a credit to the United States team goes without saying. Clean cut and always in perfect condition, Donnelli should make a great center forward for the Stars and Stripes.

His robust style and fearless, smashing through play should make plenty of progress against the teams of other countries. The fans back home will be pulling for Buff to make a great showing, as did Berky Jones and Mike Bookie.

Parks, Mrs. Lehman On Seals' Program

Golf, golf and more golf will be the theme of the weekly radio program of the Trained Seals of the Sports Department of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph over WCAE at 6 o'clock tomorrow evening.

Sam Parks, Jr., South Hills Country Club professional, just back from his winter playing tour, during which he hit both California and the Southland, and Mrs. Chester H. Lehman, president of the Women's Golf Association of Western Pennsylvania, will be the guest speakers, being interviewed by Tom Birks, golf editor. Harry Keck, sports editor, will be master of ceremonies.

Between Rounds :-: Boxing Notes

Al Rossi, of Newark, who was knocked out by Anson Green in two rounds at Duquesne Garden last Friday night, boxes Johnny Ketchel in the main bout of a show at the Cambria Club, Philadelphia, Friday night. Bucky Jones and Pat Igo box in Philly the night before.

Tony Herrera is playing a hunch in his junior-welterweight title bout with Barney Ross at Fort Worth, Tex., April 20. In recent bouts he has beaten Wesley Ramey, for a time the N. B. A. lightweight champion, and knocked out Sammy Mandell, former lightweight champion. Having resided for a long time in Chicago, he is familiar with Ross' style.

Ernie Maurer and Orville Drouillard box a return bout in Detroit Friday night.

Charley Massera, Monongahela heavyweight, boxes Eddie Simms in Cleveland April 17. Jimmy Vaughn meets Lew Feldman, Mickey Dugan boxes Georgie Nichols and Sammy Slaughter also will be on the card in a 10-rounder.

Charley Baxter, the lightweight, is back in town from Columbus, O., where he has been resting the past six months following an operation on his nose. His last bout was with Harry Dublinsky here.

There's no holding Bunny Buntach since his Mike Barto pulled that thrilling win over Marty Gornick and his Lloyd Clements beat Carl Montebano the other night, and he's out challenging right and left for both of them. He can't wait until Eddie Zivic gets back from the Coast so he can burn things up to land a match with him.

Lew Raymond, the local matchmaker, left last night for Canton, O., where he will help Mike McKinney to put on an all-star show next Monday night, a pair of four 10-rounders, with Ted Yarosz and Tommy Rios on top.

Meanwhile Lew's also working on his next show for Pittsburgh, to be staged on April 27 at either Duquesne or Motor Square Garden. Matches he is figuring on are: Chet Logiewicz vs. Dominic Mancini, Tommy Paul vs. Mose Butch, Jimmy Smith vs. Anson Green, Mike Barto vs. Johnny Durso, Johnny Birek vs. Harry Krause and Jack King vs. Joey Bazzone.

Isfam Grotto will sponsor the local Golden Gloves amateur tournament on May 7, 8 and 9.

Dominic Mancini wants to fight a leading lightweight here. His manager, Gus Camp, believes he is ready for the best of them.

RANDALL WINS OVER BAZZONE

A disastrous first round, which found him on the canvas no fewer than six times, counted too heavily against Joey Bazzone, of McKeesport, as he sought to hammer out a victory over Tiger Joe Randall, the Elizabeth Negro welterweight star, in the Palisades ring, McKeesport, last night. Bazzone recovered by the third round and finished the 10-round battle strong, but, despite his fine rally, lost the verdict when Judge Frank Smith called the affair a draw and Referee Joe Orsini voted in favor of Randall. Judge Mike Moran cast his ballot for Bazzone.

Bazzone was down for counts ranging from two to eight in the first stanza, but in the third round landed a hard blow to Randall's mid-section and the Negro star went down for a count of seven. He claimed a foul but his claim was not allowed. Randall weighed three-quarters of a pound more than his opponent at 151.

In the semi-final, Charley Burns, of St. Michaels, Pa., defeated Patsy Hennigan, of Clairton. Hennigan weighed 134 and Burns 133¾.

Jack Dalcheron, 156¾, of Springdale, defeated Chuck Mullins, 171½, of Beechview, in six rounds; Floyd Wolcott, 184, of Clairton, won by a technical knockout over Curly Klaus, 175¼, of the North Side, in the fourth round and Teddy Movan, of McKeesport, weighing 146 pounds and making his pro debut, defeated Tiger Joe Hughes, 149¾, in four rounds.

One of the largest crowds in recent years in McKeesport turned out for the show.

Rosenbloom Victor In Close Battle

NEW ORLEANS, April 10.—(AP.)—Maxie Rosenbloom, the light-heavyweight champion, last night won a close decision over Johnny Miler, of Detroit, in their 10-round nontitle bout. There were no knockdowns. Rosenbloom weighed 185¼ pounds and Miler 176½.

The decision was unpopular with the crowd and was booed. One judge and the referee awarded the decision to Rosenbloom while the other judge gave the fight to Miler.

Miler's surprising aggressiveness against the champion brought him a cheer as he left the ring while Maxie drew some boos.

Legal Racing, Boxing Approved for Capital

WASHINGTON, April 10.—(AP.)—The House voted to let the District of Columbia have legal boxing and horse racing.

In a day set aside for consideration of bills affecting the nation's capital, 13 measures were passed.

Measures passed and sent to the Senate included those to legalize boxing and horseracing. Parimutuel betting on horses would be permitted.

SCHMERTZ MAY HEAD LOCAL NET BODY

By PAUL G. SULLIVAN

Robert C. Schmertz, newly recruited Stanton Heights chairman of the district ranking committee for the past three seasons, will probably be chosen president of the Pittsburgh Tennis Association at the annual meeting of the local net body at the P. A. A. this evening. Schmertz, Princeton varsity star before the war and once holder of the Western Pennsylvania men's singles title, has been named for the chief executive's post by the P. T. A. nominating committee, a gesture generally reckoned equivalent to election.

He will succeed J. Phillips Davis, leader of the association since 1930. Davis, who is also a Stantonian, has refused to consider another term of office.

NOMINEES NAMED

The slate of nominees released late yesterday by Chairman Karl G. Wolfe lists besides Schmertz the following aspirants: Charles Lockhart, Pittsburgh Golf Club, first vice president; James MacKay, Minnetonka Canoe Club, second vice president; John Miller, College Avenue Tennis Club, treasurer, and the writer, secretary.

Delegates from perhaps a score or more tennis organizations will gather for tonight's pow-wow, scheduled to get under way at 8:15 o'clock. In addition to the selection of the first new slate of officers placed up in several years, several similarly important moves are booked for contemplation. These include revamping of the first division of the P. T. A. Inter-Club League; decision on admission of new applicants for P. T. A. membership; choice of dates and sites for the various tournaments traditional hereabouts, and the adoption of a revised and clarified association constitution.

Loss of Edgewood and possibly Shannopin from the upper sector of the inter-club circuit means that there will be filling of gaps to maintain the eight-team quota customarily in vogue in the loop. It is known that College Avenue, which last summer dropped its inter-divisional playoff with Belmont, is eager to remain in the speedier competition and it is rumored that Pittsburgh Golf Club is pretty sure to bid for a franchise.

SITE ABOUT SET

Although no action has as yet been formally taken on the subject, it is widely assumed that the forty-sixth annual Western Pennsylvania championships will be returned to Stanton Heights, where the sectional classic has been installed since 1929.

The only tourney really in midair at present is the Allegheny County event, revived in 1933 at the Westinghouse Club layout on the Greensburg pike. It is hoped that this melee will once more stand forth as an Independence Day feature, but whither it will go is a matter of speculation.

Colgate Plans Novel Football Experiment

HAMILTON, N. Y., April 10.—(INS.)—A football experiment in which such innovations as the 12-men team, passing any place behind the line, five first downs and the counting of a point for each first down will be made by the Colgate team in a regulation football game May 5.

It is planned to start the 1934 team developed in spring practice against another eleven of seniors and former Colgate stars. Len Macaluso, all-America fullback; Johnny Orsi, all-America end, and Bob Smith, all-America guard, will be invited.

More Stars Win In Handball Play

NEW YORK, April 10.—(AP.)—Eight more stars, headed by Angelo Trulio, of New York, the 1932 champion, and George Nelson, of Baltimore, have gained the third round of the National A. A. U. four-ball handball championships at the New York A. C.

Trulio quickly disposed of Joe Rutsky, of Boston, 21-10, 21-4, yesterday while Nelson was scoring over Edward Ryan, of New York, 21-12, 21-4.

Other winners included were Earl Brenco, of St. Louis, who defeated Victor Vail, of New York, 21-8, 21-7; Joe Goudreau, of Cleveland, who eliminated John McKaraher, of Germantown, Pa., 21-13, 21-15; Charles Mentz, of Cleveland, who whipped Lou Lubin, of New York, 21-10, 21-14, and Alexander Silverblatt, of New York, who eliminated Al Gould, of Boston, 21-0, 21-15.

TONIGHT'S FIGHTS

Gordon Fortenberry vs. Eric Lawson, 10 rounds, West Palm Beach, Fla.

Ceferino Garcia vs. Young Peter Jackson, 10 rounds, Los Angeles.

WILSON DRAWS ANDRILLO AS TOURNEY FOE

International News Service.

NEW YORK, April 10.—Drawings for the first round of the New York state featherweight championship elimination tournament were held yesterday at the offices of the New York State Boxing Commission.

Ten boxers, including Vittorio Tamaginni, European 126-pound titleholder, were matched to compete for the title formerly held by Kid Chocolate, who was recognized as the champion in New York state.

Two of the bouts will be held May 11 at Madison Square Garden with Al Roth, of New York, meeting Amaginni, and Petey Hayes, New York, and Mike Belloise, New York, clashing in 10 rounders.

The other three bouts will be staged April 24 at the Lenox Club. The pairings are: Jackie Wilson, Pittsburgh, vs. Carmine Andrillo, Philadelphia; Vernon Cormier, Worcester, Mass., vs. Johnny Hinds, New York, and Andy Martin, Boston, vs. Charles Von Reeden, New York.

WELTER BOUT SET

NEW YORK, April 10.—(AP.)—One of fistiana's few remaining "naturals," a welterweight championship bout between Jimmy McLarnin and Barney Ross, had definitely been lined up today.

Formal signing of contracts was delayed until today, but the rival managers had agreed to terms for a 15-round bout here May 28. Although the site had not yet been definitely selected, it was regarded as probable McLarnin and his challenger would settle their dispute in Madison Square Garden's Long Island bowl. The Milk Fund will share in the promotion as well as the receipts of the show.

Sammy Pian and Art Winch, representing Ross, the world lightweight champion, finally abandoned their effort to induce McLarnin to come in at 145 pounds. Instead the champion will have the right to scale 147 pounds, the class limit. Ross probably will weigh 140 pounds or less.

The bout, a sure-fire box office attraction in New York with its big Irish and Jewish population, may outdraw the heavyweight championship match between Primo Carnera and Max Baer which the Garden is promoting in the Long Island bowl June 14.

In order to make the match, McLarnin and Ross were forced to promise to defend their titles against challengers previously approved by the commission within 90 days after May 28. Thus McLarnin, if he beats Ross, will have to defend the welterweight title against Bep Van Klaveren, of Holland, and Ross will have to stake his lightweight crown against Frankie Klick, of San Francisco.

Wolfram Victor Over Ross Fields

WHEELING, W. Va., April 10.—(AP.)—Before the largest crowd of the whole year, estimated by the promoters to exceed 1,500 persons, Frankie Wolfram, of Winnepeg, Canada, won a close decision in 10 rounds over Ross Fields, of Wheeling, last night. Both weighed 119 pounds.

Young Terry, 116, of Elton, O., defeated Billy Mack, 116, of Akron, in the six-round semi-final.

FEATHERWEIGHTS STEAL SHOW IN A. M. A. BOXING FINALS

LYCEUM TEAM ANNEXES TROPHY

By JESS CARVER

Three clean cut knockouts, a decision the majority of the fans did not like and a show-stealing battle between a pair of hard-hitting featherweights marked the close of the annual Allegheny Mountain Association senior boxing championships at the Keystone A. C. last night.

The team trophy was won by the Pittsburgh Lyceum team, and the big silver loving cup was presented Coaches Danny Ryan, Patsy Gallagher and Tony Pastorious, along with two individual championships. The Lyceum took down the welter and middleweigh' crowns, Walter Marm winning the first and Steve Kobeda the second.

SWEENEY BEATS ELEY

Leo Sweeney, Pittsburgh Boys' Club star, and William Eley, crack Negro amateur of the Pleasant Valley A. C., met in the final of the lightweight class in a bout that was the most avidly anticipated of the entire tournament. It turned out to be a fair contest, with Sweeney gaining the verdict of both judges and the referee, although Eley appeared to have a decided edge. Sweeney won the final round, but not by a wide enough margin to offset the apparent advantage Eley piled up in the first and second.

Sammy Angott, 118-pound champion last year, and Johnny Giachetti, P. V. A. C. Italian slugger, put on a rousing battle for the 126-pound honors. The little fellows, both devastating sockers, kept the crowd in an uproar. Angett, landing the cleaner punches, won a deserved decision.

George Bittner, another P. V. A. C. star, turned in the iron man stunt of the evening by scoring two knockouts in as many starts. Competing as a heavyweight, the 1933 light-heavyweight champion first put away Emil Perlick, of the Monon Valley A. C., in the second round of the heavyweight semi-final with a left to the body and then won the title by crossing a right to the chin of Dan Pielan, of the Frawley A. C., in the second round and knocking Danny colder than a seal's nose.

MARM SCORES K. O.

The third knockout was scored by Walter Marm, the Lyceum welterweight. He and Joe Robinson, of Brownsville, were battling along on even terms in the second round of their final bout when Walter landed a right smash on the Negro's chin and dropped him for the count.

Sharpshooting Matt Ozniak, of the Emerald A. C., put George Morgan, of the Lyceum, on the canvas four times in the first round of their 112-pound finale, but Morgan got up each time and rallied strongly enough to carry the last round and give Matt plenty of trouble in the second.

Frankie Dunst, of Erie, was awarded the 18-pound crown by default, his scheduled opponent, Carmen DeTata, of the Frawley A. C., reporting with an eye closed so tight he wouldn't be able to see out of it until the Fourth of July. The medicos would not permit him to go on.

KOBEDA BEATS CERAR

Steve Kobeda and Louie Cerar, of St. John's Lyceum, struggled through a tiresome three-round middleweight clash, with Kobeda winning all the way. Charley Douglass, of Meadville, dropped Al Mancini, of the P. V. A. C., in the first round with a short right to the chin, the knockdown providing him with the margin of victory after three rounds of slugging in the 175-pound class.

One of the largest crowds ever to witness a show at the Keystone Club jammed every available nook and cranny of the gymnasium for the bouts.

The new champions follow:

112-pound class—Matt Ozniak, Emerald A. C., North Side.
118-pound class—Franzie Dunst, Erie, Pa.
126-pound class—Sammy Angott, Tucker A. C., Washington, Pa.
135-pound class—Leo Sweeney, Pittsburgh Boys' Club.
147-pound class—Walter Marm, Pittsburgh Lyceum.
160-pound class—Steve Kobeda, Pittsburgh Lyceum.
175-pound class—Charles Douglass, Italian Civic Club, Meadville, Pa.
Heavyweight class—George Bittner, P. V. A. C., New Salem, Pa.

Softball Campaign Set, Semi-Pros' Head Here

By HARRY KECK, Sports Editor

The picture of the softball situation in the Pittsburgh district this year has been completed with the visit of Philip G. Rosier, of Chicago, president of the National Softball Association, yesterday and today to complete arrangements.

Rosier's organization is sponsor of the semi-professional teams, which play in so-called major leagues. The best teams in each district are corraled for league competition, and exclusive territorial franchises are granted. At the same time, the National Association is friendly with the Amateur Softball Association of America, from which it will recruit its stars from year to year. Steve Cox has been definitely named Western Pennsylvania commissioner for the National Association, after having withdrawn as commissioner of the amateurs, with which group he was at first associated. His new appointment was confirmed by President Rosier last night.

TOURNEY PLANS SET

The Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph's Western Pennsylvania amateur softball tournament will get under way the first week in June and continue until late in August, with the winning team in the first-class division being sent to Chicago to compete in the national tournament under the auspices of the Chicago American, a Hearst newspaper, at the World Fair, beginning the Saturday after Labor Day.

The writer has been named to serve as acting commissioner of amateur softball in Western Pennsylvania and rapid progress is being made in shaping up the tournament plans. The tournament games will not interfere with the league schedules of the teams, only one tournament game a week being scheduled for each team, to be played on dates which do not conflict with league dates, arranged by mutual consent of the managers. The teams will be grouped in brackets at first and a round robin series will be played to determine the champion of each, bracket, and the bracket champions then will meet in the elimination proper. There will be various classifications of teams and a competition for girls as well as boys' teams.

RULE BOOKS READY

Softball has grown by leaps and bounds in other sections of the country and it is predicted it will spread like wildfire with the backing of the leagues and the Sun-Telegraph tournament. It is a novelty in the district, but is so much like mushball that the teams engaging in the latter sport can change over very handily.

The new rule books, containing the code adopted at the recent meeting in Chicago, will be off the press this week and will be ready for distribution among managers of teams.

Play began in a heavy downpour of rain and high scores were general, but both Lynch and Livesay played steadily to turn in cards of 74 for the lead. Livesay was out in 36 and home in 38, while Lynch put together a pair of 37s for his total. Par is 34-36—70.

En route to the annual classic the Tuckers played three match games and won all of them. They defeated Fort Wayne and Logansport, Ind., and Lima, O.

Le Page, Partner Lead in Bike Race

CLEVELAND, April 10.—(AP.)—Going into a jam on the slightest provocation, the closely bunched leaders in the six-day bicycle race at Public Hall here continued pedaling today with the lead liable to change hands at any time.

As they went into the one hundred and eighth hour, Alfred Le Turneur and Henri Le Page had a one-lap margin. At one time early today during a two-hour jam, two teams had three laps on their competitors. Frank Bartell, Czecho-Slovakian rider, was taken to the steam room during the relief hour for treatment of a back injury suffered when he spilled twice at the same turn during the sprinting. P. G. A. AWARDS 1934 TOURNEY DATES, SITES

The Oakmont Country Club will be the scene of the Pennsylvania Open golf championship, Monday and Tuesday, June 11 and 12, and the Amateur championship will be staged at Fox Chapel, July 11, 12 and 13.

These dates were alloted by President George Flinn, Jr., and his board of governors of the Pennsylvania Golf Association at the annual meeting of the body held at the Duquesne Club last night.

In addition to the two major tourneys, the following five one-day events and sites were named: South Hills Country Club, May 23; Pittsburgh Field Club, June 30; Highland Country Club, August 29; Edgewood Country Club, September 12. All of these are Wednesday dates, with the exception of Oakmont, which draws a Thursday.

The following members of the board of governors were present at last night's meeting:

H. C. Fownes II, J. A. Fownes and George Ormiston, of Oakmont; Fred Weppner, of the Pittsburgh Field Club and C. K. Browne, of South Hills.

The association decided not to deviate in any degree from its operating plans of last year, except that the fees were boosted from $1 to $2. Only players from clubs in good standing with the P. G. A. may compete in tournaments and all players must obtain handicap cards before competing. Sixty-eight golf and country clubs are affiliated with the organization at present and President Flinn is planning to bring others into the fold.

The annual meeting of the Tri-State Professional Association is scheduled for next Monday evening at the William Penn Hotel.

The City Council yesterday introduced an ordinance to reduce the daily green fees at Schenley Park from $1 to 50 cents, with the exception of Saturdays, Sundays and holidays. The rate previous to 1928 was 50 cents. Special rates are also going to be offered for junior players under 16 years of age. Action on the measure may be taken today.—TOM BIRKS.

ELMER TRAPP RELEASED

TECUMCARCI, N. M., April 10.—Elmer Trapp, of Wilkinsbur, clever shortstop recruit of the Pittsburgh Pirates, today was transferred under option to Albany club of the International League.

In making the announcement on the infielder, Benswanger and Gibson, of the Pirates, stated the home club had a warm interest in the sandlot star, who they think has a fine chance to return to the Pittsburgh club after he gets some real experience.

Trapp will leave for Pittsburgh tonight. He will spend a few days at his Wilkinsburg home. He will await instructions as to where he will join Albany. The Albany club is barnstorming in the South. Albany is managed by Bill McCrory. Joe Cambria is president of the team.

LOCAL PINMEN WIN A. B. C. MONEY

PEORIA, Ill., April 10.—Sixteen Pittsburgh district bowlers finished in the money in the annual American Bowling Congress tournament, which was completed yesterday.

The doubles team of L. Hamilton and Bill Adolphson, with a score of 1,255, took twenty-sixth place in the two-men competition and split $120. Hamilton, however, was the high money man. He picked up $60 in the doubles, $18.60 by taking twenty-eighth place in the all-events with a score of 1,871 and added $20 for his score of 655 in the singles, a total of $98.60.

H. Guest finished in eighteenth position in the all-events and was rewarded with $50. The scores and awards of the Pittsburgh and tri-state district bowlers follow:

BILL SULLIVAN CONFIRMED AS TUBER COACH

By JULIUS LEVIN

Bill Sullivan finally has been confirmed as head football coach at McKeesport High School.

The McKeesport School Board, at a meeting last night, formally elected him coach, and fixed his salary at $1,000 per season, which, when added to the $1,260 he gets as a member of the school's faculty, will give him an annual stipend of $2,260.

Sullivan resigned as head coach prior to the 1933 season after three successful seasons as the Tubers' mentor. He quit when his salary was reduced, but retained his post on the faculty. William Clees succeeded him and was in charge of the eleven last fall.

At two previous meetings of the school board since the close of the 1933 campaign, the board deadlocked on the vote, Sullivan having four supporters and as many opposing him. Last night, however, E. M. Mack, absent at the previous sessions, was present and cast the vote that broke the tie.

P. F. Riley Bowling League Honored

The third annual banquet of the P. F. Riley Ladies' Bowling League was held last night in the Nixon Cafe. Alderman P. F. Riley, of the South Side, presented the members of the league medals and other prizes. The officers in charge of the dinner were: Miss Kathryn Varley, president; Miss Sarah Doyle, vice president; Mrs. Teresa Anthony, secretary, and Miss Catherine Herlick.

It will pay you to dress up your car with a new set of Goodyears this Spring

● Right now is perhaps the ideal time to discard your shabby old tires for good-looking stout-gripping new Goodyears.

Spring is here with its promise of slippery roads and greater danger for smooth thin treads, while Goodyear prices are still at Winter's low levels.

These are two good reasons for buying now but here's a third: New tires average 30% more mileage if started off new on our cooler Spring roads instead of hot Summer highways. The weather makes the difference—"cool-cures" the rubber, toughens it for extra life. A long-known fact!

You get all these advantages when you dress up your car with new Goodyears for Spring and Summer.

Come see our complete Spring stock of the tires the public believes best in value and thus buys the most. We'll suggest the right Goodyear for your driving and show you why it's your best buy at the price.

WALL STREET VIEWPOINT HELD MYTH

By MERRYLE S. RUKEYSER
Universal Service.

NEW YORK, April 10.—One of the recurrent political fallacies is to assume that there is a Wall Street viewpoint.

As a matter of fact, any one who has through years had an opportunity to keep informed about the personal views of financiers and brokers, has been impressed with the diversity of thinking.

Mr. Rukeyser

Differences of opinion not only make horse races, but also activity on the stock exchange.

An officer of one of the important Wall street banks recently remarked to me:

"Reactionaries are losing sight of the fact that the purpose behind the legislation of the 'New Deal' is to make business better. Accordingly, there are large profit possibilities for younger executives, who know how to conform to the new ideals, instead of resisting them."

EES 'NEW ERA'

Likewise, Franklin Escher, an experienced Wall street broker, points out:

"We believe that business, properly run, has nothing whatever to fear from the present administration; that there is no desire or intention, in other words, on the part of the government to keep business from making the substantial profits to which it is legitimately entitled.

"We believe that there is no justification whatever in fact for the idea that 'the country is being run by a bunch of wild-eyed radicals,' that 'the country has been given over to the labor unions,' or that we are embarked on any sort of an 'experiment' which is likely to send us all over the dam.

"We believe, in short, that this country is headed for a condition of things infinitely more sound and more satisfactory to all right-thinking people than the welsh-rarebit-dream condition which prevailed previous to 1929."

'YE REFORMS

On the other hand, other Wall Street men are frankly apprehensive over the disposition to push reform ahead of recovery and at the growth of bureaucracy.

There is in the Street an increasing feeling that President Roosevelt is seeking to pursue a reasonable middle course. The budget message was the turning point in making it clear that he was relying upon private industry to continue to carry the main burden of employment. The auto pact entailed important concessions to the revision of the Wagner bill and the cutting down on the CWA were other symptoms of conservatism at administration headquarters.

Though many scoffed when Henry Morgenthau, Jr., was elevated to the treasury post, he is showing considerable administrative ability. He asked to be judged by what he does in office, and thus far he has proceeded with sure-footed efficiency, and his reputation is growing.

By postponing the treasury refunding financing a month, Morgenthau probably got the benefit of slightly lower interest rates.

The completion of the operation clarifies the atmosphere, and is helpful to the general position of the investment market.

STOCKS RALLY ON FLOOD OF GOOD NEWS

NEW YORK, April 10.—(AP.)—A better tone in news gave the stock market a brisk upward push today and prices of the more active issues rallied 1 to around 2 points.

Equities responded blithely to the settlement of the motor strike at Detroit, to the substantial spurt in steel production and shipments, and to indications that the exchange control bill will not have as many sharp teeth as had been feared.

Commodities generally improved moderately, silver, cotton, rubber and copper adding to their recent gains. Wheat steadied on optimistic developments at the Rome conference. Secondary bonds recovered with stocks. The British pound was heavy, losing about 2 cents at one time.

After a slow opening, shares encountered expanded buying demand in the second hour and the ticker tape was pressed for a time. Trading quieted later. Automobile issues came back one to more than 2 points on the overnight labor agreement.

Nash Motors lost a point following yesterday's omission of the dividend. Consolidated Gas, Public Service of New Jersey and Columbia Gas were little better than even.

The failure of most of the utilities to reflect the brighter sentiment was not unexpected in view of the New York State Senate's action in reversing its previous stand by passing the municipal ownership bill, key measure in Gov. Lehman's utility reform program.

The trend in the steel industry was shown by the report of the United States Steel Corporation on its March shipments of finished products. The month's total was 588,209, tons compared with 385,500 tons in February and 256,793 in the same month last year. Shipments in March, 1932, amounted to 388,579 tons and in March, 1931, they were up to 907,251 tons.

The National Automobile Chamber of Commerce, at the same time, estimated March production by its members would total 262,156 cars and trucks compared with 175,386 in February, an increase of 49 per cent, and 84,983 in March last year, a gain of 208 per cent. All important motor producers, with the exception of Ford, are members of the chamber. The number of workers, it was said, was the largest since September, 1929. It was also stated that unfilled orders were exceptionally large.

Bar silver was again advanced ¼ of a cent an ounce to 46¾ cents. This equalled the high mark since 1930. The price of lead was also raised 15 points to 4.25 cents a pound.

WHEAT CLOSES AT ADVANCE

CHICAGO, April 10.—Big export purchases of Canadian wheat, 2,000,000 bushels, with talk of orders for 2,000,000 additional, helped today to life prices here.

Wheat market upturns were also stimulated by Senate Agricultural Committee approval of a silver purchase bill. For the first time since March 26, May wheat in Chicago advanced above 87 cents.

Wheat closed unsettled, ¼-½ higher than yesterday's finish, May, 86¾-7/8; corn, ⅛-⅜ up; oats unchange to ¼ advance, and provisions unchanged to a rise of 5 cents.

Higher Tax Advocate Dodges

By B. C. FORBES

THE FOREMOST "soak the rich" advocate in America is a rich man, a very rich man, a multi-millionaire.

Mr. Forbes

"That's patriotism!" you exclaim.

Not exactly. This extremely wealthy soaker of the rich has placed himself largely beyond reach of the kind of soaking he vehemently urges for others.

He cries aloud for the imposition of heavier and heavier burdens upon incomes, for larger and larger income taxes.

The "catch" is, however, that he has placed much of his own colosal income completely beyond the reach of income tax collectors.

This citizen is none other than James Couzens, the fortunate young man who raised a modest sum to invest with Henry Ford in the early days, later cashed in almost $40,000,000 and, as Will Rogers caustically remarked, "then sued Henry Ford for an accounting."

At this moment the honorable Senator Couzens is screeching his head off to induce Congress to compel others to hand over to the government a much bigger percentage of their income.

But he has never denied—I have personally asked him to deny it is a denial were possible—that he has invested much of his Ford-made fortune in tax-free bonds.

Thus has he sought safe refuge from doing his full share to support his government.

The public are hardly likely to accord the honorable Senator supremely high patriotic rating, now that they know how he has so largely eliminated himself from the ranks of income taxpayers.

If the facts are not as here stated, this column will be delighted to afford Senator Couzens a second opportunity to set the record straight. The honorable Senator owes it to himself not to remain silent longer if he is being unjustly maligned.

How about it, Senator Couzens?

IF ALL RICH MEN tucked away their fortunes in tax-exempt bonds, how would the government be kept out of bankruptcy?

THESE DAYS, when so many managements are being criticized, it is refreshing to note that at least some have retained the good will and gratitude of their stockholders.

Because nation-wide, world-wide conditions made it impossible for many companies to continue paying dividends, some stockholders have felt bitter. Publication of salaries and bonuses paid executives has not had a soothing influence upon certain stockholders, especially where losses have been incurred during the depression years.

Stirring up needless animosity among one class against another class does not make for stable social conditions at a time like this when there is so much dissatisfaction, so much discontent, so much distress, so much suffering throughout the commonwealth.

At the annual meeting the other day of the Pittsburgh Plate Glass Company, before the secretary could make the customary formal motion for approval of the annual report, a stockholder asked to be allowed to offer a resolution. He supplemented the ratification motion by this sentence:

"Furthermore, we, the stockholders, compliment the directors and officers of the company upon the satisfactory manner in which the business of the company has been conducted during the year just past, and we hereby reaffirm our confidence in the management of the company."

The stockholders of the International Business Machines Corporation also unanimously passed a resolution expressing their appreciation:

"To Thomas J. Watson, their president, for his matchless achievements as their president during a long term of years and for his honesty, integrity and worth as its executive officer. That the manner in which he carried our corporation through the depression has been masterful. That we express our supreme confidence in him as the guiding star of International Business Machines Corporation in the business world in the future."

It would be a sad, tragic day for America were everybody to reach the conclusion all business men, all employers, all executives were conscienceless grasping crooks, intent only upon self-aggrandizement.

Chickie's Daughter

By ELENORE MEHERIN

CHAPTER XL.

Pippin followed along, holding Lucy's little granddaughter by the hand and taking comfort from the smooth, firm little fingers clinging to hers. She stood on her toes, blinking and saying vaguely: "He's lost in the crowd."

Kathleen called sharply, tears running down her cheeks: "Kevin! Don't you see us?"

Kevin turned. A smile flashed over his face. He caught them, one in each arm, kissed them with a startled: "Darlings—how you've grown up!"

Pippin said, with tears and happiness filling her eyes: "We waited so long."

"Sweetheart, did you?"

It crystallized all her feeling. They had waited so long.

Mary had them all to breakfast. It was funny and infuriating and just a bit tragic as family parties are apt to be. Mary's oldest daughter, Janice, came with her little boy and girl. Lucy Adams with her married daughters and their young children. There were 15 of them.

Edward took the morning off. He wanted Kevin to talk, wanted to hear about Europe, about the clinic and the work the Germans were doing in chemistry. He glanced into the dining room, saw the places set for so many; hurriedly moved them about so that all the cousins and the babies were at one end while he and Kevin with Kathleen, his mother and Pippin were at the other.

Family Squabble

Janice caught him: "Well, Edward, selfish as usual! You'll be staying right on here with Kevin and can hear all he has to tell. But this is my only chance. He's my brother, too!"

Edward gave her a tart smile: "After all, Jan, the little darlings are yours. If you MUST park them at a table with grown-ups is it unreasonable to ask that you be the one on whom the milk gets spilled?"

"They have nice table manners. They're civilized children until you begin to pick on them. Deliberately inciting them to meanness."

"Very apt pupils, dear. There's no such a thing as a civilized child."

Mary frowned. It distressed her bitterly when her children quarreled. She had picked on her own but her Jimmy and he was much sweeter-natured than Edward. But now, as she sat at the head of the table, so glad to have Kevin home, and as she looked at the young, eager, shining faces, she felt a beauty in life, a great deep richness. If they would but sit there and keep smiling, prolong this sweet, peaceful moment. But no! They must glare at each other; must say needless, wounding things, hurt looks in their eyes. Mary was weary of it.

She remembered when Edward was a baby. Two years later, Janice, with a fleece of gold on her head, lay in the cradle where, yesterday, the little boy had slept. They were devoted as children. She had dreamed happily of their future. But now they didn't like each other. Janice was smug, tiresome, kitchen-minded, in her brother's opinion. Whenever she came to the house, Edward hurt her.

Feels Life Futile

After all the love you lavish on them, Mary thought, and all the hope—to have them flying at each other! It makes life so futile.

Janice moved her place so that she was immediately within the charmed circle. She leaned over and smiled in Kevin's face: "You look awfully thin. Did you work very hard?" Before he had a chance to answer: "You never did hear all about Bobby's broken leg?"

"Yes, I heard," said Kevin. "It's all better, isn't it?"

"Yes," grudgingly, "but do you know how long he was in bed and I carrying trays and propping pillows? Were we worried! You should have seen how pale he grew. The bone was crushed. Very complicated."

Edward rattled the spoon in his coffee. "Tell Kevin about it, Jan. He's probably not seen a broken leg in the last three years. He's only a surgeon, you know. Give him a little lesson on reducing the fracture, will you?"

"Well, Edward, I imagine Kevin wants to hear about his family!"

"Of course he does! Don't mind Edward," championed Aunt Lucy. "Sit up straight, Dora, and don't guzzle the orange juice. Swallow it quickly and you can recite your poem for cousin Kevin."

"What were you saying about the little inns in the Alps?" Mary interposed. "I've always dreamed of climbing those mountains. Please go on, Kevin."

Tells Kevin News

"Oh say, did you hear that cousin Lizzie died? The poor old maid!" interrupted Lucy's daughter. "She certinly didn't get much out of life."

"And old man McMurder was run down by an automobile. Practically every bone in his body broken. Dora! Will you stop drinking through your napkin! Go in the kitchen if you can't behave. As I was saying—"

"Oh—did you hear about the bank crash, Kevin? I was riding down town that lovely June day. You should have seen Montgomery street. And North Beach! Crowds gathered excitedly—arms waving—"

"It was nothing to the earthquake down South. Kevin, you can't imagine."

He tried to follow a dozen different shouts all uttered at the same moment, while Mary made vain, smiling efforts to fling the conversation back to Europe.

Kevin looked tired and bewildered. He kept wondering why Janice and Lucy talked so much and so excitedly about nothing. Strange how the law of heredity works: just chance whether you get into one family or another; whether you're born a genius or a dumbbell. Or is it?

"I want to give you a dinner party, Kevin. Just a nice quiet family affair.

Edward roared: "Are the children invited, Janice?"

"Yes, Edward, you may come. Bring a large bib."

In her indignation, Janice shoved against her young son who was zealously pouring syrup on a waffle. The waffle, the syrup jug, knife, fork and butter dumped on the floor. The poor child screamed in self-defense: "You made me do that! Why don't you look what you're doing?"

Pippin Exhausted

All the mothers jumped up and were mopping the table at once.

Kevin and Edward exchanged glances.

"May we be excused?" said Edward sweetly. "I've got to be at the office. Come upstairs a moment, Kevin? Bring your coffee."

Pippin sank back exhausted—very much let down. She had waited three years for this!

But they had their moment. Edward left. Then the two girls rushed up to Kevin's room.

They knocked softly, insistently. Pippin called through the keyhole: "Let your old sweetheart in!"

He opened the door a crack. They thrust their shoulders against the panel, and laughing, burst into the room.

"Now look here," said Kevin, "young ladies all grown up can't come into a man's bedroom. It's not done."

"Don't think you can high-hat us, big boy! Just because you've been taking your fling with all the little fraulleins and telling them what's what. You're only a brother to us even if you were the demon lover to them."

Seems Far Away

"Prepare to talk, darling. We're going to hear about Europe!"

Kathleen flopped down on the large studio couch. Mary had removed a partition and made a large bed-and-sitting room for Kevin with wide book shelves in the alcove, a big desk and deep comfortable chairs.

"How do you like the way we fixed your bachelor quarters? Pippin and I arranged the books. Very intelligently. And glance at the new shower. That ought to compensate you for leaving all the dear things in Europe."

Kevin, with his back half turned, brushed his thick, black hair. "You think I've been on a romantic tour de luxe, do you?"

"But are the girls over there very seductive?"

"Very, anywhere!"

They could see his profile and that he was grinning and a little flush stole along his cheeks. He looked so strong and tall; not much older.

Pippin wished he would turn. The black hair making a ripple above his temples excited her. Yet he seemed far away. She wanted him to come over, laugh down at her, say some sweet, happy thing. She wanted to be 16 again, free to adore—

She thought with a sudden bitter pang, "He's gone—he's lost."

The Beauty Box

By HELEN FOLLETT

Few women house their feet in comfortable quarters. The shoe that places the sole of the foot full width on the floor isn't seen very often, but that's the kind of a shoe that should be worn for health and comfort. If spiked heels and narrow shoes must be worn for vanity's sake, give the little pedals time off now and then by wearing straw sandals no stockings—in the house. Feet like the air. Does like to unhuddle. This practice is a help when the flesh tingles and callosities set up a twinging protest.

When finger nails have become stained because house cleaning had to be done and hands were not properly protected, dip the orange wood stick in peroxide of hydrogen, then in powdered pumice stone, force the paste-like mixture under the cuticle. This combination is also convenient for working up cuticle and hangnails that stick persistently to the nail surface. Soften the flesh beforehand by soaking in warm soap suds and frictioning with a nail brush.

LOBBY OF HOUSE AT WASHINGTON DURING PASSAGE OF THE CIVIL RIGHTS BILL

From Harpers Weekly, 1866.

In April, 1866, Congress passed the Civil Rights Bill over the veto of President Johnson as part of the reconstruction measures. The bill made the freedmen (former slaves) citizens of the United States with all their rights.

As it gave rise to much controversy, the constitutionality challenged, its advocators were anxious to make the Civil Rights Bill a national law beyond the reach of future Congresses. They succeeded in incorporating it in the 14th amendment of the Constitution adopted 1868.

RECONSTRUCTION OF EUROPE—CONGRESS OF VIENNA (1814-1815)

After Napoleon's power crumbled and he was banished to Elba, rulers and diplomats gathered in Vienna, to reconstruct Europe, chiefly according to the wishes of the five dominating powers (Austria, Britain, France, Russia, Prussia). Napoleon's reappearance and his "Hundred Days Reign" interrupted the Congress to be resumed after the Battle of Waterloo and Napoleon's imprisonment on the Island St Helena.

The Congress restored in the main the old dynasties, while wishes of the peoples—rooted in racial, linguistic and economic ties—were ignored. A lose confederation of the German states was designed to maintain the power of Austria, so the small principalities established in Italy; also Poland remained divided. Restraint of civil liberties, heavy taxation on the masses paved the way for future struggle for liberation. LIVER, THE LARGEST HUMAN GLAND after Gerrish

The liver, on the right side just below the diaphragm, is divided into four lobes and has 5 sets of vessels: 1, branches of portal vein; 2, bile ducts, 3, branches of hepatic artery; 4, branches of hepatic veins; 5, lymphatics. Its nerves are derived from the left vagus and the autonomic system. The liver consists of many minute livers, called lobules, composed of hepatic cells, held together by areolar tissue. Hepatic cells have three functions; 1, they manufacture the bile, a yellow, bitter fluid, from parts of the blood; this is collected and poured into the intestines to aid digestion; gall—bladder serves as reservoir for bile. 2, they withdraw some glucose (a carbohydrate derived from digested and absorbed food) from blood coming from the intestines, change it into animal starch or glycogen, storing it. When the body needs more glucose than food furnishes, the glycogen is reconverted into glucose by the liver cells and released into blood. A secretion of the liver cells regulates this function. 3, Hepatic cells have protective function; they act upon wastes of protein digestion, converting them into urea etc. which kidneys can eliminate. They finish the disintegration of worn out red blood corpuscles started in the spleen; they also secret heparin, a substance concerned with prevention of blood-clotting in the blood vessels. VIVIEN APPLIES CHARM TO SPELLBIND MERLIN

The second of Tennyson's "Idylls of the King"—following the Coming of Arthur—presents the King's Court in his early days, narrating the romance of Gareth and Lynette. The third deals with the unfounded jealousy of Knight Geraint toward his patient wife, Enid, finally vindicated. The fourth idyll pictures honest but violent Balin, who, when catching a glimpse of the intrigue between Queen Guinevere and Lancelot, tears the queen's crown from his shield. Mistaken by his brother, Balan, for a demon, he is attacked; both die.

The fifth idyll treats of Merlin and Vivien. Merlin, the enchanter, in whose arms the infant Arthur, coming from a mysterious world, was washed by a great wave, educated the king. Wily Vivien's father was killed in fight against Arthur. She is determined to undermine the latter's court in revenge. Vivien accompanies Merlin, extracts from him the secret of a charm, only to apply it to him by closing him forever in an oak tree. (English Literature)

SODIUM CARBONATE BY SOLVAY PROCESS

Ammoniacal brine enters at top of carbonating tower and forms with the carbon dioxide (won from decomposition of sodium acid carbonate, produced in this process) sodium bicarbonate (NaHCO3) and ammonium chloride (NH4Cl) in a series of reactions.

The sodium bicarbonate is filtered out and decomposed by heat (not shown), into sodium carbonate and carbon dioxide (the latter introduced in the carbonating tower). From NH4Cl is ammonia (NH3) obtained by mixing it with lime water (in tank A), the ammonia is used with the sodium chloride solution (in tank B) to prepare the ammoniacal brine. Diagram of the apparatus and equations of reactions are shown above. The process is continuous and economical. Only sodium chloride, lime, coal and some ammonia are used up. (Chemistry) (50—III—A)

Prime the Recovery Pump With McLeod Bank Bill

Payment of Ruined Depositors Will Boom Business

The United States government has been giving away glass eyes and wooden legs to decrepit citizens in various parts of the country.

It has authorized the sifting of the sands on some of our public bathing beaches.

It has also fed, clothed and sheltered hundreds of thousands of our people this last winter.

In short, it has poured out money by the thousands of millions for relief and recovery, on a vast number of projects, many wise, some foolish.

On the whole, it has been justified in so doing. Unquestionably its action has averted much misery.

But our bountiful government has been singularly NEGLECTFUL of ten millions of our worthiest men and women who deserve aid as much as anybody else, and most of whom need aid as much as anybody else.

These are the depositors in the closed banks of the Federal Reserve System, whose lifetime savings have been wiped out at one blow THROUGH NO FAULT OF THEIR OWN.

The government morally guaranteed those deposits. But the depositors who relied on that moral guaranty, and who left their money in those banks at the government's urging, have been whistling for it ever since.

That is governmental unfairness and injustice — and STUPIDITY—of the most glaring kind, to call it by no worse names.

Simple justice requires that such depositors be repaid. And ordinary intelligence requires that they be repaid. For the return of their savings to depositors would not only put THEM on their feet, but would be the most effective recovery measure yet attempted.

The "thawing out" of these deposits would raise the purchasing power of the nation immeasurably.

It would stimulate trade, industry, employment.

And the government WOULD NOT LOSE by it.

The McLeod bill now before Congress, which authorizes this "thawing out," empowers the government to take over the assets of the closed banks and to sell them within the next 10 years—thus recouping itself from the higher prices which these assets will bring as business generally improves.

Right now these assets cannot be sold for anything like their real value.

Within a few years, however, they can be sold at their real value, and the government can get its money back.

That is the essence of the McLeod bill, and that is why it is fair to the government as well as to the depositors.

The McLeod bill ought to be passed.

It ought to be passed NOW.

The longer it is delayed, the longer the victims of the bank smash must suffer.

And the longer it is delayed, the longer we must wait for recovery.

We are glad to say that many members of Congress have enough justice in their characters, and enough brains in their heads, to indorse Representative McLeod's measure.

The hearings on the bill have developed gratifying support. This support must be translated into action. Every Representative, every Senator, should get behind it at once and PUT IT OVER.

There is a moral obligation on the part of Congress to do it.

And there is the cogent, common sense reason that it would "prime the recovery pump" for the whole nation.

For What Are We Voting?

The Candidates Should Clearly State Their Position on Public Questions

In little more than a month Pennsylvanians will nominate candidates for United States Senator, Governor, and other offices.

A host of aspirants for the nominations are in the field. They ask us to vote for them, but few have submitted any reasons why we should.

Let Senator Reed be credited with being the first of the major candidates to present a clear, succinct statement of his position on the public questions in which the citizens are interested. Whatever may be thought of his platform, it must be admitted that he has not "straddled" any important issue, or been vague in telling where he stands. We need more candidates like that.

Good government cannot be promoted by voting blindly. For what are we voting? What are the candidates' principles? What do they favor? What do they oppose?

Citizens should demand that candidates who solicit their votes say what they will do, or not do, if elected.

Highway Slide Hazards

The Authorities Should Look for Loose Earth and Rocks on the New Roads

Tons of loose rock slipped down a mountain near West Point Sunday onto a highway crowded with automobiles, struck three machines, killed three persons and injured three others.

That is a danger with which motorists are now faced on some of the new roads in the vicinity of Pittsburgh.

A huge mass of rock weighing many tons worked loose from the cliffside near Stoops Ferry a couple of weeks ago, and there is serious danger of other rock slides in the same locality.

A heavy rain scarcely ever occurs without bringing a shower of rocks down upon the new Flaugherty's Run road near the point of its intersection with the Brodhead road.

These are merely examples of a situation that is general.

Conditions are particularly bad right now because earth and rock have been loosened by the frosts of winter and the recent heavy rains, especially in cuts on new highways.

State and county highway authorities should carefully look for places where there is danger of slides and take the proper precautions, that we may be spared a tragedy like that which occurred in New York.

No Joke

Even If It Is Funny.

Adolf Hitler's mustache looks like Charlie Chaplin's.

But if you say so in Germany it would be better to cry about it than to laugh. Otherwise you will go to jail.

Orders have been issued to the police to arrest persons who tell funny stories about members of the government.

It's a pity the news dispatch which reports this new Nazi insanity doesn't tell some of the stories.

They must be pretty funny if they frighten the government so much.

Let Uncle Sam Keep Faith!

(Copyright, 1934.)

Pending in Congress is a banking measure which ought to be enacted without delay.

This measure is the McLeod Bill.

It proposes, very simply and very justly, to DO SOMETHING about ten millions of hapless depositors in banks belonging to the Federal Reserve System which have been forbidden to re-open their doors—and the thing that the McLeod Bill PROPOSES to do is the actual thing that the Federal Government OUGHT to do.

For this bill would authorize the Federal Government to take over for its own account the "frozen assets" of these 1,448 banks, issue currency upon the assets, pay the depositors with this new currency, and, in the course of ten years, gradually liquidate the assets, thereby reimbursing itself and retiring the currency from circulation.

For two compelling reasons, the Government ought to do this.

One reason is to fulfill AN OBLIGATION OF NATIONAL HONOR.

By its jurisdiction over Federal Reserve member banks, the Federal Government—intentionally or not—gave depositors a tacit assurance of competent supervision over their banks, and of safety for their savings.

Relying on this assurance, these depositors, many of them, let their money remain in the banks, as the government itself urged them to do, when less patriotic citizens were withdrawing their funds and hoarding.

Consequently, there is a definite MORAL DUTY resting upon the government to relieve these misinformed depositors.

And in the second place, such a reimbursement would be a constructive contribution to economic recovery.

It would put into circulation at once nearly ONE THOUSAND MILLION DOLLARS, adding this fruitful volume of currency to the supply of money wherewith retail purchases are made and, in the numerous industries, wages are paid and raw materials are bought.

It would be altogether right and proper for the Federal Government to make the McLeod Bill an operative law if ONLY as an ethical consideration.

Congress should enact the McLeod Bill IMMEDIATELY.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, April 10.—Many boys about town are credited as inventors of that tasty and highly potent libation—the Side Car cocktail. Tippy Gray, Jay O'Brien, Ben Finney and Harry Craddock of London's Savoy bar are among legendary sponsors. But not one had anything to do with it.

Here is the true, unimpeachable story of its origin. Basil Woon, Erskine Gwynne and Joe Thompson arrived in rue Danou one evening at proper time for tiffin. John, the bartender at Henri's for years, was late. But finally half-staggered in with a bleeding forehead.

He explained his motorcycle with a side car was hors de combat, likewise his wife, but here he was and what would it be, gentlemen? Thompson ordered Cointreau. Woon a wine and Erskine, on the wagon, desired Orange bitters. Dazed from his mishap, John thought they were the ingredients cocktail crazy Americans had conceived and shook them up together. Et voila, the Side Car!

The mixture proved delicious. Each had three and immediately started out to ring doorbells. John has long since retired to his "propriete," for, like all bartenders, he has one down in Vaucluse. Now at the local bistro he often recalls to his townsmen how the Side Car was born!

Still a personable juvenile, Ernest Glendenning has completed 31 years on the American stage. Born in England, he made his debut in a walk-on part with his parents. In his day he has played more than 300 different roles and can still show youngsters how to carry gloves, twirl a stick and tilt a silk hat.

Among newspapermen in New York the sartorial gift is—or was when I saw him last—best expressed by George Buchanan Fyfe. He can wear the white tie, morning coat or plus fours with the sang froid of a Picadilly blood. It was Fyfe who swung out of Churchill's one sunny noonday with Joe Drum and James Montgomery Flagg. "Ah," cried Frank Ward O'Malley hurtling from a cab, "The Spirit of '76!"

Theatrical folk are trying to coax Raymond Hitchcock's widow, Flora Zabelle, to sponsor an Armenian restaurant, one of those select, shadowy places where talk is not so important as food excellence. Miss Zabelle, daughter of an Armenian scholar, has, since her retirement from the stage, long been hostess to her friends at quiet little spreads at her Great Neck estate and knows all the cuisine subleties of her race.

More than 600 private New York yachts will remain in dry dock this summer. Remindful of the time the elder J. P. Morgan was asked how much it cost to maintain a yacht. "Anyone," he replied, "who asks that question shouldn't own one."

And it was Rodin, I think, who, when asked by Lillian Russel how best to learn the art of sculping, replied witheringly: "Just get a block of marble and knock off what you don't want."

I have been captivated by a small painting in a Madison avenue art store window portraying a chateau brooding at the edge of a pond of untramarine splendor. To toss in a note of emotion the artist has a sleeping kitten coiled on a window sill. The tug for the picture—it has been sold—is because it encompasses almost the exact vista of a recurrent dream of mine since juvenile years. Many times in deep sleep I have walked beside the replica of that pond. Only to glance down to discover I was without a stitch of clothes! * * *

No race responds with a fitting term like the English. I recall in Simpson's on the Strand one day at lunch when a steaming roast of beef was trundled up to a wan-looking customer who had every appearance of a bad night out. Holding an aching head between his hands while the server stood with knife poised, he finally murmured in faint sigh: "Just a hang-nail, please."

But a small town beats the world with the apt nickname. There was a red-mustached steamboatman in our town who had his mustache dyed black in the city. Two days later it was a deep purple and, even worse, the following week it was a poisonous green. Ever after he was known as "Easter Egg" Jones.

Once I thought that valor
Came from clash of swords.
Rode along in armor,
Rang through splendid words.
Only great men knew it,
Fierce and daring souls
With their hopes forever
Fixed on lofty goals.

Shows me otherwise
Valor, steadfast, looking
From an old man's eyes,
Valor where a mother

LISTEN, WORLD!

'Women Are Always Politics'

DO WOMEN MAKE GOOD POLITICIANS?

SHOULD WOMEN TAKE PART IN POLITICS?

JUST WHAT IS THE INTELLIGENT WOMAN'S POSITION AND POWER—IF ANY—IN THIS MODERN WORLD

You've asked those questions. If you're a man, you've probably asked them resentfully, with a patronizing grin or a disgusted snort. And you've wound up with several regretful references to the Dear Old Days when Women Knew Their Places. Also a touching description of Mother sitting beside the fireside knitting . . . or presiding over the family soup kettle while the men did their stuff. Which, according to you, is precisely where women should be and what they should do.

If you're a woman, chances are you have answered those questions with even greater heat. And added a blistering broadcast on what We Girls would accomplish if Men—the old Meanies—would give us our chance. Which you think would settle things. But you'd still like confirming evidence.

You'll find it in Simon and Schuster's latest book—"THE NEW DEALERS," by "Unofficial Observer." This book tells about the people who are running America today. Not only running it, but expressing America's current needs and attitudes.

There's a chapter about "Mrs. F. D. R."—Eleanor Roosevelt. It's a curious chapter. It tells, possibly, more about the Modern American Woman's place, and power, than whole encyclopedias have succeeded in doing. But whether you're going to like what it says, or not, is a matter of viewpoint.

In the first place, there's the picture of the woman herself—that amiable, lovable, unconventional dynamo, with her indomitable energy, her insatiable curiosity about everything and everybody. A lady who goes places, does things—has ideas, packs a wallop, puts herself across. Suddenly you see her leaping in league long lopes across our American skyline, where hitherto females have timidly toddled. Goody-goody! What a cheering prospect for us other lady voters!

But wait a minute! Something's wrong with this picture. Mrs. Roosevelt taking a night flight with Amelia Earhart . . . Mrs. Roosevelt resolutely visiting the second Bonus Army Camp, shaking hands with the leaders, leading in a rendition of "The Long, Long Trail" . . . Mrs. Roosevelt running a furniture factory, teaching in a girls' school, reporting industrial conditions, sponsoring relief experiments . . . this is all as it should be.

But now look see! How come this frightful inconsistency? With all this freedom—all this wonderful opportunity to set an example to other emancipated females—MRS. ROOSEVELT INSISTS ON BEING AN OLD-FASHIONED HOUSEKEEPER!

She sits and knits! She plays with babies! She buys cough medicine and winter flannels for the family males! And, come Sunday night, she personally cooks the scrambled eggs, bacon and hot chocolate!

AND SHE RARELY TALKS POLITICS PER SE, ISN'T EVEN INTERESTED IN 'EM—IN THE USUAL SUFFRAGETTE SENSE. BUT WHILE SHE KNITS, WHILE SHE SCRAMBLES THOSE EGGS, OTHER PEOPLE TALK—MORE AND MORE PEOPLE TALK—MORE AND MORE THINGS HAPPEN!

So what? Is, or isn't that a boost for Lady Politicians?

The "Unofficial Observer" sums it all up in this simple paragraph—

* * *

"WOMEN ARE OCCASIONALLY POLITICIANS BUT ARE ALWAY POLITICS. Putting it bluntly, politics (which is our way of controlling economics) is the means by which men attempt to protect, feed and clothe their women-folk and thus enable them to rear their young.

"Such women as Eleanor Roosevelt may or may not be adept in political manipulation; in themselves they are the ambassadors of the one fundamental interest of society . . . IT IS ENOUGH THAT WOMEN LIKE ELEANOR ROOSEVELT SHALL BE THEMSELVES. BY SO DOING THEY SET IN MOTION THE FORCES THAT RULE THE WORLD."

Should or shouldn't women be in politics? There's the answer. "WOMEN ARE POLITICS." Women are the reason for politics . . . the cause around which all politics revolve. Eleanor Roosevelt, bearing six children and raising five . . . serving her simple beans, oatmeal and meat loaf . . . helping her sick husband by teaching school and making furniture . . . scrambling the affairs of the nation in with her Sunday night eggs and bacon . . . sitting knitting and laughing by her fireside . . . wields greater political power than all of Tammany.

So DOES ANY OTHER WOMAN WHO KNOWS HER STUFF!

Young Americans Advised To Read Pershing Book

By James T. Williams, Jr.

To be prepared for war is one of the most effectual means of preserving peace.—George Washington.

SINCE the Great War ended the American people have wisely added another day of national observance to the calendar of American patriotism.

Every year they observe on April 6 the anniversary of the entrance of the United States into the Great War as Army Day.

On this anniversary "the household of the nation" flies the flag in honor of our defenders with the colors in the field and in the air.

It is a wise custom to set apart this anniversary, as a day on which the people gladly acknowledge their obligation to the Army of the United States, whose record in peace and war has but to be recalled to quicken the pride of every true American.

It is a wise custom also because the anual observance of this national anniversary offers an opportunity for every conscientious citizen to take thought of the future in the light of the lessons to be learned from the past.

And there is no better way for young Americans, who constitute alike the hope and the defense of this country in the days to come, to learn these lessons of yesterday in preparation for the duties of tomorrow than by reading one of the most interesting and informing books of recent years, "My Experiences in the World War," by John J. Pershing, general of the armies.

* * *

Recalls Memories Of Unpreparedness

IN THIS epochal book Gen. Pershing revives memories that must be handed down to the young men in schools and colleges all over this country, as they prepare themselves to go forward in the great tradition that they inherit from the father of his country and from his comrades, who from the foundation of the republic have served and trained to serve the flag in peace and war.

These are memories of the apalling state of our unpreparedness for national defense, when the United States entered the Great War on April 6, 1917.

These are the memories of the unnecessary sacrifices of lives and wastes of treasure which was the price we paid for our traditional neglect to provide for "the common defense" against the day of a call to arms.

Gen. Pershing, who was the commander-in-chief of the American Expeditionaly Forces, gives it as his firm belief—and his view is supported by the foremost European leaders—that had the United States possessed an army of five hundred thousand available for immediate service in 1917, one of two things would have happened:

Either this country would not have been forced to enter the war or, if we had been, the war would have ended in victory for our cause at least a year earlier than it did. Every conscientious American will think each year during this anniversary month of April of the saving in lives and treasure which would have been achieved in either event.

* * *

A Year's Delay In Entering Fight

IN THE vivid picture which Gen. Pershing draws of the condition of unpreparedness of this country in April, 1917, these salient points are emphasized.

One whole year passed before even one division of American troops—twenty-five thousand men—could be sufficiently trained and equipped to engage in battle.

One whole year and a half elapsed before the United States was able to organize and place in battle an all-American army.

And even then—a year and a half after Congress declared war in April, 1917—all machine guns, artillery guns and amunition, airplanes, and other essential equipment had to be supplied to Gen. Pershing's army by French and British factories.

This was the price which the American people paid for the folly of Congress after Congress, which carried disarmament to the nth degree.

Disarmament of the United States did not "keep us out of war" in April, 1917. It did not "keep us out of war" in April, 1898. It did not "keep us out of war" in 1861. It did not "keep us out" of any war of the past.

These lessons, drawn from American history, ought to prove to intelligent citizens that it will not "keep us out of war" in the future, for the very reason that George Washington foresaw when he said "to be prepared for war is one of the most effectual means of preserving peace."

The United States Government Moves to Stop Smuggling Over the Mexican Border.

By Edwin C. Hill

THERE'S dramatic news in the announcement that Uncle Sam, with extra men and airplanes, is determined to stamp out smuggling over the Mexican border. Dramatic news and a stirry story behind the news. For over that long border of the Rio Grande River from El Paso to San Diego, smuggling is big business—smuggling of Chinamen at a thousand dollars a head; smuggling of bootleg liquor; and worst of all, smuggling of dope by the ton.

Thrilling scenes are enacted almost every night along the great stretch of more than one thousand miles, as the Border Patrol, a little force of brave and devoted federal officers, battle to the death against hired bad men who once terrorized entire cities. Small as it is, the United States Border Patrol deserves to take rank with the Royal Canadian Mounted Police and the Texas Rangers.

For if we were down along the border tonight, somewhere, we would hear the drumming roar of an airplane engine, the splashing of oars in the muddy Rio Grande, a muffled whistle. And suddenly a beam of white light would stab the darkness, and to our ears would come the ringing challenge: "Halt! We are federal officers" But they don't always halt or flee back across the river, those hired killers whose business is smuggling.

Exciting Encounter With Smugglers

ONLY a few nights ago, six men of the Border Patrol were crouching in the underbrush by the Rio Grande, listening, in muscle-cramped silence. Out in the middle of the stream there was a faint splashing. And then, like drifting shadows, 16 men came up the river bank carrying a heavy load. From their hiding place in the brush the six men of the Border Patrol sprang into the open and threw their challenge.

A volley of bullets was their answer. Patrolman Dorne Melton pitched forward, shot through the heart. Red flashes pierced the fog. Francisco Gonzales, smuggler, coughed, swayed forward and died. Hicinio Perez screamed like a wounded animal, whirled in his tracks and departed swiftly for another world.

Half surrounded and outnumbered, the Border Patrol drove the smugglers back and back until, finally, they broke and fled for the protection of the river and Mexican soil. And among the discarded cases and packages, huddled upon a bed of muddy leaves, sightless eyes turned toward the pitying stars, lay the Border Patrolman, his pall a fog of pistol smoke, his incense the odor of burnt powder.

So death comes by night to the southwestern border, as this little band of brave men look out over the yellow Rio Grande and drive back the white poison that crazes men's minds.

Circus Continues To Draw Crowds

THE CIRCUS, most romantic and glamorous of all human shows, packs 'em in at New York's Madison Square Garden, another index, of returning better times. And Dr. Dexter Fellows, suavest and subtlest of press agents, the most colorful figure in the circus world since P. T. Barnum, watches the inflow with pardonable pride.

There's drama in the circus, especially when a young man, smartly clad in white flannels and glittering patent leather boots, leaps into the ring and cracks his whip in successive pistol shots over the heads of 28 huge cats of the jungle. There's a thrill in that spectacle that tingles right up the backbone. The old, old suspense and dread that one of the big cats might jump. The young man in the cage of lions and tigers is Clyde Beatty. He has the gift.

The Good Book tells us the story of the first lion tamer. His name was Daniel. He wasn't a professional and he had no special zest for the game. He was simply gifted. Like young Clyde Beatty, he had the knack of it in his bones. And Clyde, this 29-year-old Ohio boy, who doesn't weigh an ounce over 150, and who is very boyish and likable with his light brown hair, his steady gray eyes and the freckles that scatter all over his face, leaps daily into a great, iron-fenced arena, squarely into the midst of 40 lions and tigers that would tear him to pieces if he ever turned his back for a split second.

Clyde comes from Chillicothe, and when the circus rolls into town, everybody goes to see him except his mother. The sight of her boy among those great cats clad in his white shirt, white riding breeches, black sash and highly-polished, black boots, armed only with a light whip, is too much for his mother's heart. She stays at home and listens with her heart in her mouth for the telephone to ring. And the first thing that young Beatty does when he springs from the cage is to dash to the nearest phone and tell mother tnat the jungle cats have been fooled again.

He's been clawed twice, once when he sprung in to stop a battle to the death between a Nubian lion and a Bengal tiger, and again in Peru, Ind., when he turned his back on his favorite lion. The treacherous brute, Nero clawed him down and he was saved from a terrible death by no more than the wink of an eye.
